Plane Disappears In Violent Winds On Pacific Coast

Hope Fades for Rescue of 9 Air Force Crewmen Aboard

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A storm in the Pacific Ocean kicked up violent weather in Washington and Oregon today, with heavy rain and snow and hurricane force winds. Some of the storm's fury extended inland to the northern Rockies where wind gusts exceeded 40 m.p.h.

A widespread air and ground search began at daybreak today over rugged, snow-covered terrain northeast of Spokane, for an Air Force KC135 jet tanker that presumbaly crashed Thursday night with nine Air Force men aboard.

Hope faded for all nine. Darkness, gale force winds, dense fog, snow and rain had hindered efforts to launch a comprehensive search throughout the night. Snow was up to five feet deep in the vast search area.

One of the crew members was listed as Capt. Herbert Zoeller, 30, a native of Watertown, Wis.

An Air Force search plane flew over the area today with infrared equipment, hoping to detect heat from any wreckage.

aboard were stationed, when it vanished from the base radar screen shortly after 6 p.m. It was en route from Hickam Field in Hawaii.

Wreckage Found

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—The wreckage of a KC135 jet tanker that vanished Thursday night over rugged mile-high country northeast of here has been sighted, an Air Force spokesman reported today. There was no sign of life.

The civilian snowcat drivers, Jerry Ellis and Dell Kerr, reported they sighted the wreckage and one body in a mountainous area near 4,970-foot Rathdrum Bald.

The area is about 40 miles northeast of Spokane, and about five miles southwest of the base search camp set up earlier today by the Air Force.

Ground search parties headed into the area on snow vehicles. Snowshoe experts were taken along to search on foot if necessary.

Lost on Radar

There were earlier reports of signals from what could have been a survival radio, but Col Woodrow Abbott, commander of the 92nd Aerospace Wing, said that did not necessarily mean there were survivors. He said the radio could have been activated by the impact of the crash

The plane was making an approach to land at Fairchild Air Force Base, where all those

Korea Admits Shelled Boat Was Off North

Red Officials Say 'Punishment' Was Deserved

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—South Korean Defense Minister Kim Sung-eun admitted today that the patrol boat sunk by Communist shore batteries Thursday was off North Korea's east coast but claimed it was in international waters.

Kim told the National Assembly's defense committee the "totally unwarranted" sinking occurred three miles north of the military demarcation line and four miles off the coast. The statement indicated that South Korea considers North Korea's territorial waters to extend three miles offshore, the usual in international law.

North Korea's official Korean Central News Agency said the sinking was "deserving punishment" for a territorial violation and warned that similar retaliation would follow any further land, sea or air violations. It said the incident occurred 3.9 miles north of the demarcation line and 3.5 miles off the coast.

South Korea has no declared territorial waters but has established a 12-mile zone for fishing

The Defense Ministry said Thursday that the sinking occurred in South Korean waters and the South Korean navy said the 650-ton patrol boat went down 4.5 miles southeast of the demarcation line.

Twelve of the 51 men rescued died later, and 28 others are missing and believed dead.

South Korean and United Nations Command officials said the vessel, assigned to protect 70 fishing boats, was shelled as it tried to retrieve some of the boats that had strayed too far north.

U.S. Loses 4 Airmen in Raid on North

2 Planes Downed As Strikes Near Hanoi Continue

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — American bombers hammered at North Vietnamese rail yards and main rail lines Thursday for the fourth straight day but two of the planes and four fliers did not return, U.S. military headquarters reported today.

Many of the strikes were against the northeast line, along "MIG Valley" in the Red River Delta, but there was no report of any MIGs rising to challenge the American raiders.

Ground fighting in South Vietnam was confined to small, scattered engagements, but allied commanders reported a series of clashes from the southern tip of the country through the northern provinces.

SAIGON (AP)—Operation Cedar Falls turned up a massive tunnel today within the Iron Triangle that may have served as the long-sought headquarters of the Viet Cong's 4th Military Region, from which Communists have launched attacks on Saigon outposts.

Men of the U.S. 196th Light Infantry Brigade probed the tunnel. Brig. Gen Richard T. Knowles, the brigade commander, said they found maps, plans, weapons, booby traps and some guerrillas within the vast boring, 25 miles northeast of Saigon.

Sweep Launched

South Vietnamese headquarters reported a government force of regimental size—about 1,500 men — launched a search-and-destroy sweep in southernmost An Xuyen Province and in the first day killed 16 Viet Cong. This was one of five scattered

Planes Continue Caribbean Hunt

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Planes and ships continued to search the eastern Caribbean today but there was still no clue to the disappearance of the wealthy daughter of the U.S. ambassador to Britain, her husband, and their pilot on a charter flight Tuesday from San Juan to the Virgin Islands.

Commercial DC7s of Caribbean Atlantic Airlines joined military and civilian search planes Thursday, flying a few hundred feet over the water to look for Mr. and Mrs. Stephen R. Currier of New York, and John D. Watson, the pilot.

Republicans Demand Better Course for War

Ford Vows To Oppose Tax Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Appraising the state of a "vexed and troubled" union, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen has prescribed reinforced U.S. determination and "a more vigorous effort on land, sea and in the air" to end the war in Vietnam.

And House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford has vowed Republican opposition to a wartime tax increase until President Johnson makes "a convincing case" for the boost he seeks.

The two minority leaders delivered their joint appraisal Thursday night before some 250 Republican colleagues in the Capitol's hot, crowded old Supreme Court chamber.

Ford said November's election victories gave the GOP a mandate to chart "a new direction" for America. "As we look ahead, Republicans see a program of sensible solutions for the seventies," he said.

Solutions for 60s

"Why don't we come up with some positive solutions for the sixties?" Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield asked later.

Another Democrat was more caustic in his assessment of the appraisal.

"I gather that Messrs. Dirksen and Ford are strongly in support of the Vietnam war, but strongly opposed to paying for it," said Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn. "This would have those who are fighting and dying make the only sacrifice."

But there were only Republicans to cheer, no Democrats to chide, when Dirksen and Ford delivered the twin speeches they said were neither replies nor rebuttals to the State of the Union message Johnson took to Congress 10 days ago.

Ford outlined Republican domestic proposals, listing a stream of GOP offerings which

Bill Offered on New UW Site

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The bill to change the site of the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay was introduced in the state Assembly this morning.

Co-authored by nine assemblymen from both sides of the aisle in the state's lower house, the bill requests the state to change the proposed location of the third and fourth year branch campus of the UW from the already-selected Shorewood site on the city's northeast side to a site at the intersection of State 54 and proposed U.S. 41, commonly known as the Larsen Farm site.

That location, on the city's west side, was chosen by a site selection team appointed by then-Gov. John W. Reynolds more than three years ago. The Shorewood site, opposed by legislators from the southern end of the Fox River Valley, was chosen by a site selection team chosen by Gov. Warren P. Knowles and the state Legislature more than a year ago.

Co-authors of the bill come from throughout Wisconsin, and generally were found among the friends of the bill's main backers, southern Fox Valley legislators.

The authors include bill drafter William Rogers, D-Kaukauna; Ervin Conradt, R-Shiocton; Bernard Lewison, R-Viroqua; Ronald Parys, D-Milwaukee; Bruce Peloquin, D-Chippewa Falls; Herbert Grover, D-Shawano; Gregor Bock, R-Highland; Leslie Stevenson, D-Marinette, and Sam Orlich, D-Milwaukee.

Frederick C. Schroeder, R-West Bend, had signed up as a co-author but Thursday withdrew his name from bill sponsorship, while pledging his continued support for the measure.

Warmer Winds Coming Tonight

Fox Cities — Generally fair, windy and warmer tonight and Saturday. Low tonight, near 27; high Saturday, near 36. Light easterly winds becoming southwesterly and fresh tonight. Less than 10 per cent chance of precipitation tonight and Saturday.

Road Report — All highways still have scattered slippery spots in passing lanes and in areas of slow-moving traffic.

Appleton — Observations for the past 24 hours show high, 25; low 5. Barometer 29.85 and falling. Winds from south at 5 miles per hour. Skies cloudy. One half inch of snow fell.

Sun sets at 4:46 p.m., rises Saturday at 7:22 a.m. Moon sets tomorrow at 3:09 a.m. The planet, Mars, is now a few degrees northeast of the star, Spica. Late in April, Mars will again appear near Spica and it then will be much the brighter of the two.

Shouting and Kicking, a Palo Alto, Calif., man who threatened to jump was brought down from his perch 200 feet above the deck of San Francisco's Golden Gate bridge Wednesday. The man, without the helmet in photo at right, was identified as Milton Reugeau Jr. Four steelworkers went aloft and heard him say, "There's a time for being dead." He was taken to a hospital and placed under psychiatric care. (AP Wirephoto)

8 Inches Below the Knee

Carnaby Hemlines Go Down

LONDON, (AP) — Carnaby Street — home of the thigh-high miniskirt — dropped hemlines eight inches below the knee today.

"I'm experimenting," said Irvine Sellars, 27. "A surprise move, you might say."

Sellars is one of the more successful clothes designers of Carnaby Street, the fashion arbiter for London dollies and their long-haired boy friends.

"In dropping the hemline, I'm being both practical and sexy too," he said.

"Practical because in our chilly, wet English weather, the wintry blasts hit hardest where the skirts are shortest, so to speak."

'Awfully Cozy'

Dress designer Susan Delfont, 19, who works for Sellars commented:

"I think it may take some time for these long jobs to catch on, but they're soundly designed and awfully cozy and warm."

Susan owns two new long dresses, one with the hem eight inches below her knee and another about an inch below the knee.

"As the mercury drops, so do my hemlines," she said. "And as the temperature rises, they go up. Come summer and I suppose they'll be back where they were — way up above the knees."

On the subject of sex and hemlines, Sellars said:

"These long dresses can be quite sexy. To me the late Jean Harlow was as sexy as they come, and in her day — the middle and late 1930s — her dresses were long. Of course I don't remember much about those days, but I've seen the films and photographs."

Continue Minis

He said he would continue designing mini dresses, but when the cold blasts sweep Britain he advocates a new dress gadget.

"I call them Bermuda-length bloomers," he said

With an eye on the American market, the clothes designer said he has a mini that is not-so-mini.

"American girls generally tend to be a bit more discreet about their miniskirts than do British girls," he said. "I design American minis, particularly for those girls way up north and out in the Middle West, with hemlines at the knee."

Plane With 50 Aboard Lands Atop Snow Plow

Most Injuries Minor Following Airport Crash

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The six-ton snow plow loomed up ahead of the United Air Lines Viscount moments after it had set down at Norfolk airport, and to the pilot "it looked like he was coming through the windshield."

With the sickening sound of metal ripping metal, the four-engine turboprop plane — carrying 46 passengers and a crew of four — tore head-on Thursday into the plow, which had just cleared the runway of four inches of snow.

Locked together — plane on top, snow plow trapped below — the two screeched 100 yards. Part of the aircraft's underbelly was torn away, a landing gear sheared off. Near the wings, twisted steel gripped the plow.

But only the snowplow driver, Charlie Willie Jr., 30, was badly injured. Willie spent two hours trapped in the crumpled cab of the plow before cranes lifted the plane and freed him. He suffered a broken knee and multiple cuts.

Seven of the passengers who had ridden United Air Lines Flight 701 from Washington received minor injuries. They were treated at hospitals and released. All those on the plane slid down a canvas chute to safety.

Red China's Breed of Healthy Zealots

'Where Did That Girl Get Her Yellow Ribbon?'

BY IAN BRODIE

HONG KONG (AP) — I was surprised to find in Communist China a fine old American institution — the singing waiter, or really singing waitress.

Ian Brodie, a correspondent for the London Daily Express, has just come out of China, where he reported on Red Guard activity for The Associated Press. This is an account of some of the incidentals he ran into in and around Canton, a south China city of three million.

The girl who served my noodle soup for my first meal there turned out to be a bouncy singer and led the other waitresses in a 15-minute musical tribute to the thoughts of Mao Tse-tung.

She wore no makeup, her hair was straight and her eyes sparkled. She appeared to enjoy warbling a song called "The East is Red" while two waiters held up a cardboard hammer and sickle.

Songs for Mao

I repeatedly found groups bursting into sudden song — on trains, in parks, cafes, queues and at work. The Chinese have been taught to regard choral efforts as worthy and cultured —but all the words are in praise of Mao.

It is both intriguing and horrifying to study the effects of 18 years under what the Reds call prop-mass — mass propaganda.

Chinese prop-mass tries to squash individualism, to mould everyone into a predetermined form. But it also teaches hygiene, honesty, selflessness and patriotism.

It is beginning to breed a generation of healthy zealots who accept communism as good, America as bad, and all men as equal in the eyes of the party.

Television and the radio pump out a steady stream of Mao's thoughts in song, poetry or prose, interspersed with the latest dreary editorial read aloud from the Peking People's Daily.

When everyone's basic dress is a suit of blue denim you begin to regard the smallest extra touches as wild flamboyance. Where did that girl get her yellow ribbon? Where did that mother find a flowered baby's shawl? Certainly not from the bare shops I saw.

The biggest department store in Canton was even out of peaked caps like the one Mao wears in his pictures and very popular this year.

Year's Wages

Transistor radios and bicycles are the most available consumer goods.

A bicycle costs the equivalent of a peasant's wages for a whole year. As a result most peasants walk. Townfolk have the dubious advantage of buses and trolleybuses which run in insufficient numbers and are always jammed tight.

I visited a middle-aged couple who spent their lives on a boat, a floating slum on Canton's Pearl River. Now the state has given them an apartment by the river with three bedrooms, a living room, kitchen and bathroom.

They and their three sons are ecstatic, though they cannot afford wallpaper, carpets or any furniture other than plain benches and tables.

Yet out of loyalty, gratitude and the effects of prop-mass that family had 10 pictures of Mao on the living room walls.

The party says women are equal to men. The ruling does not work for the older generation, but the girls are noticeably assured and self-assertive.

A girl was in charge of the cleaning squad on the train I took into Canton. I watched as she issued orders to the lads under her. They obeyed unquestioningly and the coaches were swabbed down twice during our three-hour trip.

Feudal Break

China has its own population explosion of 15 million babies a year. The legal age for marriage was raised to 20 for men and 18 for girls in an attempt to cut down the birthrate. In fact the party frowns on anyone marrying under the age of 25. Marriages are forged with love and not fixed up between consenting fathers. Young Communists I spoke to were particularly proud of this break from feudal tradition.

One is overwhelmed by how many Chinese there are — 700

Twins Stuck With A Single Standard

ANN ARBOR Mich (AP) — The Hickes twins, a pair of brown-eyed students at the University of Michigan School of Nursing, are trying to become more independent of each other

But it looks like a tough assignment

The girls, Melissa and Rebecca, 20, daughters of Mr and Mrs Roy M Hickes of Springfield, Ohio, both carry identical 3.91 grade averages of a possible 4.00

Both are juniors and each has received three B's in their college careers. Each B grade was in a liberal arts course. But in all nursing and science courses, the girls have earned straight As.

Quite Remarkable

"We have never seen anything like it," said a university nursing professor "We have gone out of our way to put the twins in different class sections with different instructors in order to avoid any halo effect, but they keep coming up with the same grades, all As"

Rebecca accounts for the similar records by saying "We used to live and study together I guess that helped"

"But lately," added Melissa, "we've been living in different rooms so we're getting away from that"

Rebecca said "We decided we would have to be completely independent and self-reliant to be good nurses.

"So," Melissa said, "we're purposely trying to become more independent."

Their mother, a Michigan graduate, is a math teacher in Springfield and their father is a professor at Wittenberg University in Ohio.

Bill Needed to Stop Suit on Campus Land

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A bill to allow counties to purchase land to give to the state for the construction of the new branch campuses of the University of Wisconsin (UW) in Brown and Kenosha Counties is awaiting introduction in the state Senate

Prepared by Sen Jerris Leonard (R-Bayside), the bill would state clearly that such purchases and awards are legal under state statutes and would prevent a delaying-action court test of any such move

Kenosha Benefits

The bill is not expected to be important in the development of the UW Green Bay, but is essential to speed development of the Parkside UW campus in Kenosha County

Property owners of the land selected as the site for the new third and fourth year campus have threatened court action to block the county purchase of the land for use by the state

The legality of such action permitted for many other local improvements handled by the state is not clear in existing statute

Doubtful Opinion

An attorney general's opinion was requested on such questions and was received last fall, but left the matter in doubt The opinion said that such action was permissible under present law — but then added that a court case could be brought by the property owners to test the legality

In each county, land for the new schools must be purchased by the county and given to the state before the schools will be built

No problem is expected to exist in Brown County as there have been no challenges by local property owners.

Yes—— No——

Yes, you probably do. There is ample evidence that most persons see what they need or want to see. The pupil of your eye dilates on seeing pleasant things and contracts when you look upon anything distasteful. Poor children see coins as bigger than they are, or as larger than the coins appear to more affluent youngsters Seeing is so much a part of the viewer's unique predispositions that helpful personality tests have been constructed on what an individual sees in simple ink blots, as in the Rorschach test, for example. Two Youths Placed Under Supervision

Judge Withholds Delinquency Findings In Juvenile Court

Outagamie County Judge Raymond P. Dohr this morning withheld findings of delinquency against three Appleton youths involved in the theft of $400 from Xavier High School last Sept. 20.

Two of the boys were involved in other incidents for which they were disciplined this morning in juvenile court. Two of the youths are 15 years old and one is 16.

Under Supervision

Judge Dohr placed one of the boys under supervision of the Outagamie County Welfare Department for one year and another for six months supervision. The third youth was not placed under supervision. He had no prior juvenile record.

All but $15 of the $400, proceeds from a dance, has been returned, police said. Full restitution was ordered.

One of the trio told Judge Dohr this morning that they took the money "for a thrill." The money was kept in two cash boxes in the faculty room at the high school. The theft occurred after the dance. A fourth boy involved in the Xavier incident is scheduled for a later court appearance.

Previous Thefts

One of the boys in court this morning also stole a wallet containing $10 from the YMCA last June and broke a window at St Therese Catholic Church convent in August. Judge Dohr ordered him to pay the $39.28 for a new window and repay the $10 taken from the wallet belonging to a Chicago woman.

The youth, who was placed under supervision for six months, also was involved in stealing and forging of a bank check last September and the theft of several six packs of beer last August from the Hide-A-Way Bar, 1400 W. Wisconsin Ave. Several other youths were involved with him in both incidents. The forged $20 check was cashed at the Clover Farm Store, 501 S. Douglas St. The check was stolen from a car parked at Miller Electric.

Judge Dohr, in disciplining the youths, said, "I am giving you a break." He warned them of the consequences of another court appearance.

Awards Were Presented at the annual distinguished service dinner of the Kaukauna Jaycees Thursday night at Oakwood Hills Country Club with Charles Lenius, left, chairman of the awards committee, presenting the distinguished service plaque to Raymond Breitbach, center, and the distinguished citizen honor to Wallace Mooney. A third award, the physical fitness leadership award, went to John Hilgenberg. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Kaukauna Jaycees Honor Three at Awards Dinner

KAUKAUNA — Raymond Breitbach, local chiropractor, was the recipient of the distinguished service award at a Jaycee-sponsored dinner and awards program Thursday at Oakwood Hills.

Also honored was Wallace Mooney with the distinguished citizen award and John Hilgenberg, who received the physical fitness leadership award.

Is Rotarian

Breitbach is director of the Rotary Club, member of the Masonic Lodge and past director of the Jaycees. He is active in his church, having been a Sunday school director for six years and lay speaker on Layman's Sunday at the United Church of Christ.

He has served as president of the Fox Valley Chiropractic Society, is secretary of the northeastern district of the State Chiropractic Association, and president of the State Association. He has been past chairman of the Jaycee state recruitment and scholarship committee.

Mooney has been active in his church, Boy Scouts of America, parent-teacher association of which he was president in 1956, American Legion and Kiwanis.

Active in Scouts

Most notable is his Boy Scout work, in which he has been active for 40 years, 20 of them as scoutmaster. He has achieved the rank of Eagle Scout with palm, and is district commissioner and training chairman for the scouts. He has been awarded the Silver Beaver and a letter of commendation from the national legion commander and from Gov. Gaylord Nelson.

Hilgenberg helped organize the Kaukauna Athletic Club, (KAC) which sponsors Kaukauna Klubbers for young men, Junior Legion baseball, northeastern Wisconsin softball tournaments, couples bowling tournament, and a basketball team in the Badger Amateur League. He has been an officer in the KAC since it started and bowling coach for the recreation department for 13 years.

Guest speaker was Vincent Rohlf, president of Badger Northland Inc., spoke on "Finding and Filling a Need."

Appleton Applies Pressure For Water Project Grants

Around the Lake Conclave

Water Pollution Problems Aired at Six-County Parley

A group of county agents, conservationists and Farm Home Administration representatives from six counties around Lake Winnebago this morning listed broad water pollution problems which will be presented to county board chairmen early next month.

Meeting at the Home Mutual Building in Appleton, the officials attempted to identify and define general water problems hoping to pass the information to county boards before the new water law takes full effect.

Outagamie, Calumet, Winnebago, Fond du Lac, Green Lake and Waushara counties were represented.

The meeting was the second of the "Around the Lake" group. It was instituted last fall after Sen. Walter Hollander, Rosendale, urged cooperative county action for pollution abatement.

Cooperative Effort

Hollander stressed the cooperative effort to members of the Wolf River Basin Regional Planning Commission during their fall meeting.

Gordon Bubolz, commission chairman, and William Morris, executive director, have been working on the six-county program since that time.

An earlier meeting at Fond du Lac resulted in the formation of a steering committee comprised of county board chairmen from each of the six counties.

Sylvester Esler, Outagamie County, is the steering committee chairman.

No New Approaches

The problems listed today by the Around the Lake group did not necessarily bring to light any new approaches to pollution abatement.

They did, however, offer a broad base which might more suitably prepare county boards and residents of the Fox River Valley for acceptance of the eventual enactment and enforcement of the water law.

Committee members discussed residential sewage facilities along lakes and rivers, siltation from the Niagara escarpment along the east shore of Lake Winnebago, municipal and private waste disposal, land uses related to water resources and several other presumed sources of pollution.

The new water law will allow the state to enforce strictly anti-pollution measures even if it means changing existing waste disposal facilities.

Morris, who conducted the meeting, said, "The end result of all talking and planning is carred out at a local level."

Harold Reinecke, Fond du Lac county agent, said, "Our major problem is that no one is taking leadership and accepting the sole responsibility."

A recently completed report in Fond du Lac, Reinecke said, lists major sources of pollution in the city and county.

A listing of problems discussed today will be presented to the steering committee at a meeting in Oshkosh Feb. 10.

Hope for Parley With Officials

There were two major developments today as Appleton's officials started applying pressure in hopes of obtaining federal funds for the city's planned multi-million dollar water expansion project.

In the first, Mayor George Buckley fired a wire to Rep. John Byrnes (R-Green Bay) and requested that he assist in arranging a meeting of city officials with representatives of the regional office of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) at Chicago.

The second came in the form of a letter from U.S. Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wisconsin, from Washington, D.C., advising the crucial decision period on Appleton's request for a $1.5 million grant will be made between now and April 1.

Initiative Taken

Buckley, acting on orders of the Appleton Council, took the initilative in getting a meeting as soon as possible with Edward Bruder in the HUD regional office. He is also requesting the Wisconsin congressional delegation to attend.

Buckley in his telegram to Rep. Byrnes, said the latter's office called here earlier in the week and advised the Appleton application was undergoing legal review in Chicago and the official with the final say on whether it goes to Washington for final approval is Bruder.

"Appleton is rapidly approaching a critical water shortage," Buckley told Byrnes,

14 USC Agencies Receive Budget Cut

Each Group Reduced 2.5 Per Cent Because Drive Fell Short of Goal

The 14 United Community Services (UCS) agencies which participated in the 1966 Red Feather campaign, will share equally in a 2.5 per cent 1967 budget cut.

Don Herrling, UCS president, reported at Thursday's board meeting, that the total raised was $248,280 which was 92.9 per cent of the goal.

The reason the agency budget cuts were so low, compared to the $16,555 deficit, is that the Outagamie Chapter of the American Red Cross begins its fiscal year on July 1. The Red Cross, which joined the Red Feather campaign for the first time this year, will use funds raised in previous campaigns to carry on its work to that time. Therefore, half of its $25,000 budget was released for use by the other agencies.

"In spite of the fact that we did not make our goal, some other agencies in the community, now raising money in separate fund drives, are approaching the UCS office for possible inclusion in future campaigns. As soon as they send formal letters of request, they will be brought before the board," Art Malin, UCS executive secretary, reported.

Herrling reminded the board that the $248,280 figure is about $36,000 more than was reported as raised in 1965.

The UCS annual meeting was tentatively set for late February, when officers will be elected. It was agreed by the board that the annual meeting, open to the public, will include distribution of campaign and year-round service awards.

Herrling announced a nominating committee of John Torinus, Richard Van Sistine, G. E. Hoffman, H. P. Dixson, Elmer Otte, Charles Heater, Mrs. Harold Ornstein and Marlyn Olson.

Green Bay Man Admits Intoxication; Pays $25

Frederick A. Sowatska, 21, Green Bay, this morning forfeited a $25 bond in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 on an intoxication charge.

He was arrested by Appleton police Jan. 13 on W. College Avenue.

VNA Elects New Officers

Mrs. James Cowen Named President of Visiting Nurses

Mrs. James D. Cowan was elected president of the Visiting Nurses Association (VNA) at its annual meeting Thursday at its headquarters.

Other officers are Mrs. George Hoffer, first vice president; Mrs. Marvin Kagen, second vice president; Mrs. Raymond Dohr, secretary; Mrs. William Zuehlke Jr., treasurer, and Vern Ames, assistant treasurer.

Mrs. Cowan had been second vice president and chairman of the VNA public relations committee.

In other business the board heard the personnel committee report, which has the responsibility of choosing a nursing director. Mrs. Harry Jollie's resignation was accepted "with regrets" effective Dec. 15, 1966.

Peabody Manor's new officers also were announced. New president is Mrs. Dexter Wolfe. Mrs. Eugene Pierce is first vice president; Elsie Kopplin, second vice president; Mrs. Gerald Helf, secretary; Quentin Kuenzli, treasurer, and William Owens, assistant treasurer.

The VNA, a Red Feather service, is also responsible for the administration of Peabody Manor.

Bank Group Re-Elects Its Officials

Stockholders re-elected all officers and directors earlier this week at the annual meeting of First National Corp., a local holding company which owns the majority of the stock of Appleton's First National Bank and Valley National Bank.

Officers re-elected were Harold C. Adams, president; W. E. Buchanan, vice president, and Marvin Heiden, secretary-treasurer.

Directors are Adams, Buchanan, Gordon A. Bubolz, Kenneth K. Du Vall, Lloyd Paul, Walter L. Rugland and John G. Strange.

Total stockholder equity at the close of 1966 was reported as $6,625,521, compared with $6,406,819 in 1965, an increase of $418,701. Book value for each of the 161,952 shares was $42.15, compared with $39.85 in 1965. Consolidated net earnings, after taxes and provision for reserve accounts in affiliated banks, were $2.78 per share. A dividend in 1966 was $1 per share.

Appleton Wire Works To Relocate Its Plant

County Industrial Developers to Aid Move to Site in Town of Greenville

The Outagamie County Industrial Development Corp. has notified Mayor George Buckley and city council that it intends to aid an Appleton industry relocate on a 20-acre site in the Town of Greenville.

Walter L. Rugland, corporation president, said the Wisconsin Wire Works, 1002 N. Meade St., has officially requested permission to use his group to aid in the construction of a new plant.

He said it was anticipated the existing Wisconsin Wire Works building would be used by another industrial firm, but was not at liberty to disclose its name at this time. It reportedly is a local industry with expansion plans.

Offered Services

Rugland sent the notification to the City of Appleton in accordance with state statute governing county development corporations.

He said the corporation "has offered its services to Wisconsin Wire Works in facilitating this move, through Megal Contracting Company in Milwaukee."

The Megal firm is noted throughout the Midwest for its development of industrial parks, erecting buildings for sale or lease.

The new Wisconsin Wire Works plant will be located on a site adjacent to the Outagamie County Airport. The firm reportedly did not have enough area in its present location to carry out an expansion project.

Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce officials say there was a possibility the firm was considering shifting operations out of this area until the new facility was worked out with the Outagamie County Industrial Development Corporation.

Building Costs Rise in Village

Expenditures in Little Chute Up More Than a Third

LITTLE CHUTE — Estimated construction costs in the village during 1966 amounted to $351,745, an increase of $101,084 over the 1965 total of $250,661, according to the annual building report released by Gerald Locy, building inspector.

Eighteen new homes costing $310,000 were built in 1966, compared to nine costing $135,000 in 1965. Twelve garage permits were issued, total cost $10,220 compared to 16 costing $9,711 in 1965. Six home alteration projects costing $8,450 were noted in 1966 compared to 17 costing $21,650 in 1965.

Additions Made

Three garage additions costing $750 were made in 1965 and none the previous year. Three home additions costing $6,800 were made in 1966. None were noted the previous year. Three commercial additions cost $10,900 in 1966 compared to four costing $5,225 the previous year.

One duplex costing $17,000 was built last year and four tool sheds constructed at a total cost of $625. One home was razed, one garage moved out and one house moved out. A permit was issued for the $1,000,000 high school, but no permit fee was charged and the inspector listed it separately on his report as it does not add to the tax base.

Fees collected during the year amounted to $143.87 compared to $100.50 in 1965.

Power Company Pledges $1,000 Toward Trees for College Avenue

The Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. — while not a College Avenue property owner — has pledged $1,000 as a gift to the City of Appleton toward the purchase of trees for landscaping the avenue.

J. H. McLean, the firm's assistant vice president, notified the city of its intended contribution in a letter to Ald. Roy Pointer (14th), council president and chairman of the street-sanitation committee.

The committee has been carrying the bulk of the load in helping coordinate the $800,000 College Avenue reconstruction program which gets started next month.

Next week a meeting is scheduled to further explore the type of landscaping program to tie in with the avenue facelifting to be completed by Nov. 1.

Express Interests

"We would like to express our interest in the landscaping of College Avenue," McLean wrote.

In pledging the $1,000 toward the purchase of trees for planting and adding some greenery to the business district, McLean commented, "We feel that we cannot honestly advocate landscaping on College Avenue if we do not share in its cost. As you know, we do not have property on College Avenue and, therefore, would not be assessed for landscaping the same as College Avenue property owners."

"We do sincerely believe that an attractive College Avenue will be a pride to all of us who call Appleton our home," McLean asserted.

The power company representative said it was realized the $1,000 may buy only about 10 trees of the type and size that will probably be required.

Most Generous

"Possibly other citizens will also wish to express their desire to see Appleton become a more attractive community and will contribute to the fund," McLean added.

Mayor George Buckley today lauded the power company for "its most generous offer."

"I am very pleased and happy that one of our leading firms has decided to do this," Buckley said.

The Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce's Project 85 Committee, headed by Harold Adams, is cooperating with city officials and avenue property owners in arriving at some sort of landscape scheme for the street.

In another development Thursday afternoon, city officials met with Vinton Construction Co. of Manitowoc and signed contracts for the College Avenue work.

The council gave the authorization Wednesday night following a public hearing and adoption of assessment rates.

On hand for the contract-signing at city hall were Mayor George Buckley, City Clerk Elden Broehm, Project Engineer Robert Pfefferle and William Vinton.

Leighton Hough Retires From Oshkosh Bank

OSHKOSH — The board of directors of the First National Bank here today announced the election of Richard W. Koehn as president to succeed Leighton Hough, whose retirement is effective immediately.

Koehn, who has been executive vice president since Jan. 1, 1964, will assume his duties immediately, becoming the bank's sixth president since it was established 115 years ago.

Hough, 62, will continue to serve on the bank's board of directors. He has been president since 1952 when he succeeded the late Louis Schriber. His retirement today climaxes 47 years of service to the banking institution where he started as a messenger in 1919.

Directors, officers, and employes of the bank were to greet the new president at a reception in the lobby of the downtown bank after business hours this afternoon.

Very Few Radicals in U.S., University Students Told

Lawrence University students who, in the past week have been hearing speakers expound radical political beliefs, were told Tuesday that there are very few true radicals in America, and the few who do exist have limited followings.

The speaker, who lectured at a convocation in the school's Memorial Chapel, was William Chambers, professor of history and chairman of that department at Washington University, St. Louis, Mo.

Chambers, who discussed "Extremism and the American Political Spectrum," was the fourth speaker in a series on radical political thought entitled "From Separate Corners."

Dr. Russell Kirk, nationally syndicated columnist and professor of politics at C. W. Post College, will give the final lecture Tuesday night in the Memorial Union. Kirk's lecture topic will be "The Essence of Academic Freedom — a Conservative's Stand."

The terms "extremism" and "extremist" are folk, rather than scientific terms, Chambers stated; "they are used in terms of political accusation. We would be better off speaking of the radical right or the radical left and what's in the center of American politics."

Two Factors

Chambers said there are two major factors in the American political system and the development of the system. "One," he stated, "is the classical liberal tradition . . . which puts the stress on the value of the individual man, the right to own property, and the equality of man.

"The second factor," he said, "is the pragmatic approach in American politics which developed way back in the 18th Century.

"This approach," Chambers said, "is far easier in a society which has fundamental agreement on basic issues. The classical liberal and pragmatic political traditions have reinforced themselves in the American tradition."

Chambers said American history has shown a few breaks in the liberal tradition and the pragmatic norm, "the most obvious being the Civil War.

"Today," he continued, "we are clearly in a time of tension, not only from the "New Left" and the "Radical Right," but from a civil rights movement that has become a Negro movement.

Chambers suggested that

WERB Orders Election for Appleton Group

The Wisconsin Labor Relations Board (WERB) has concurred in the petition of Teamsters Local 563 and ordered a representation election for a group of water department employes.

In a directive received by city officials today, the WERB instructed the election be held within 60 days.

The WERB noted that representatives of the Appleton Water Commission and Teamsters Union agreed on the unit and employes to be eligible to vote.

Water department employes — excluding clerical, professional, supervisory and treatment plant workers — are eligible to ballot on whether they want union representation or not.

Supper Club Supplies Burglarized in Town

An inventory is scheduled to determine the loss in a burglary Thursday night at the Left Guard Charcoal House warehouse on W. College Avenue in the Town of Grand Chute.

The Outagamie County Sheriff's Department was notified of the burglary about 10 p.m. Entry was gained by forcing a rear door.

Evangelist to Lead Mission In Kaukauna

The Rev. Joe Hale Bringing Modern Methodist Message

KAUKAUNA — The Methodist Church will take part in a district-wide program Feb. 5-12, for the deepening of Christian insight, dedication and Christian concern, led by the Rev. Joe Hale, one of the outstanding New Life Mission leaders in the country.

Film Interest

The Rev. Mr. Hale attended high school in Camden, Ark., and received a B.A. degree from Asbury College. During his college days he directed the motion picture, "Power Plus." He has a continuing interest in motion picture and television production, feeling it affords an opportunity to communicate the Christian message.

He received a bachelor of divinity degree from Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Tex. The Rev. Mr. Hale appears at Daytona Beach in the "Ichthus Caravan" as an illusionist and escape artist, performing such feats as the strait-jacket escape from a crane 38 feet above the beach and the underwater Houdini milk can escape.

Uses Magic

"My reason for using magic in recent years has been to help capture the attention of the people long enough to make a Christian witness," notes the guest speaker. Through his magic, the Ichthus Caravan has made its way into night clubs of Daytona.

"The evangelist directs conference, district, area and local church New Life Missions throughout Methodism. To make Christ relevant to the present situation and give men the opportunity to make the response of faith, summarizes his own understanding of the evangelistic task," said the Rev. Lester Ott, Methodist pastor.

John Wilterding Retires After 43 Years at Banta

MENASHA — J. H. Wilterding is retiring as an active officer of the George Banta Co., Inc., after 43 years service with the firm. He will remain, however, as vice chairman of the board of directors.

His retirement was announced at the annual meeting of the board of directors by George Banta Jr., chairman of the board.

Two promotions were also announced by Banta S. E. Severson, 245 Stevens St., Neenah, was elected a company vice-president for special services. He had been secretary since 1961 and a director since 1956.

Donald S. Koskinen, 315 Lake Road, Menasha, a director since 1964, was named secretary.

Other officers who continue in their positions are George Banta III, president, J. F. Owen, vice president for research and development; L. C. Roeck, vice president for finance and accounting, and A. J. Williamson, treasurer.

Offers Terms to City Employes

NEENAH — After meeting with various city department representatives, most notably the police and fire bargaining teams, for the past few months in an attempt to settle contract differences, councilmen decided to put down in writing the city's final offer to the six departments.

The groundwork was done at a closed-door session of the committee of the whole on Tuesday.

The contract offers, which cut several items from the demands of city employes, were made known this morning. Several employes have indicated their departments wouldn't accept the 1967 contracts as presented. But no official action has been reported.

The letters to the bargaining representatives of the six departments were signed by Clerk-Comptroller R. V. Hauser. The letter said that if the particular department wouldn't accept the city's offer, the council should be notified by Jan. 31.

There's No Doubt Teens can dress as neatly as anyone else—especially if they organize a special dress up day, as the student council did at Wilson Junior High School. Prime examples are Helen Lee, president of the council, and Don Hietpas. Promotion posters helped spread the word. "It's really amazing how good conduct goes hand in hand with neat clothing," commented Kenneth Johnston, principal. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Rockets Win Final 3 Bouts; Tie New London High, 23-23

NEENAH — Victories in the last three matches, two on pins, provided the Neenah High School wrestlers with a 23-23 draw with New London here Thursday night.

The Rockets trailed, 23-10, after nine matches but Dixon Kuchenbecker (165) pinned Bruce Schulz in 5:46. Kevin Milliken ran his winning string to 10 straight and lifted his record to 14-1 with a 7-0 decision of John Sanders at 180 and Keith Parman pinned Bruce Krueger in 1:28 in the heavyweight division for the last five points.

Kuchenbecker was leading, 4-0, when he made his pin, Milliken had Sanders on the defensive all the way but couldn't pin him and Parman made his takedown and the fall came shortly thereafter.

The closely contested match saw two bouts end in draws and three others decided by two points or less.

Neenah's Pat Schaller and Jim Malliet, two of the better 133 pounders in the conference, battled to a scoreless tie and the Rockets Tom Dieckhoff and Mark Marasch went to a 2-2 standoff at 112.

Mike Coenen, Rocket 95 pounder, was within a half minute of his first win before he was pinned by Steve Volz. Coenen held a 9-8 lead.

The varsity results:

95 — Steve Volz (NL) pinned Mike Coenen in 5:32.

103 — Darwin Westphal (N) beat Jim Crain, 4-2.

112 — Tom Dieckhoff (N) and Mark Marasch, drew, 2-2.

120 — Tom Hobbs (NL) pinned Roy Maynard in 4:3.

127 — Jay Larson (NL) beat Ken Liebhaber, 5-0.

133 — Pat Schaller (N) and Jim Malliet, drew, 0-0.

138 — Pat McCarthy (N) beat Jeff Curler, 9-4.

145 — Ron Petit (NL) beat Ted Hill, 3-2.

154 — Mike Marasch (NL) beat Dick Meyer, 6-5.

165 — Dixon Kuchenbecker (N) pinned Bruce Schulz in 5:46.

180 — Kevin Milliken (N) beat John Sanders, 7-0.

Hvy — Keith Parman (N) pinned Bruce Krueger in 1:28.

Council Recommends

Back Oshkosh Man for Voc Board

OSHKOSH — Councilmen here didn't wait for formation of the area vocational and adult education district to back a candidate for its school board.

They directed City Manager Angus Crawford at Thursday's meeting to recommend appointment of Donald Steinfort to any area vocational board to be named. Steinfort is vice president of the Oshkosh Vocational and Technical institute board. He has been a member since 1959.

Councilmen specified that their suggested candidate be recommended to both Joseph Drexler, chairman of the Winnebago County Board, and to Dr. Q. C. Metzig, president, Oshkosh area board of education.

The state Board of Vocational and Adult education is expected to meet in Madison Feb. 20 to consider petitions for establishing the new vocational school area.

A four-county district, including Oshkosh and Winnebago County with Outagamie, Calumet, and Waupaca counties, has been recommended by the Coordinating Committee on Higher Education.

Authority for appointing the area's board of vocational schools depends on organization of the new area on a school area basis or on a county basis or a combination of the two.

Petitions to be included in the districts must be filed with the state board.

State vocational officials have said they would approve formation of the districts as early as July, some three years before the deadline required by the state law passed in 1965.

Milwaukee Pedestrian Struck by Car, Dies

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The death of a South Milwaukee pedestrian has raised Wisconsin's 1967 traffic fatality toll to 41 compared with 44 on this date last year.

Kazar Barsamian, 69, of South Milwaukee died late Thursday after being struck by a car as he crossed a South Milwaukee street.

Twin Cities Clergymen Hold Service

NEENAH — Clergymen from the Twin Cities, both Catholic and Protestant, joined together Thursday noon in a special ecumenical service at St. Gabriel's Catholic Church to celebrate a week of prayer for Christian unity.

The participation of the 22 ministers and priests in the prayers and hymns for unity was followed by a luncheon at St. Mark's Lutheran Church.

Rev. Lawrence Stingle, pastor of St. Gabriel's Parish, led the clergy congregation in prayer and readings from both the old and new testament were given by other clerics. Rev. Thomas Chaffee, rector of St. Thomas Episcopal Church, gave a brief sermon on unity.

Winnebago Ratifies First Wage Contract With Road Employes

OSHKOSH — The first labor contract in county history with its highway department employes was unanimously approved by the Winnebago County Board this morning.

Local 1280A of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, which represents the highway employes, had previously ratified the agreement by a 42-8 vote.

The contract spells out working conditions, salaries job classification and other conditions of employment. This morning's ratification concludes more than three months negotiations between the county and the union which had won bargaining rights for the employes in a Wisconsin Employment Relations Board - conducted election last July.

Literacy Expert Schedules Talk

Dr. Frank C. Laubach, missionary and world literacy leader, will speak to the Men's Club and Women's Association of the First Presbyterian Church, Neenah, in the Fellowship Hall Tuesday night.

Dinner will begin at 6:30 p.m. and Dr. Laubach will begin speaking at 7:45 p.m. His address will be open to the public.

The 82-year-old educator's "Each One Teach One" word-picture literacy method has helped more than 60 million adults, including many in the United States, to learn to ready and write.

Dr. Laubach has worked in 103 countries with 32 languages and was acclaimed by leaders including Nehru and Gandhi, kings, presidents and chieftains for his work.

He has written more than 35 books and holds doctor's and master's degrees in many fields.

WSU-O History Instructor Probes Vietnam Policies

BY CLIFF MILLER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — History instructor Samuel Liberstein doubts the Democratic administration's veracity when speaking of the fighting in Vietnam, and he calmly voiced his suspicions before the Winnebago County Democratic Party here Thursday night.

On invitation of officers of the party, the soft-spoken, youthful scholar told why he opposes this country's involvement. His approach to a topic frequently associated with beards, protest placards and noisy demonstrations was one of firm but quiet disbelief and disapproval.

The Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh faculty member, whose credentials include study at the Berkely Campus of the University of California and academic studies placing him on the threshhold of a doctorate, described his comments as "an intellectual's educated guess as to what is going on."

Vietnam Movie

He watched with the other 30 persons in the Oshkosh YMCA "Cave Room" as an administration movie "Why Vietnam?" was shown, beginning and ending with words spoked by President Johnson.

Then, Lieberstein argued with the movie point-by-point, striving to blunt each with his own views. He spoke in tones of a man convinced he is guessing right.

The dialogue went like this:

Administration: Our involvement arises from United States agreement to honor the South East Asia Treaty Organization defense pact.

Lieberstein: "SEATO only committed us to consult" with allies joined in the pact. "It didn't commit us to go into South Vietnam."

Administration: We originially responded to an "urgent appeal" from the South Vietnam government for help.

Lieberstein: The administration of President Ngo Dien Diem was composed of "our own stooges," and was therefore "like the left hand calling the right hand."

Administration: "We want no wider war" — words of Secretary of State Dean Rusk following initial bombing raids on the North.

Lieberstein: Rusk was telling "barefaced lies," since the war has become wider.

Administration: The communists refuse to negotiate.

Lieberstein: At the time Rusk spoke of not wanting to widen the war, Ambassador Adlai Stevenson was arranging negotiations, but Rusk turned them down.

Administration: We are carrying out the policies of three presidents.

Lieberstein: Former President Eisenhower has denied he made a military commitment, but was speaking more of economic aid. And, the argument fails to answer the question of whether the presidents were wrong or right in their decisions. "Presidents are not angels, are not holy."

Administration: Those who would have us leave Vietnam would commit us to a policy of appeasement like that followed by the British at Munich before World War I.

Lieberstein: At Munich, Britain permitted aggression by an outside power against another country. In Vietnam, the conflict is more in the nature of a civil war.

Administration: The raid by Communist boats on ships of the Seventh Fleet forced us to make the first bombing raids on North Vietnam.

Lieberstein: The raids could have been "stage managed." There were shoreline skirmishes taking place along the gulf. The boats described as raiders might have been involved in that fighting, and the Seventh Fleet sailed close enough to become involved. There is a rumor that President Johnson had a draft of a resolution giving him wider power "in his pocket" for some time before the raids, and had it approved immediately afterwards.

Other Questions

He also questioned the picture of this country and the South Vietnamese fighting the war together, stating the Vietnamese are taking increasingly backseat rolls. This country has failed to win the trust of the peasants because of failure to carry out land reforms and we have become associated in the peasant's minds with the landlord class, he added.

Lieberstein also declared the United States "has never been able to win the intelligentsia of the underdeveloped countries." He charged this country has "no concept of them having the ability to choose their own way of life."

At least one individual spoke at length in agreement with Lieberstein. Others waxed doubtful. The argument that this is a civil war between factions within a nation was disputed by one, who pointed out that Russian and Red Chinese weapons and assistance have been used to help North Vietnam.

Menasha, Marion Wrestlers Battle to 24-24 Deadlock

MARION — Competing without two of its regulars, the Menasha High School wrestlers battled Marion to a 24-24 draw here Thursday night.

The Bluejays didn't have the services of unbeaten heavyweight Dan Lingnofski, who has a skin condition, and Jim Gillen, 154 pounder, out with a shoulder injury.

Sophomore heavyweight Bob Abel, participating in his first varsity match, was decisioned by Dave Kussman, 4-1, in the final match. A fall would have given the Mustangs the victory but Abel was never close to being pinned.

Tim Fahrenkrug, sophomore 180 pounder, who missed the last three matches because of an ear injury, decisioned Ron Zimdars, 7-3.

Jim Krautkramer (133) decisioned Ted Steinke, 2-0, on a third period reversal while Mike Maas (120) posted a 2-0 decision over Joe Bazile.

Five pointers were gained by Gregg Morgan (103) on a pin over Frank Kristof in 3:30; Todd Kuehl (154) on a pin of Dave Buss in 4:53; and Dave Krautkramer (95), via a forfeit.

The varsity results:

95 — Dave Krautkramer (Men) won on forfeit.

103 — Gregg Morgan (Men) pinned Frank Kristof in 3:30.

112 — Keith Kitzman (Mar) pinned Richie Batley in 1:27.

120 — Mike Maas (Men) beat Joe Bazile, 2-0.

127 — Norm Bruss (Mar) pinned Ben Kolasinski in 25 seconds.

133 — Jim Krautkramer (Men) beat Ted Steinke, 2-0.

138 — Orlie Pederson (Mar) beat Nolan Kelley, 6-5.

145 — Jim Morrison (Mar) pinned Tom Gillen in 5:24.

154 — Todd Kuehl (Men) pinned Norm Buss in 4:53.

165 — Tom Brandenberg (Mar) beat Gerry Pozolinski, 4-2.

180 — Tim Fahrenkrug (Men) beat Norm Zimdars, 7-3.

Denture Wearers Take New Look

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—A new discovery called Super Dent will change the look of dentures soon. Users say it cleans plates so beautifully they can't believe it. Super Dent uses a startling new aerosol principle. It injects a bubble cleaning solution into the denture bath. This produces millions of tiny freon air bubbles that scrub dentures clean. Users say this air bubble cleaning is amazing to watch. The way it cleans is almost supernatural, say users. Stains and debris disappear before your eyes. Super Dent is now available at Hoffman Drug.

Taxpayer Group Asks Probe Of Welfare Administration

Wants Blue Ribbon Committee But Is Vague on 'Problems'

Explaining that there are several "problem areas" in Outagamie County health and welfare administration, representatives of the Appleton Taxpayer's Association Thursday afternoon recommended the formation of a "blue ribbon committee" that would conduct a study and report back to the county.

The recommendation was made by Mabel R. McClanahan, president of the taxpayer unit, and a member, John McKenzie, during a meeting of the county board's health, education and institutions committee.

Indications are that the association will prepare a resolution for submission at the February county board meeting, asking supervisors to approve formation of the special committee.

Include Professions

McKenzie hinted that the association was thinking in terms of a five to ten-member committee that would include representatives of various professions such as a hospital administrator, an accountant, a personnel manager and "someone with a legal background."

McKenzie and Mrs. McClanahan told supervisors that they believe it should be a citizens committee — named with the final approval of the county board, "in order to remove the whole issue from possible political implications."

Health committee members were generally receptive to the idea. Supv. Russell DeLaHunt, Kaukauna, suggested that the association take the lead in organizing a special committee. DeLaHunt is chairman of the health unit.

Sylvester Esler, county board chairman, said appointments to the committee should be made by the county board, although he agreed candidates should be selected with the assistance of the taxpayer unit.

Problems Not Specified

Neither Mrs. McClanahan nor McKenzie would specify at the meeting, or afterward, the exact nature of the problems they wanted the committee to investigate.

McKenzie told supervisors, "You have a basic structural problem that is costing the taxpayers a lot of money."

In touching briefly on a few of what the association believes are problem areas, McKenzie said, as pointed out in the J. L. Jacobs county survey report, the Riverview Sanatorium is "overstaffed and underused." McKenzie mentioned the resignation this month of John Engle as superintendent of the county hospital, ad several aspects of the proposed city-county health department.

He said there were "other personnel problems," but added that he did not "care to mention names." He explained there are "duplications of services between the city and the county."

"There are several problems, all involving health and welfare, that seem to come to a head in your committee," McKenzie told supervisors. McKenzie said that the taxpayer unit was interested in "an unbiased examination" of health and welfare functions in the county.

Few Radicals In America, Speaker Says

what divides what is "left" from "right" in the American political spectrum is "the question of equality — for whom, in what way then, why and who is to be included and excluded."

"As one goes to the left," Chambers stated, "the population thins out, and one finds the same as he goes to the right. On both extremes, there are few Americans, both historically and today.

"What seems to define the American center spectrum is the sharing of the liberal tradition and the pragmatic approach. William Jennings Bryan and Andrew Carnegie were both in the center spectrum, although Carnegie would never have admitted it. Bryan was an ultra-liberal liberal and Carnegie was an ultra-conservative liberal."

Chambers said that such Americans as Jackson, Jefferson, Lincoln, Wilson, Franklin and Theodore Roosevelt and Kennedy were in the center spectrum, but at its left. Within the spectrum, but at its right, he placed John Adams, Hamilton, Hoover, Robert Taft, John Calhoun and Goldwater. "Eisenhower, however," he said, "was in the middle of the center spectrum.

Not Way Out

"The Americans for Democratic Action is not way out on the left," Chambers said, "but is a moderate left-thinking group within the center spectrum. Young Americans for Freedom move toward the right, but they, too, are within the center spectrum. Goldwater's Americans for Conservative Action are to the right, but within the center, and CORE is to the left, but still in the center."

Chambers stated that there are people and groups, "but not many of them, who are beyond the center in either direction. Here you'll find the SDS (Students for a Democratic Society) to the moderate left, and the CSA (Conservative Society of America) off on the right."

The historian claimed that the leadership of Stokely Carmichael has "pulled SNCC (Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee) outside the center spectrum and has made it a radical leftist group. On the radical right, outside the mainstream, you'll find the Birch Society, the Minutemen, the States Rights Party and the American Nazi Party."

"Two main areas bring people out of the mainstream," he said, "policy advocacy and position, or racism. You can also be on the outside because of the methods you use."

Chambers urged students and guests in the audience of about 750 to "listen to those on the outside because critics help us. They may spot problems in advance, and they may help us to rethink our points of view. So critics can be useful.

"Within that center spectrum," he stated, "it is not extremist to say, 'let us intensify our efforts in Vietnam,' nor is it extremist to say, 'let's pull out of Vietnam'."

City Moves To Assure Water Project

Appointment Sought

Buckley asked Byrnes to contact Bruder and arrange an appointment for the meeting, and also requested the congressman to join Appleton officials at the confab.

City officials were dismayed when they heard the application, hand-delivered to the regional HUD office last year, was not in Washington as they had assumed on the basis of discussions with federal officials.

The city plans to construct an addition to the water filtration plant, and build a pipeline to Lake Winnebago, at costs estimated at $4.5 million to $5 million.

Final Stages

Senator Nelson, who also sent copies of his letter to Appleton Water Commission officials, said in response to his telegram to HUD at Chicago Wednesday, he was informed the application is in the final stages of technical review.

Nelson said if the Appleton application survives cutbacks in coming weeks, chances for its approval "are very good."

"When asked for an indication of its chances, we were told that if the Appleton request survives the present quarter (the division of HUD is working on a quarterly basis) and is on the April 1 list, its chances of approval are very good," Nelson said.

Expect Increase

He informed the mayor and other officials that HUD made 149 grants in the fiscal year 1966 and expects to make 250 grants in fiscal 1967.

Nelson said HUD has requests totaling $2.5 billion and only has funds of $100 million.

"Therefore HUD arbitrarily eliminated half of the projects submitted and will do so again in March," Nelson advised.

He assured city officials he would continue to work in behalf of Appleton.

Drier Fire Call

Appleton firemen were called to the Robert Luedtke home, 2630 E Newberry St., at 6:33 p.m. Thursday when lint in a clothes dryer began burning. Damage was minor.

NFO Sets Meeting on Withholding

TWELVE CORNERS — The Outagamie County chapter of the National Farmers Organization will consider its proposed milk withholding program at 8:30 p.m. Monday at Penning's Country Club.

The meeting was rescheduled because of inclement weather earlier this week.

Officers and member of the dairy bargaining committee will be elected.

Lutheran Official Sets Parley at Appleton Church

The Rev. Dr. Lloyd Goetz, president of the North Wisconsin District of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, will visit Faith Lutheran Church and conduct a conference with the pastor and church officers this weekend.

Dr. Goetz's agenda includes a meeting with the Rev. Henry Simon, pastor, Saturday, preaching at both the 8 and 10:30 a.m. services Sunday and a meeting with church officers between services.

The visit is the first in a series designed to serve all the congregations in the district and provide advisory and consultation services to each parish.

Library Unit to Name Officers

KAUKAUNA — The first official meeting of the Friends of the Kaukauna Public Library will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Senior High School lecture room to elect officers and adopt a constitution.

Letters of invitation have been sent to over 200 prospective members, but the meeting is open to the general public or those interested in the library.

Following adoption of a constitution, which has been set up by a steering or organizing committee, the meeting will recess for light refreshments. During this time persons may sign the constitution as charter members and attend discussion groups at which time persons may indicate their hopes as to the scope of the organization's various activities and their special interest in any particular activity.

Following the recess, the assembly will again meet for nomination and election of officers.

Police Investigating Attempted Break-in

KIMBERLY — Police are investigating an attempted break-in believed to have taken place sometime Wednesday night or early Thursday, at the Kimberly D-X Service Station, 204 W. Kimberly Ave.

Broken windows were found in a rear door and side window, but persons responsible were unable to enter due to mesh wiring inside.

Sunday Concert

Lawrence Musicians to Feature 20th Century

A concert devoted exclusively to 20th century composition is planned by the Lawrence Symphonic Band for its first program of the season at 3 p.m. Sunday in Memorial Chapel.

Fred G. Schroeder, professor of music will conduct the 70-member student ensemble.

Compositions by Ned Rorem, Charles Carter, Vaclav Nelhybel, George Rochberg, Paul Faucet and Gian-Grlo Menotti will be featured.

The composers, most of them living, represent a new breed of artist who in recent decades has become increasingly concerned with the possibilities of the wind ensemble. Several are America born, and several have taken advantage of the patronage possibilities inherent in the American university.

The Lawrence Band's program is the first of three this month in state cities. On Jan. 28, the ensemble will perform at South Milwaukee Senior High School, and on Jan. 29 at Range Line Middle School, Mequon. Sunday's concert and the two later programs are open to the public without charge.

State Psychiatrists To Confer at Oshkosh

MILWAUKEE — The Wisconsin Psychiatric Association (WPA), a district branch of the American Psychiatric Association, will hold its annual meeting Feb. 3-5 at The Pioneer at Oshkosh.

"Human Sexuality, Fact and Fiction" will be the theme of the meeting. Harry J. Colgan, M.D., Neenah, president of the Northern Chapter of the WPA, will participate in the program. Stanley Miezom Jr., M.D., Oshkosh is on the program committee and Mrs. Colgan, Neenah, is chairman of the hostess committee.

Chilton Board Damage Suit Is On April Docket

School Asks $12,987 From Appleton Firm Now in Bankruptcy

CHILTON — A $12,987 damage suit, filed by the Chilton District of Education against the defunct Mullen Electric Co., Appleton, in January 1964 will be heard in Calumet County Court in April, according to suit is seeking $2,987 compensatory damages and $10,000 punitive damage.

Various sources previously had reported the suit was being readied for filing in the amount of $4,000. Lutz said today the suit is seeking compensatory damages and $10,000 punitive damage.

The suit alleges that the firm failed to meet contract specifications. The district claims the electrical firm was contracted in 1953 to install electrical connections from a feeder pole across the street to a school. The conduit was to be metal encased in concrete.

When a school addition was being constructed in 1963 it became necessary to install additional electrical connections. During the course of construction it was found the original wiring had a concrete casement for a distance of only 10 feet from the feeder pole and again 10 feet from its exit point at the building. The remainder of the wiring was encased in parchment tubing, the suit alleges. The entire span was covered by a thin concrete cap, according to authorities.

Richard Mullen, sole owner of the firm, petitioned for bankruptcy Jan. 3, 1967.

Realtors Set Study Plan

Three-Year Course Established to Ground Members

The Wisconsin Realtors Association is launching an ambitious three year program next month to make professional knowledge, training and education available to its members and their sales staffs.

This was the message conveyed by John Vander Zanden to the combined memberships of the Appleton and Neenah-Menasha Boards of Realtors Thursday at a joint dinner meeting at the Elks Club in Menasha.

Vander Zanden, a Green Bay Realtor, has been closely involved with the establishment of the Wisconsin Realtors Institute. He spoke Thursday night to members of the two groups holding the first in a year-long series of joint meetings.

A three-year course opens at the Park Motor Inn at Madison from Feb. 19 to 25.

Course One will be offered each year at the Wisconsin Realtors Institute. It is a basic program to give a base in the fundamental knowledge needed by real estate salesmen. It includes: real estate principals, construction, appraisal listing and sales techniques, contracts and conveyances, advertising, real estate finance, introduction to real estate tax problems, professional standards, laws of agency, trading and exchanging.

This basic course will be repeated in February 1968. For successful graduates, a new course will also be offered which will expand on the first year's program as well as add three new fields; office and sales management, property management and taxation.

In 1969, the third course will be offered. It is designed to expand on the first two courses and add counseling, syndications and subdivisions and shopping centers. The first two courses also will be repeated.

Also anticipated at this time is a post-graduate course in specialized fields of real estate.

Sullivan to Seek Mayor's Office

KAUKAUNA—Clarence Sullivan took out nomination papers for the office of mayor at the city clerk's office Thursday, becoming the second candidate to seek the 1-year term remaining on the late Mayor Joseph Bayorgeon's term.

Mayor Gilbert Anderson, elected by the council, is also seeking re-election. Sullivan, 101 W. Second St., is married and operates a tavern and boarding house. He ran unsuccessfully for the same office against Mayor Bayorgeon in 1966.

First Candidate Files Papers for 19th Ward Post

Ralph E. McHugh, unsuccessful candidate for 19th Ward alderman two years ago, filed nomination papers today and will make his second bid for the office in the spring election.

McHugh, who resides at 1119 W. Frances St., is a machine operator for Kimberly-Clark Corp.

Ald. Arthur E. Mueller (19th) announced previously he would not seek re-election.

Another resident circulating papers in the ward is Ralph Gertsch, 1833 N Mason St.

Anyone interested in running for any of the 10 city council and two school board posts to be filled this spring may obtain nomination papers from the city clerk's office at the city hall.

Deadline for filing is Jan. 31.

Third Marriage Ended By Pair at Oshkosh

OSHKOSH — Ruth Oehler Dommer, 54, Oshkosh, has been granted a divorce from Elroy H. Dommer, 35, of 901 S. Outagamie St., Appleton, in Winnebago County Circuit Court.

The couple was married Nov. 5, 1965. It was the third marriage for both parties. There are no children by the marriage.

The husband was the plaintiff in the divorce, but the suit was contested by the wife.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

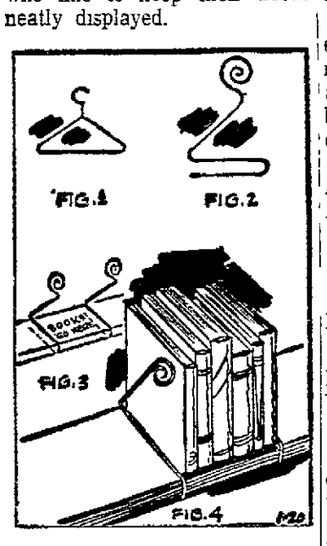
Display Your Books With Adjustable Bookends

BY CAPPY DICK

A pair of adjustable book ends that will hold a row of books upright on a shelf is today's fun-project for boys and girls who like to keep their books neatly displayed.



Ends Can be Moved

The book ends are made from wire coat hangers (Figure 1). Straighten each hanger and re-bend it to the shape shown in Figure 2.

The dotted lines in Figure 3 show how each book end is to be fitted onto the shelf. The part that slides over and under the shelf should fit fairly snugly.

The books are to be placed between the two ends, of course, and Figure 4 shows how to do it.

If more books are to be added to the group, the book ends need only be moved farther apart. If there are to be fewer books, simply slide the book ends closer together.

Lesson in English

BY W. L. GORDON

Words often misused: Do not say, "Each of the two plates was identical in color." Say, "The plates WERE identical in color." The "each" makes the idea singular, whereas "identical" requires TWO things to be compared.

Often mispronounced: Imprimatur (sanction). Pronounce im-prim-ai-ter, principal accent on third syllable.

Often misspelled: Pincers (the tool); not "pinchers."

Word study: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day. Today's word: SUFFUSE; to overspread, as with vapor, fluid or color. "Her face was suffused with a glow of embarrassment."

Catholics Tuned in on Protestant Service

MEADVILLE, Pa. (AP) — Every Sunday during services, unusual sounds creep into St. Marys Roman Catholic church in this western Pennsylvania community.

The sounds are that of a Protestant church service being broadcast by a local radio station.

By some oddity of electricity, the radio broadcasts were being picked up by the public address system in St. Marys. No one has found a way to overcome it.

Aaron Sorry to See Mathews Leave Braves

Eddie's Number Retired; Hank Eyes Big Raise

By RON SPEER

ATLANTA (AP) — Half of the best home-run hitting duo in big league history won't be back for the Braves this year, and Hank Aaron says he'll miss old No. 41.

"You hate to lose a guy like that after playing with him for 13 years," Aaron said of the Atlanta Braves' trade which sent veteran slugger Eddie Mathews to Houston.

As teammates, Aaron and Mathews pounded out 863 homers for the Braves, an all-time record which bettered the mark of 793 slammed by Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig as teammates for the New York Yankees.

Not only will Mathews not be around this summer, his number also will be missing.

No. 41 was retired Thursday by Atlanta in honor of Mathews' big league achievements in 15 campaigns with the Braves, in which he hit 493 home runs, good enough for a tie for seventh on the all-time homer chart.

Shock Has Worn Off

"I'm sure Eddie will be happy about having his number retired," said Aaron, in town to talk about his 1967 salary. "He told me when I talked to him last that the shock of being traded had worn off.

"I know it was a shock to him, because it would be to me if the Braves traded me," added Aaron. "I wouldn't want to play anywhere else.

"I'll miss Eddie, because we were more than just teammates on the baseball field. He was the only guy I ever saw that I could communicate with. I had ideas and he had ideas, and we talked about them.

"And the competition between the two of us made better players of both of us." Aaron added. "Eddie is a helluva ball player."

Raise In Offing

Aaron, of course, is also one of the best in the business and he indicated he hopes to get paid rather well for his labors this summer.

He said he expects to get "a big raise" over the reported $75,000 he made last year, and he indicated he was shooting for about $100,000.

The 32-year-old right-fielder hit 44 home runs and drove in 127 runs in 1966, leading the National League in both departments.

This year, however, he has his sights set on boosting his batting average, which skidded to his all-time low of .279 in 1966.

Probe Reveals That Sports Expense at UW Tops $1 Million

Fund Does Not Have Enough Balance to Aid Cost Cutting

MADISON (AP)—The University of Wisconsin's athletic fund does not have enough balance in it to be of any aid in reducing state appropriations for the school, a research report found today.

The study was issued by the legislative budget staff after lawmakers had called for a probe of sports spending.

The report said the university spent $1.1 million in athletics the last fiscal year, with a balance of $97,000 left over for future operating expenses.

Lists Expenses

Nearly $550,000, half of the spending, went for salaries and wages. The audit also included such items, however, as $100,000 in scholarships, $119,000 in travel and $102,000 in postage, laundry and miscellaneous expenses.

The report carried no breakdown on either these items or such additional categories as $35,000 in medical expenses and $34,000 in food.

A breakdown for the audit for the previous fiscal years listed summaries of amounts up to $1,500 in meals at various Madison restaurants, $1,469 in lodging at a downtown hotel, and $3,000 in dental expenses.

The meals were listed as having been spent for "guests of the athletic department."

The athletic fund is financed with admission fees and television charges. Football brought in two-thirds of the income in 1965-66 at nearly $860,000.

Rate Orioles' Series Sweep 'Upset' of Year

Texas Western's Win Over Kentucky Second in Poll

By MIKE RECHT

NEW YORK (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles' four-game sweep over the Los Angeles Dodgers in the World Series easily rated the sports upset of the year in a nationwide Associated Press poll released Thursday.

The Orioles drew 267 first place votes and a total of 971 points from sports writers and sportscasters on the basis of three points for first place, two for second and three for third.

Texas Western's victory over Kentucky in the National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball final last March was second, far behind with 363 points, including 39 top votes.

Gets 25 Votes

Brazil's upset of the United States in Davis Cup zone play attracted 25 first place votes and 218 points with Bill Casper's comeback to beat Arnold Palmer in the U.S. Open golf tournament fourth with 22 top votes and 216 points.

The Orioles, despite a runaway with the American League pennant, rated the underdog against Dodger pitching in the Series. However, Baltimore unveiled some sparkling mound work of its own as reliever Moe Drabowsky blanked the Dodgers for the last 6 1-3 innings in the opener and Jim Palmer, Wally Bunker and Dave McNally followed with shutouts that set a World Series mark of 33 1-3 straight innings without a run.

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Don Murphy, the Green Bayite who loaned Curly Lambeau $250 to buy a football franchise for Green Bay more than 40 years ago, watched the Packers beat the Chiefs via television at his home in St. Petersburg, Fla., and noted:

"Things sure have changed. . .now everybody has a chance to play. It's really a marvelous thing."

Murphy, who will turn 71 on Feb. 10, said he was "most impressed by Bart Starr. He knew when to call the right play."

The former owner was so proud, according to Bill Buchalter of the St. Petersburg Times, that he had trouble expressing his satisfaction about the victory, preferring to punctuate questions with "Yes sir" and "Yes, I do."

But Mrs. Murphy told it best: "There'll be no living with him for a while. His chest is as wide as Central Avenue."

Argued With Halas

Murphy went to Canton, O., with $250 of his money to buy the franchise in the then newly formed National Professional Football League. "We had some argument with George Halas over the size of Green Bay but we got it anyway," reminisced Murphy.

Murphy retired from the lumber business in Green Bay 17 years ago and moved to St. Petersburg.

Scores of wires of congratulations have been received by the Packers and Coach Vince Lombardi. . .all saluting the Bays for winning the world title.

One of them was grom Grace Garland Lambeau, former wife of Curly, who wrote: "Had Curly been here he would have been very proud of the Green

One of them was from Grace coach Vince Lombardi."

Another wire came from Colts' Corrals, the Baltimore organization which raised so much havoc over "that" field goal in the sudden death playoff a year ago. The Colt fans were pleased with Green Bay's victory over Kansas City.

Other Telegrams

Among others who sent wires were Art Rooney of the Steelers; Stormy Bidwell of the Cardinals; George Sauer of Jets and a onetime Packer; Lou Spadia of the 49ers; Carroll Rosenbloom of the Colts; Walter Kennedy, president of the National Basketball Assn.; Johnson Spink, publisher of the Sporting News; Col. Frank Kerritt, athletic director of the Air Force Academy; the Omaha Mustangs Football Club; Rep. John Byrnes; and Blanton Collier of the Browns.

Peace and quiet has settled over the famous building at 1265 Highland Ave. . . .Well, not exactly.

The athletes have departed, of course, but the big crush now is mail. Chuck Lane, publicity director, said "We're getting 500 letters a day from fans all over the country and we're answering all of them." Most of the fans request pictures of the players, some offer suggestions on "winning" football, and others merely congratulate the team.

Carr Leads Nicklaus By 1 in Crosby Meet

Four Beat Par on Treacherous Spyglass Hill; Miller Barber Commits 30-Stroke Error

By JACK STEVENSON

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Spyglass Hill's budding reputation as a super monster among golf courses took a beating just as soon as the big name pros began attacking in Bing Crosby's $104,500 tournament.

Four of the leading seven going into today's second round had fired over Spyglass, the course built along the beach and through the forest in the area where the Treasure Island novel was written.

Joe Carr, a 28-year-old from Worcester, Mass., who won only $50 in official money last year grabbed the lead with a 68 at Cypress Point and big Jack Nicklaus carded a 69 at Pebble Beach. Al Geiberger, the PGA tournament champ, had a 70 there.

Also at 70, two under par, were four who shot at Spyglass — New Zealand's southpaw Bob Charles, Jack Burke Jr., Jerry Pittman, and little known Jim Colbert of Kansas City, Kan.

"It's one of the really good courses already," commented Charles, but others weren't so generous in descriptions of the new 6,972-yard layout where holes have such nicknames as Billy Bones and Long John Silver.

Walks Plank

Defending champion Don Massengale walked the plank at Spyglass with an 80 while Miller Barber scribbled himself out of what might have been a treasure. After shooting a 72, he incorrectly inscribed his nine-hole total of 34 in the box where he should have put his 4 for the 18th.

He had to accept a 34 for the single hole, 64 for the nine and 102 for the 18.

A year ago in the Sunday finals at Pebble, Geiberger shot a 76 at Pebble and finished two strokes behind Massengale for top money.

Under Crosby's plan, each pro-amateur team plays each of the three courses and then the low 40 teams and pros in contention shoot in Sunday's final. A $16,000 prize awaits the low scoring pro and the one on the winning team gets $2,700.

Leading the pro-am sector, where the handicaps of the amateurs count in the scoring, were three teams — Dick Crawford and Wheeler Farish, Jack Rule and Ed Lowery and Dale Douglass and Joe Dyer, tied at 62.

Animals Had Their Day Thursday at the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am golf tournament. High Scoring Likely in AFL All-Star Game

League Hoping for Crowd of 30,000 at Oakland Coliseum

By RON BERGMAN

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Possibly the last American Football League All Star Game goes on national television Saturday from the Oakland Coliseum with a high-scoring outcome the prospect between the East and West squads.

Players from both the AFL and the National Football League — which plays its All Star Game Sunday in Los Angeles—have proposed a super all star clash between players from the merged leagues. Present television commitments probably would be the biggest obstacle to such a game next season.

The AFL contest was supposed to have been played last week to showcase the new Oakland Coliseum. But the merger produced the Super Bowl and some of the All Star allure was rubbed off in the 35-10 defeat of Kansas City by Green Bay last Sunday.

100-Mile Blackout

That could be shown at 1:30 p.m. (PST) kickoff in the 53,000 seat Coliseum. The AFL is hoping for 30,000 fans but wouldn't be shocked if up to 6,000 fewer appeared despite a 100-mile television blackout.

Television ratings should prove interesting for this absolutely, guaranteed last weekend of the football season. Has the saturation point been reached by at-home viewers?

Whoever chooses to watch can expect to see a high-scoring show as the East tries to win its first All Star game. They lost the first four before players from seven teams thrashed Buffalo 30-19 last year in an altered format at Houston.

West coach John Rauch of Oakland, in his first All Star assignment, and East coach Mike Holovak of Boston, in his sec-

McPeak Reported In Line for Job As Lions' Coach

DETROIT (AP)—Bill McPeak, a former head coach of the Washington Redskins, Thursday was reported being a top candidate for the backfield coach of the Detroit Lions in the National Football League.

The 40-year-old McPeak reportedly has been approached for the job by Joe Schmidt, the Lions' new head coach.

Detroit News sports writer Pete Waldmeir reported in Thursday's News that the News had learned Wednesday night about McPeak's being contacted by Schmidt.

McPeak was head coach and general manager of the Redskins from 1961 to 1965.

A 12-year NFL veteran and a former All-Pro defensive end, McPeak was an assistant coach with the Pittsburgh Steelers before taking over the Redkins in Dec. 1960.

He was fired in January 1966, and Otto Graham was hired to replace him.

Bobcats Lose, Will Invade Waterloo Ice

The Green Bay Bobcats, who lost an 8-3 decision at Marquette Thursday night, invade Waterloo in Saturday night's United States Hockey League feature.

It will be first-place Green Bay's first 1966-7 meeting with the defending champion Black Hawks, who trail by only four points. The teams will again clash Sunday on Waterloo ice.

While the Bobcats are striving to hold off Waterloo, the suddenly revitalized United Nationals will be opposing the second-place Rochester Mustangs, only three points back of Green Bay, in the Mayo Civic Auditorium.

George Washington Board Votes To Drop Intercollegiate Football

By TOM SEPPY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The board of trustees at George Washington University voted Thursday to end the school's intercollegiate football program after 58 years of varsity competition.

The 36 trustees, during an all-day meeting in which the athletic program was re-evaluated, also voted to set aside $250,000 annually beginning during the 1967-68 school year to aid in financing a new recreation-physical education building.

They also called for an expanded intramural program and a broadening of other varsity sports.

News Conference

The announcement was made at a news conference by Warren Gould, vice president for resources at the university.

Gould read a statement in which the trustees said the decision was made after "reviewing the possible courses of action and considering the limited resources with which the university must meets its commitments.

Dr. Louis H. Elliott, university president, recommended that the school drop football immediately because it was costing approximately $250,000 a year to be played by the downtown Washington school.

Dr. Elliott's study of the football program was the second at the school in the last 18 months.

It prompted head coach Jim Camp to resign a month ago. He said at the time he was making the move because of "the uncertainty which surrounds the future of football."

Adequate Gym

With the death of football, basketball is expected to be emphasized by the Colonials who never have had an adequate gymnasium. GW plays its home games at Ft. Myer gym in Arlington, Va.

George Washington fielded its first football team in 1890. It has since compiled an overall record of 208 victories, 241 losses and 34 ties.

One of the reasons for the board's decision was the lack of interest by the students. Only an estimated 25 per cent of the school's 13,000 students attended football games played either at D.C. Stadium or at high school fields in nearby Virginia.

Football had its brighter days at GW, first under Jim Pixlee and later under Bo Rowland and Eugene (Bo) Sherman

Sherman coached the 1956 team which earned the only bowl bid in Colonial history. That squad defeated Texas Western 13-0 in the Sun Bowl at El Paso.

In their final season of varsity competition in 1966, the Colonials compiled a 4-6 record overall and 4-3 in the Southern Conference where they finished fourth.

Kotlarek Heads Ski Entries for Eau Claire Test

EAU CLAIRE (AP) —Gene Kotlarek of Duluth, Minn., the defending national Class A champion, heads an entry list of more than 100 for the 24th annual Eau Claire Ski Club Tournament Sunday.

Six former Olympic riders also are entered in the meet sanctioned by the Central U.S. Ski Association.

Local favorites are Larry Bergh in Class A and Billy Olson, defending national veterans titlist.

The record for Hendrickson Hill is 204 feet, set by Niilo Halonen of Finland in 1965.

Falcons Hope to Work Out Trade For QB Claridge

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Atlanta Falcons indicated Thursday they hope to work out a trade for reserve quarterback Dennis Claridge, who has been quoted as saying he plans to retire

Claridge, who started several games for the Falcons last fall but was beaten out of a job by rookie Randy Johnson, said after Atlanta's last game that he wouldn't be back.

Coach Norb Hecker said "we had no plans to retire Dennis. He did a good job. He did ask us last fall if something could be done, and perhaps something can be worked out."

However, Hecker said no trades can be made in the pro ranks until after New Orleans, newest National Football League team, is stocked with players next month.

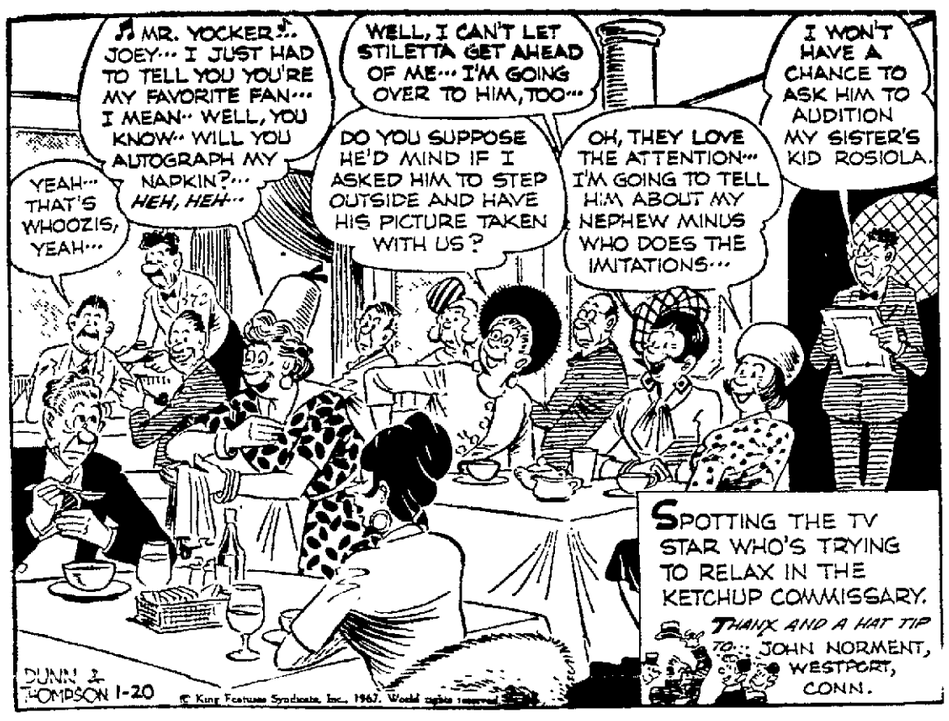
They'll Do It Every Time



Al Spang Powers 694 Pin Count In Classic League

Bob Coenen Thunders 268 Game In Little Chute Pin Circuit

Three booming games and a near-national honor count highlighted Fox Cities bowling action Thursday night.

Al Spang, bowling in the 41 Bowl Classic League accounted for two of the feats as he socked a 277 game and blasted a 694 series.

Other top games included a hefty 268 by Bob Coenen in the Thursday Businessmen's League at the Little Chute Recreation Lanes and a 262 by Larry Kyle in the KCA General Office League at the 41 Bowl.

Spang cracked nine strikes in a row in his last game and needed a strike in the 10th to assure himself of the national honor set. However, he got eight pins, cleaned the spare and then picked up nine on his final delivery.

Spang's series was one of seven which topped the 600 mark in the league and there were 10 games of 225 or better rolled. Runnerup in series was Roger Koehn with a 647 which included games of 238 and 225.

Coenen's 268 line was the best of the season in the Little Chute Businessmen's loop and included nine strikes, seven of which came in succession. He finished with a 624 series which also paced the loop.

Kyle's high game enabled him to finish with a 571 series while John Davis topped the league with a 592 set which included a 228 line. Charlie Hahn had a 241 game and 574 series.

Larry Shebilske set the pace in the Grocers League at the 41 Bowl as he fired a 242 game and Jim Braun shared individual honors with his 614 series. Shebilske finished with a 578.

In the Kimberly Classic League at Jerry's Lanes, Gene Peerenboom led the way with a 227 game and 611 series. Elmer Kobs was runnerup with a 599 series.

William Riordan blasted a 245 game and Dave Wilson had a 573 series to lead the way in the Appleton Auto League at the 41 Roger Brandt.

Len Urban set the pace in the Tap-a-Keg League at Sabre Lanes Thursday night as he cracked a 232 line and 612 series. The loop's only other honor score was a 555 set by Riger Brandt.

Clemson Routs Furman

Drake Rolls to 70-57 Win Over Iowa State

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Princeton Tigers are the most surprising team in college basketball so far this season, the Kentucky Wildcats the flop and the Western Kentucky Hilltoppers perhaps the most overlooked.

These observations were prompted today as the season entered the midyear exams doldrums that reduce major games to a minimum.

Drake crushed Iowa State 70-57 and Clemson routed Furman 82-67 in the leading games of Thursday night's slim program. All the Top Ten teams in The Associated Press poll were idle.

Led by 19 points from 6-foot-8 Gary Lovemark, Drake built a 36-18 lead at Des Moines as the Bulldogs turned the tables on the Cyclones for a defeat last month at Ames.

Arizona Humbled

Jim Sutherland pumped in 29 points to pace Clemson in its home court triumph over Furman. In other games, the Miami, Fla., Hurricanes whipped Florida Southern 102-72 and the AAU Phillips Oilers humbled Arizona 101-74.

Princeton did not receive a vote in the preseason AP poll, but the Ivy Leaguers currently are ranked fifth nationally with a 13-1 record. The Nassau Tigers, led by soph Christ Thomforde and veterans John Haarlow and Gary Walters, have been beaten only by second-ranked Louisville.

The collapse of Kentucky is unprecedented in the 37-year coaching career of Adolph Rupp. The Wildcats, who won 27 of 28 games last season before losing to Texas Western in the 1966 NCAA-tourney championship final, have suffered seven defeats in 12 starts. They were ranked third to UCLA and Texas Western in the preseason poll, but no longer are in the AP Top Ten.

Western Kentucky, the Ohio Conference champs, won 25 of 28 games last season and were ranked eighth in the preseason poll. The Hilltoppers lost their opening game 76-70 to Vanderbilt, but since have compiled a 13-game winning streak. Despite their 13-1 mark they have not been in the Top Ten since the opening weeks of the campaign.

72-65 in the final and deprived the Wildcats and Adolph Rupp of a fifth national title.

The United States Davis Cup team was the heavy favorite against Brazil in inter-zone play in November, particularly after Dennis Ralston won the first singles and he and Cliff Richey captured the doubles for a 2-1 lead.

But Thomas Koch crushed Rickey 6-1, 7-5, 6-1 to tie the score at 2-2 and Jose Adison Mandarino surprised Ralston 4-6, 6-4, 6-4, 6-1 to give Brazil the best-of-five series.

Casper, trailing by seven strokes in the final round to Palmer, closed with a rush that result in a 72-hole tie, and then beat Palmer in a playoff.

The other top ten upsets were India's victory over Brazil in Davis Cup zone play, Dick Tiger beating Jose Torres for the light heavyweight boxing title, Oklahoma's victory over previously unbeaten Nebraska in college football, UCLA's triumph a year ago over Michigan State in the Rose Bowl, Texas Tech upending Arkansas in football, and the New York Jets knocking the Boston Patriots out of the American Football League title game.

Ghosts' Mat Team Beats Shawano

SHAWANO — Kaukauna got pins from 138-pounder Sam Beach and heavyweight Dick Huss in downing Shawano's wrestling team, 29-15, here Thursday night in a Mid-Eastern Conference wrestling match.

The Ghosts ran their record to 10-4 for the year in dual meets.

The results:

95-Mike Pomery (K) beat Jeff Lundmark, 7-0.

103-Don Franklin (S) beat Dan Siebers, 4-0.

112-Steve Van Schyndel (K) beat Vaughn Boosell, 9-1.

127-Eugene Rohde (S) beat Terry Van Wychen, 4-2.

133-Al Hartzeim (K) beat Don Harvey, 7-3.

138-Sam Beach (K) pinned Jim LeRoy, 1:56.

145-Paul Bachhuber (K) beat Wendall Kenote, 12-1.

154-Paul Peters (K) and Bruce Galland (S) drew, 1-1.

165-Scott Bay (K) and John Irish (S), 2-2.

180-Clarence Fish (S) pinned Dave Balck, 3:14.

Hvt.-Dick Huss (K) pinned Pat Neitzel, 1:06.

Allen, Visconti Battling for Skating Title

Peggy Fleming Opens Defense of Women's Crown

By JERRY LISKA

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Peerless Peggy Fleming, reigning world champion, began defense of her national women's title and Scott Allen was seriously menaced as reigning men's champion as the U.S. Figure Skating Meet today moved into its third round.

Miss Fleming was an overwhelming favorite to capture her fourth successive crown as an 11-woman field collided in the opening compulsory figures competition.

9-Skater Field

But Allen, 17, of Smoke Rise, N.J., held a hairline five-one hundredth of a point lead over his nemesis, Gary Visconti, 21, Detroit, in pacing the nine-skater field into tonight's free style session which will settle the men's singles championship.

The free style phase counts for 40 per cent in the total scoring, so Allen goes under hot pressure by both Visconti, who dethroned the Eastern star in the 1965 National, and another Detroiter, 18-year-old Tim Wood, a chest surgeon's son.

Allen, 5-foot-8 high school senior, knows what to expect from the dapper 5-3 Visconti who not only unseated him in 1965 but also took a third to Allen's fourth in the 1966 World Meet at Davos, Switzerland.

Junior Champions

Three championships, all in the junior divisions, were settled before 3,508 in Ak-Sar-Ben Coliseum Thursday night.

The junior men's crown went to 5-foot-11 Roger Bass, 17, Lakewood, Calif., high schooler, who was 1965 national novice champion. In the closing free style skating Bass was fourth, but he took four of five over-all firsts on his strong compulsory figures Wednesday.

Runner-up was little 13-year-old Gordon McKellen, Reading, Pa. son of a former ice show star, Tuffy McKellen.

In a photo finish, the junior women's crown went to Julie Lynn Holmes, South Pasadena, Calif., high school junior. The only difference between Julie and 13-year-old Patty Grazier, Denver eight-grader, was the vote of one of five judges who gave Miss Holmes a third place and Patty a fourth place. The rest of the votes were identical.

A pair of 15-year-old Downey, Calif., high school sophomores, Alicia Starbuck and Kenneth Shelley, were the unanimous choice of the judges in the junior pairs finals, giving the Arctic Figure Skating Club of Paramount, Calif., its third championship.

In Thursday's opening senior men's compulsory figures, Allen won three firsts while Visconti and Wood each got one first.

March 4, at Preble.
March 11, State Gymnastic Meet (at Menomonee Falls).

Appleton Mat Team Wins Over Peshtigo

Appleton High School's wrestling team nipped Peshtigo, 25-24, Thursday night, in a non-conference match.

Steve Shepard got the decisive pin for the Terrors in the 180-pound division by defeating Steve Brissette in 3:28 to give Appleton a 25-21 lead going into the final match.

Lakeland Leads Small Colleges

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Lakeland College of Sheboygan, Wis., continues to lead the nation's small college basketball teams in winning margins, the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics said today.

The Muskies are third in the nation in scoring with an average of 103 points per game. Their average winning margin is 24.4 points.

Lakeland's Gary Hovey was 11th in scoring with 355 points, an average of 27.3 per game. The Muskies were 22nd in team field goal shooting with a percentage of 50.2, and seventh in team rebounding with a .601 record.

Jack Lutz and Jerry Parks of Carthage College, Kenosha, Wis., were among the scoring leaders. Lutz placed 33rd with a 23.4 point average. Placing 51st was Parks with a 21.8 average.

Carthage was 12th nationally in free throw shooting hitting 74 per cent.

Pat Jack Paces Hortonville Women's Loop With 558 Set

Pat Jack belted games of 201 and 208 on her way to a 558 series and top honors in the Hortonville Women's League at the Hortonville Lanes Thursday night.

Rosie Gitter had a 214 game to share individual honors and Millie Kluge hit a 193 game as did Carol Conn.

Beverly Behrent and Elaine Smith shared honors in the Hahn's Navy League Thursday night as Beverly socked a 222 game and Elaine had a 552 series. Beverly finished with a 523 series and Elaine had games of 192 and 197.

Other top Navy League scores included Marge DeYoung 521; Joan Reitzner 195-507; Mary Schultz 192-507; Carol Ristow 203-532; Sue Jentz 193-191-544.

Divide Honors

Grace Hansel had a 192 game and Helen Koehn and Pat Lutz each posted a 521 series for a 3-way divide of honors in the Hahn's Women's League last night. Mrs. Lutz had a 190 game and Mrs. Hansel had a 516 series.

Other high counts included Marie Reybrock 537; Marion Van Groll 515 and Phyllis McAdam 191.

Shirley Boyer had a 200 game and Ruth Schmidt slammed a 520 series to top the Alley Cat League at the 41 Bowl last night. Other high scores included Virginia Tegen 516, Elaine Hintz 507 and Hattie Reim 199.

In the Flower League at the 41 Bowl the lone honor score was a 204 game by JoAnn Saunders.

Carol Dietz Hits 236

Carol Dietz blasted a 236 game for top score in the Gemini 12 League at Sabre Lanes. Lou Petersen had a 190 singleton.

The Kimberly Ladies League Wednesday night was paced by Joyce Kunstman with a 502 series while Doris Peerenboom and Mary Williamson each had a 190 game.

Shirley Vandenberg walked off with individual honors in the Ladies League at Gene's Lanes, Freedom as she hit a 198 game and 508 series.

Del Evers had a 202 game and 532 series Tuesday night to lead the Women's League at Ludwig's Lanes, Freedom.

Lox Club Wins In Tourney At Kaukauna

Neenah Foundry Bows, 93-62, to Milt's Club 616

KAUKAUNA — Fox Cities basketball teams split even Thursday night in the Holy Cross Home-School Association tournament.

The Lox Club, of Combined Locks, downed Green Bay's Reliance Printers, 94-80. Bill Borcherdt and Lee Otto paced the win with 18 and 14 points, respectively. For Reliance, Jerry Hopfensperger and Wayne Plinska tallied 21 and 13, respectively.

Lox took a 29-22 lead after one quarter and was never headed.

Neenah Foundry dropped a 93-62 decision to Milt's 616 Club. Milt's led, 42-37, at halftime, then broke open the game with a 25-13 edge in the third period. John Patterson led the win with 21 points, and Ron Smits added 16. For Neenah, Bob Stumpf and Pat Cullen hit 17 and 14, respectively.

At 1:15 p.m. Saturday, Kappell's meets Willie's of Plover. At 2:45, Lox Club clashes with Milt's Club 616.

Vike Matmen Face Cornell, Coe, Grinnell

Coming off its first dual meet victory of the season, the Lawrence University wrestling team gets a triple dose of Midwest Conference opponents this weekend.

Coach Ron Roberts will take his grapplers to Beloit for a "triple dual" featuring matches against Cornell, Coe and Grinnell. Beloit and Ripon teams also will be involved in the 3-way test.

Last weekend, the Vikes came through with a 33-8 triumph over the Milwaukee Institute of Technology last Saturday after seeing its victory streak snapped by St. Norbert College last Friday.

The Vikings had a string of 13 dual meet wins going before the Green Knights took a 21-18 decision. Roberts explained that several of his veteran matmen missed the St. Norbert meet because of illness or injury and this had to be considered a factor in the defeat. He expects all members of the squad to be ready for action this weekend.

Personal Goal for 1967

Ryun Sets Sights on First Sub-3:50 Mile

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP)—"I don't want this to sound too cocky," said Jim Ryun after revealing his personal goal for the coming outdoor season is the world's first sub-3:50 mile.

The modest, introspective Kansas sophomore holds the world mile record of 3:51.3, set last June at Berkeley, Calif. Even before this record race, Ryun's fans and many coaches were talking in terms of a mile in the 3:40s for the former Wichita, Kan., paper boy.

"I hope people understand," said the 19-year-old Ryun. "I feel a little stupid every time someone comes up to me and I just say 'I just try to keep improving.' They ask 'How much?' and it's obvious that if it's very much, it's under 3:50.

Not Egotistic

"If I can just word it right, I don't see why I shouldn't say what everyone knows . . . I hope it's not egotistic."

He opens the indoor season Saturday night in the Los Angeles Invitational.

Ryun said his best mile of last year should have come June 4 in the Compton Relays at Los Angeles because his workouts produced outstanding time, he was in peak form and confident.

But Ryun never heard his quarter times in that race. He didn't know the first quarter was slow. His time was 3:53.7, one-tenth second off the world

"I felt so good afterward," he said, "I think I could have run mark.
under 3:50 then."

The Los Angeles meet and the Portland Invitational Jan. 28 will be Ryun's only open races of the indoor season. Most of the time, his prime objective will be scoring as many points as he can for Kansas.

Viking Swim Team Will Take on Ripon

Varsity and freshman swim teams from Ripon College will invade the Alexander Gymnasium pool on the Lawrence University campus for a dual meet Saturday.

Coach Gene Davis' Viking squad, which split a pair of meets with conference foes last weekend, will be looking for its second victory of the campaign. The Vikes have one win, one defeat and a tie.

Lawrence recorded a 61-34 win over St. Olaf last Friday, but dropped a 53-42 decision to a strong Carleton team Saturday.

In the Carleton meet, the Lawrence 400-yard freestyle relay team consisting of Carl Liebich, Dick Stockwell, Toc Mitchell and Pete House established a new pool record with a clocking of 3 minutes 44.3 seconds which clipped eight seconds off the old mark.

The freshmen will be getting their first chance to swim in dual competition. In an exhibition last weekend John Fease of the Lawrence frosh squad set a new pool record in the 500-yard freestyle event and the freshman relay team of Dick Cogswell, Steve Steenrod, John Sall and Fease posted a new mark in the 400-yard relay.

Scoremarkers Meeting Set for Saturday

Officials for the Wisconsin State Men's Bowling Tournament, which gets underway in Appleton next weekend, have announced that there will be a meeting for all scoremarkers at 1 p.m. Saturday at the 41 Bowl.

Scoremarkers are needed, and anyone interested is asked to attend the meeting.

Wildcats Face Stern Test Against Hawkeye Press and Rebounding

CHICAGO (AP) —Iowa's press and rebounding work are the main worries for Northwestern basketball coach Larry Glass.

The Wildcats, 2-0, stake their share of the Big Ten lead against the Hawkeyes at home in a televised attraction Saturday afternoon. Iowa is 1-1 in the title chase, it's only loss being last weekend to Michigan State 79-70.

MSU, tied for the lead with 2-0, is at Michigan, 0-3, in another Saturday afternoon game while Minnesota, 0-3, invades Ohio State, 1-1, at night. It is a limited schedule because of semester examinations.

"Two of Iowa's strong points have been rebounding and a full court press," says Glass. "In our last game, we defeated Illinois 104-96 but we had troubled with their rebounding and press. So we know what we have to do against Iowa.

Must Beat Press

"I think we can beat their press. Michigan State beat them on the boards and that's what we have to do. Iowa is a better shooting team than a year ago. And to put a defense on that Sam Williams, you had better pray. We will play him man-for-man."

Williams is a 6 foot 3 transfer from Burlington (Iowa) Junior College where he had a pair of 30-point scoring seasons. Currently, he is second only to Northwestern's Jim Burns in the Big Ten scoring race. Burns is averaging 28.5 and Williams 25.5. And when Williams isn't scoring, teammates Gerry Jones and Tom Chapman are.

Northwestern not only leads the Big Ten in team offense with a 98.5 average but also is near tops nationally. In addition to Burns, Ron Kozlicki, Mike Weaver, Jim Cummins and sophomore Terry Gamber are hitting in double figures for the season.

Spartans Better Rebounders

As for rebounding, Iowa is averaging 45.0 per conference game, second only to Michigan State's 52.5. Northwestern is 44.5.

"Our shooting is better this year partly because we are able to run more and we are getting more layups in our percentage," says Glass. "We also are shooting better from the outside."

Northwestern is hitting floor shots at a .464 percent clip, third best in the conference, while Iowa is fifth with .438. At the foul line, the two teams are one-two in the league, Northwestern leading with .782 and Iowa next with .738.

High Scoring Likely in AFL All-Star Game

ond, each figure four touchdowns are needed to win. And they figure everyone will be trying because the winners get $1,000 each and the losers $600.

Feature Passing

The West will feature passing. Quarterback Len Dawson from the AFL champion Kansas City Chiefs has a receivers Lance Alworth of San Diego, Art Powell of Oakland, Bob Scarpitto of Denver and Otis Taylor of Kansas City. Oakland's Tom Flores is the backup quarterback.

Buffalo's Jack Kemp will quarterback the East offense with help from Boston's Babe Parilli. Although Boston fullback Jim Nance, the AFL's most valuable player, had to miss the game because of Army duty, the East still plans to run more than the West.

Wray Carlton of Buffalo will start in place of Nance and will be spelled by Matt Snell of New York.

76ers Triumph; Mark Now 44-4

Fight Spices One Tilt; Van Arsdale Floors Rick Barry

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Philadelphia 76ers not only dominate the East, but they're also winning the West.

The 76ers, leaders in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division, trounced the Chicago Bulls 127-102 at Pittsburgh Thursday night for their 26th straight victory over Western Division teams.

It was the 76ers' seventh in their latest winning streak and ran their record to 44-4.

In other games, San Francisco walloped New York 123-102 and Baltimore edged Cincinnati 122-118 in a doubleheader at Baltimore.

Chicago's Don Kojis and Erwin Mueller scored a total of 19 points in the first quarter to give Chicago a 27-27 tie with the 76ers, but Philadelphia broke the game open with a 39-point spree in the second period for a 66-48 halftime lead.

The 76ers Wilt Chamberlain led all scorers with 27 points. Kojis topped Chicago with 17.

Barry Held to 22

Rick Barry, the league's leading scorer who was held to just 13 points in the San Francisco's loss to Chicago Wednesday night, got only 22, far below his average, against New York. Tom Meschery, however, took up the slack with 28. Dick Barnett led the Knicks with 21.

Barry and Tom Van Arsdale got into a pushing match in the first period and it developed into a fist fight in which Barry was floored before the officials broke it up. Both players stayed in the game.

Baltimore broke up a tight game with 11 straight last-quarter points to beat Cincinnati. Gus Johnson, who finished with 19 points, started the spurt with a field goal, and Don Ohl put Baltimore ahead to stay at 100-99 with a basket with 9:20 left.

Ohl ended with 31 points. The Royals' Oscar Robertson scored 36.

New Posters Approved for Title Fight

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The build-up for the Feb. 6 Cassius Clay-Ernie Terrell heavyweight championship bout is phony and has reached the point where it will hurt the gate, rather than help it, the Houston Chronicle says.

The two fighters have staged brief scuffles of the bear hug variety and Terrell, the World Boxing Association champion, has complained he has not received equal billing on promotion signs for the fight which is scheduled for the Astrodome.

"If the fight is as phony as the build-up then not even the 6,600 tons of air conditioning will be sufficient to remove the stink from the domed stadium in time for opening of the baseball season," Chronicle Executive Sports Editor Dick Peebles wrote in his Thursday column.

Peebles said the Clay-Terrell bout is good enough to stand on its own merits.

"For the first time in history, the heavyweight titleholders, recognized by two different organizations, are going to decide who is king," Peebles wrote.

A spokesman for the Astrodome Championship Enterprises, the promoting group, said it has not encouraged the "shoves and bearhugs" between the two fighters.

Meanwhile, Terrell and the promoters announced they had reached agreement about promotion signs. The promoters said they would make new signs which will be in use by Monday. Terrell indicated he was happy with the decision

LaRusso Refuses to Report To Detroit; NBA Trade Off

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two National Basketball Association teams were working on a deal today in an effort to salvage something of another trade which apparently has fallen through.

Meanwhile, a third team was hoping that the first trade still could be completed.

"As of now there is no deal," a Los Angeles spokesman said Thursday.

He was referring to a trade earlier this week in which Los Angeles sent 6-foot-8 cornerman Rudy LaRusso to Detroit, which in turn sent 6-foot-9 cornerman Ray Scott to Baltimore, with Baltimore's 7-foot reserve center Mel Counts going to Los Angeles.

But LaRusso, an eight-year veteran, said he couldn't go to Detroit and announced his retirement from the NBA. He said his wife is expecting their first child in about two months. In addition, he works for a Los Angeles brokerage firm.

"There are talks going on between Los Angeles and Baltimore," the Los Angeles spokesman said. "As of now LaRusso is out, and we're trying to see whether we can make another deal involving players, draft choices or cash."

However, a Baltimore spokesman said:

"We're going to sit patiently before making another move. We have nothing to lose by waiting while Detroit attempts to do something."

Detroit was hoping that LaRusso would change his mind and report to the club.

Mann Remains Unbeaten in Frosh League

Whips Madison; Kaukauna and Kimberly Lose

League-leading Neenah Mann trounced Madison, 70-41, Thursday to remain the sole unbeaten team in the Valley Frosh League.

While runner-up Conant was idle, third-place Kimberly and fourth-place Kaukauna each suffered upset losses to second division clubs.

Menasha edged the junior Papermakers, 48-45, and Wilson nipped Kaukauna, 62-59, both in overtime tilts. Einstein climbed above 500 with a 52-41 triumph over Roosevelt.

Mann cruised to its sixth straight victory as Pat Hawley hit 14 points. The winners held a nine-point margin at the intermission. LaPean ad Russel each tallied 10 points for the Madison club.

Tom Scovronski of Menasha scored the tying basket with 10 seconds left to play in the regulation time. The young Bluejays then got a 4-1 edge in baskets by Scovronski and Buzz Zeininger in the extra period to win. Tom Walter fired in 20 points to lead the Bluejays while Tim VanderVelden hit 14 for Kimberly.

Scott Nehs knotted the game, at 55-all with a basket with three seconds remaining and then led his Wilson team to victory in the overtime. Nehs hit two baskets and two free tosses and Scott Hanson three free throws to account for the Wilson points in the extra frame. Hanson topped both teams with 18 points and Nehs added 14. Mathis paced Kaukauna with 16 markers.

Einstein used a press in the fourth quarter to overcome a slight Roosevelt lead and won going away. Pete Kliefoth led the Einstein charge with 20 points and Jeff Mueller added 11, as the winners had to come from 21-18 halftime deficit. Brad McIntyre paced Roosevelt with 15 points.

Black Hawks Capture Lead

Mohns Scores Three Goals in 4-2 Triumph

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The moans of supporters of Chicago's National Hockey League team probably could be heard well beyond the Windy City each time in recent seasons the Black Hawks muffed an opportunity to win their first regular season title.

Now, Doug Mohns has 'em thinking optimistically again. The balding, veteran left wing led the Hawks into sole possession of first place Thursday night by scoring three goals in a 4-2 victory over Boston.

The Detroit Red Wings trounced Toronto 6-2 in the only other game. The New York Rangers, with whom the Hawks had been tied for the No. 1 position, and the fourth-place Montreal Canadiens were idle.

Never On Top

Chicago, the only NHL team which has never finished on top, trailed 1-0 after Gilles Marotte's goal early in the opening period. But Mohns, a former Bruin, tied it later in the session and then scored once in each of the next two periods. Kenny Wharram also registered for the Hawks while Murray Oliver notched the second Boston goal.

The triumph gave the Hawks 49 points to the Rangers' 47. Chicago was beaten out for first place onthe final night of the season in 1963 and 1964 and was a close second again in 1966.

Bruce MacGregor scored twice while Alex Delvecchio, Ray Cullen, Pete Goegan and Paul Henderson had one goal apiece for the Red Wings. Tim Horton and Ron Ellis found the net for the Maple Leafs. Henderson's marker early in the second period broke a 2-2 tie.

Buffalo Gets Mercer Back

Place Kicker Set AFL Record With 21 of 30 Field Goals

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Mike Mercer, the place kicking specialist the Kansas City Chiefs obtained last October, is returning to the Buffalo Bills.

The Bills dealt Mercer to the Chiefs in exchange for a No. 5 draft choice. But the Bills had the prerogative of acquiring Mercer at the end of the 1966 season in exchange for a fifth round draft choice in 1968. The Bills exercised their prerogative.

Accuracy Record

Mercer set an American Football League field-goal accuracy record in 1966 with 21 successful kicks out of 30 attempts for a .700 percentage.

Mercer was obtained after Tommy Brooker, a five-year veteran injured his thigh. He now has recovered.

"We are fortunate to have an experienced kicker like Brooker to open the 1967 season," Coach Hank Stram said.

"Don't forget we also have the draft rights to the Number 1 college kicker, Jan Stenerud of Montana State College."

Stenerud, who comes from Norway, kicks side-footed, soccer-style, and boots field goals 50 to 60 yards.

Still Titletown

The Packers from Titletown, U.S.A.,
Made football news for the world today,
They beat the champs of the A.F.L.
As Bart Starr cast his magic spell.

Kansas City now has griefs,
Starr made Braves of their big Chiefs.
No more Chiefs to lead the fight,
No war dance in K. C. tonight.

Their Chiefs went like all the rest,
The mighty Packers tamed the West.
History has been made today,
And Titletown is still Green Bay.

Educators Urged To Make Use of Electronics Era

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A speech professor says schools should take advantage of electronics in modern education and proposed that Wisconsin launch a communications satellite.

Lee Dreyfus, a professor of speech and radio education at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, told a state convention of school administrators Thursday that educators must realize today's students will be citizens of the 21st century eventually.

Dreyfus said schools have failed to take full advantage of television and other electronic facilities for education purposes.

He proposed a statewide communications system including a communications satellite owned and operated by the state. The satellite would cost about $2.5 million and the full system about $5 million, he said.

Dreyfus said many educational facilities are confined to a few educational centers. A communications system, he said, would make the educational resources available to all schools.

Soviets Uneasy Over Red China

MOSCOW (AP) — Trips by top Soviet leaders to eastern Siberia and Poland and Kremlin warnings that Peking's policy has entered "a new, dangerous stage" reflect growing Soviet uneasiness over stormy events in Red China.

The atmosphere of tension was heightened by a report in the military newspaper Red Star of a program of military training for school children in a far eastern region of the Soviet Union bordering on Red China.

The Communist party paper Pravda warned that the power struggle going on inside China "is a serious test for the entire world Communist movement."

State Moves To Create Code Groups

MADISON (AP) — The first steps toward creation of code of conduct committees in the Wisconsin Legislature were taken Thursday.

A Senate resolution to set up an eight-man joint committee to outline rules of conduct was scheduled for action next Wednesday.

The study, recommended by legislative leaders before the session began, calls for the joint group to map plans for a committee in each house "to administer and enforce the joint rules on legislative conflict of interest."

The committees were suggested in the aftermath of bribery indictments of two assemblymen last year. One legislator was acquited. The conviction of the other was overturned by the State Supreme Court.

Four Rescued From Smoke-Filled Home

MADISON (AP)—Four members of an east side family were rescued by firemen and neighbors Thursday night when a fire, believed to have started in a bedroom, filled the home with dense smoke.

Firemen said the escape was "close."

One neighbor who spotted the blaze called firemen and another alerted Daniel Olson, 32, and his three sons, Dan Jr., 8; Gary, 6, and Timothy, 5.

Fire inspector Carroll Paltz said the youngest boy was playing with a lighted candle.

64,855-Acre Area Planned For Ice Age National Reserve

Approval Awaited for Outline Covering Eight Major Segments

BY HARVEY BUCHHOLTZ

FOND DU LAC (AP)—An Ice Age National Scientific Reserve of 64,855 acres is seen ultimately in a comprehensive plan for development of the eight major segments to be included in the reserve.

Only 7,066 acres are designated for acquisition, however, in the initial 32,500-acre reserve called for in the plan. Another 12,960 acres are being studied for possible purchase later. The balance is in existing public lands or would be protected by easement.

The comprehensive plan for the reserve, now awaiting approval by state and federal officials, calls for development of master plans for each of the eight units while setting down rough recommendations for each.

Buried Forest

The units are:

—Two Creeks Buried Forest in Manitowoc County. The plan recommends purchase of the 30-acre site containing a buried spruce forest. Costs are estimated at $9,000 for land; $67,000 for development, including $25,000 for an information and exhibit building, and $14,000 for annual operation and maintenance. A seasonal naturalist would staff the area.

—Sheboygan Marsh in Sheboygan County. The plan recommends purchase of 80 acres overlooking the 6,503-acre Sheboygan County park and ultimately looks for inclusion of the park. Costs are estimated at $3,000 for annual operation and maintenance, $17,000 for development and $10,000 for land.

—Kettle Moraine State Forest in Sheboygan, Fond du Lac and Washington counties. Recommended for purchase are 460 acres in Sheboygan County to join 14,540 acres of state-owned land. Eventually another 9,480 acres.

Development costs are estimated at $458,000, including $250,000 for an interpretive center. Staffing would take in a permanent naturalist, two seasonal naturalists and an office worker as part of annual operation and maintenance costs of $32,000. Land costs were estimated at $90,000.

—Campbellsport drumlins in Fond du Lac County. Twenty acres are recommended for purchase and 3,580 acres for easement protection. Long range plans see eventual purchase of another 20 acres and inclusion of 2,900 acres of public lands. Costs are estimated at $5,000 for acquisition, $12,500 for development and $2,500 for annual operation and maintenance.

—Cross Plains in Dane County. Purchase of 160 acres is recommended initially, with a separate, 512-acre site seen for inclusion ultimately through scenic easements. A seasonal naturalist and a maintenance man would staff the area. Budgeted are $10,000 for annual operation and maintenance, $64,000 for land and $127,000 for development, including a $25,000 information and exhibit building.

Devils Lake

—Devils Lake State Park in Sauk County. Recommendations are for purchase of 3,000 acres to join 5,840 acres of state land. Eventual purchase of another 5,860 acres is proposed. Land costs are estimated at $600,000; development at $571,000, including a $300,000 interpretive center; and annual operation and maintenance at $35,000. Three seasonal naturalists and an office worker would staff the unit.

—Mill Bluff State Park in Monroe and Juneau counties. Purchase of 776 acres for addition to the 154-acre state park is recommended, with staffing by a seasonal naturalist and a maintenance man. Costs are estimated at $39,000 for land, $42,000 for development and $5,000 for annual operation and maintenance.

—Bloomer area in Chippewa County. Three detached segments taking in 2,545 acres are recommended for acquisition to join with the 1,320-acre Chippewa County Forest. Estimates include $127,000 for land; $63,000 for annual operation and maintenance, taking in a staff of a park manager, administrative assistant, a permanent naturalist, two seasonal naturalists, maintenance personnel, lifeguards and two office workers; and $784,000 for development, including a $250,000 interpretive center.

The Ice Age Reserve was authorized by Congress in 1964 when it approved federal cost-sharing in land acquisition of 50 per cent to a maximum of $750,000. Initial land costs for the 32,500-acre reserve are estimated at $1,085,600 in the comprehensive plan, which was published in late 1966.

The plan also sees $2,078,500 in development costs and $185,000 in annual operation and maintenance expense but points out that this is "a long-range program that can be realized as adequate funds are made available, proper planning is initiated and required lands purchased."

County zoning to insure compatible land use in areas contiguous to the Ice Age Reserve is called for in the plan.

The Ice Age Act specifies that lands within the reserve are to be owned by the state and local governments. The state would assume over-all responsibility but the plan recommends that areas owned by counties be administered by them under a management agreement with the Wisconsin Conservation Department.

Late Sen. Kerr Involved in Baker Defense

Government Charges Former Secretary Kept Contributions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The name of the late Sen. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma has moved to the forefront as Bobby Baker erects his defense against charges of income tax evasion, larceny and conspiracy.

Defense Attorney Edward Bennett Williams told a U.S. District Court jury Thursday he would prove that Baker turned over to Kerr in late 1962 about $100,000 in senatorial campaign contributions.

The government charges Baker, former secretary to Senate Democrats, kept $80,000 of this sum for himself and spent it on his financially troubled Carousel Motel at Ocean City, Md.

Baker returns to the witness stand today as his trial moves into its 10th day.

Overpaid Taxes

Testifying Thursday after the prosecution rested its case, Baker said that instead of underpaying his income taxes by $22,000 in 1961 and 1962, as the government alleges, he actually overpaid.

Testimony has shown the $100,000 in cash was raised in the fall of 1962 by California savings and loan executives who had just successfully opposed a tax provision in pending legislation.

The money was intended, Williams said, to be delivered to Kerr for distribution among various Democratic senators.

In relating that Baker received the money, which was mostly in $100 bills, and turned it over to Kerr, Williams said: "It went precisely where it was supposed to go, and Mr. Baker did not commit a theft from California savings and loan executives."

He said a large part of the cash was found in Kerr's Washington safe deposit box after his death. Kerr suffered a heart attack in December 1962 and died Jan. 1, 1963. A Democrat and an oil, gas, uranium and cattle millionaire, he was sometimes known as the "uncrowned king" of the Senate after Lyndon B. Johnson stepped out as majority leader to become vice president.

Madison Activity Starting

Legislative Bills Pile Up

MADISON (AP) — The 1967 legislature will chip away next week at a pile of bills which has only begun to grow.

Hearings are planned Tuesday morning on proposed constitutional amendments to allow state borrowing, create four-year terms for the governor and other state officials, and permit tax-paid school bus transportation for parochial pupils.

More hearings are slated in the Senate Wednesday on bills to ban deceptive trade practices, toughen the state's anti-secrecy law, and forbid telecasting election victory predictions before polls close.

The Senate and the Assembly quit for the weekend Thursday after scheduling committee activities and deciding to begin an experiment with afternoon floor sessions next Tuesday.

Speed-Up Urged

Only 32 bills had been introduced in the Senate in the first two weeks. The Assembly had received 54.

Sen. Robert P. Knowles, R-New Richmond, urged in a floor speech Thursday that legislators get to work on getting the bills in.

Knowles said a total of 217 bills had been prepared by the legislative staff at lawmaker's requests and were ready for introduction. Another 456 had been drafted and were nearly complete, he added.

So far the staff has received 1,102 requests on preparing bills.

Constitutional amendment hearings are slated in the Assembly, all to start at 10 a.m. Tuesday.

Second Endorsement

Each of the three amendments was passed by the 1965 legislature, but needs endorsement by a second session before going to the voters for a final decision.

The controversial school bus change will be heard by the Assembly Welfare Committee.

The amendment was proposed after the Wisconsin Supreme Court ruled that the constitutional separation of church and state blocked an earlier state law permitting public transportation of parochial pupils.

The debt amendment would permit bonding and borrowing for highways, buildings, recreation land and other improvements.

The state now bypasses the state Constitution's $100,000 ceiling on debt by setting up commissions which lease buildings to the state until the rent pays off the loans used to construct them.

The amendment would stop this subterfuge and set the borrowing limit at 1-20th of the total assessed property value in the state.

The measure will be heard by the Assembly Judiciary Committee. The proposal for four-year terms is being reviewed by the Assembly State Affairs Committee.

No Evidence That DeSalvo Is Strangler

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Dist. Atty. John J. Droney of Middlesex County says that despite disclosures in the trial of Albert DeSalvo, self-proclaimed Boston strangler, no evidence exists which could be the basis for a prosecution as the strangler.

DeSalvo was convicted Wednesday of robbery, assault and indecent attacks on four women in cases not connected with the stranglings. He was sentenced to a life term to begin after serving a 10-year prison term and lesser concurrent sentences.

During his trial, psychiatrists testified DeSalvo had told them he killed 13 women in eastern Massachusetts between June 1962 and January 1964. Eleven were strangled.

Droney said Thursday the stranglings still are under investigation and that the detectives and others conducting the inquiry still are not convinced all the deaths were caused by one person.

DeSalvo's attorney, F. Lee Bailey, says he plans to challenge the Massachusetts law defining criminal insanity in appealing DeSalvo's assault conviction.

"The Albert DeSalvo case may serve to change Massachusetts' archaic laws on criminal insanity," Bailey said.

Droney said the law for judgment of insanity is "a good one" and said he sees no need to change it.

2 Red Chinese Leaders Reported Suicide Victims

TOKYO (AP) — A wall newspaper put up in Peking by a unit of Red China's army reported today that purged general staff chief Lo Jui-ching and Vice Premier Po I-po committed suicide.

Japanese correspondents in the Chinese capital said the "extra" issued by the 235th army detachment also reported Communist party general secretary Teng Hsiao-ping — one of the chief targets of Mao Tse-tung's purge — and Yang Hsiu-feng, president of the Supreme People's Court, attempted suicide.

Earlier today one of Mao's mouthpieces, the theoretical journal Red Flag, disclosed that some nominal followers of the party chairman have become alarmed by the turmoil sweeping the Chinese mainland, saying, "You are going too far" and "You are making a mess of it."

Marshall & Ilsley Bank Revenue Rises

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Gross operating revenue of the Marshall & Ilsley Bank Stock Corp. in 1966 rose to $22.72 million, with net income of $3.4 million, equivalent to $5.60 a share, president J.A. Puelicher said today.

Comparable figures for the previous year were income of $19.47 million, and earnings of $3.07 million, or $5.07 a share.

Document Long Awaited

Higher Education Plan Nearly Ready

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The long awaited master plan for Wisconsin higher education is almost ready for distribution, according to a staff member of the state Coordinating Committee for Higher Education (CCHE).

Circulation of the master plan, the document expected to outline the general and recommended direction of state higher educational efforts in the foreseeable future, will begin in the second week in February and will be considered by the full Coordinating Committee at its meeting on March 26, the source said.

Included in the document, which is expected to be more than 100 typewritten pages long, will be general reviews and recommendations for developments in, among other areas, educational television, graduate instruction programs at state schools, branch campuses of state university systems, extension work of all state higher educational systems, methods of financing future developments in the field, and the problem of physical facility needs of the systems in the future.

Study Requested

The study was urgently requested by then new-Gov. Warren P. Knowles almost two years ago as he urged the reorganization and revitalization of the Coordinating Committee.

He won a reorganization from the politically split 1965 legislature which was to reduce system domination and increase citizen control of the 10-year-old Coordinating Committee.

But the master plan was not forthcoming.

He renewed his request in a pointed portion of his "State of the State" message given in the first week of the 1967 session of the legislature.

Initial consideration of the master plan is expected to be given late in February by the plans and policies sub-committee of the CCHE. The full body will receive the paper late in scheduled full committee meeting.

The paper is not expected to be approved at that time, due to it length, span of subject matter, complexity and to expected objections from individual members over portions of the recommendations.

Consideration of the material is expected to provide the subject matter for several future meetings of the full Coordinating Committee, and dictate most subsequent planning papers developed on educational matters by the CCHE staff for at least a full year from the time of first consideration.

New Cabinet Post Forced Resignation

Connor Unsure Of Future Plans; Eyes Business

WASHINGTON (AP) — The resignation of John T. Connor as secretary leaves the Commerce Department stripped of its top hierarchy. And it soon will lose many of its functions to the new Department of Transportation.

The task of regrouping a smaller department for possible merger with the Labor Department now falls to Alexander B. Trowbridge, 37, a native of New Jersey.

Trowbridge

President Johnson, in accepting Connor's resignation Wednesday, named Trowbridge acting secretary. He had been assistant secretary of commerce for domestic and international business since May 6, 1965.

Connor's resignation, rumored for many months, followed last week's swearing in of Alan S. Boyd as secretary of the new Department of Transportation.

Hierarchy Resigns

Boyd had been undersecretary of commerce for transportation, considered the department's No. 3 spot.

The No. 2 post — that of undersecretary — has been vacant since the resignation last year of LeRoy Collins, former governor of Florida.

The White House indicated that Johnson does not now plan to name a full successor to Connor pending congressional action on his request to merge the Commerce and Labor departments.

Connor cited this proposed merger and creation of the Department of Transportation in his letter of resignation. Many of Commerce's personnel and responsibilities, including the Bureau of Public Roads, will move to the transportation department.

The outgoing secretary said he had decided to return to private business but did not elaborate on his future plans. He had been president of Merck & Co., the drug firm, before being named to the Cabinet two years ago.

Segregation Growing in Milwaukee, Researchers Say

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Racial segregation is increasing in Milwaukee public schools and statistics dispute school board denials of segregation, a pair of federal research representatives said Thursday.

H. Millard Clements, a lecturer at the University of Wisconsin, said studies ordered by the U.S. Civil Rights Commission show confinement of Negro students to predominantly Negro schools is increasing.

"What ever the stated intentions of the school board are," Clements said, "segregation has increased in the City of Milwaukee. The schools are becoming more and more segregated."

Officials have said formal findings of the study are not to be made public until they have been submitted to President Johnson.

Clements, addressing a parent-teacher group, said segregation increases in Milwaukee because additions are constructed for existing schools.

"Through the adroit adding of an addition of 12 classrooms, you can change a 20-to-30 per cent Negro school to 80 to 90 per cent within a few months," he said.

"This has happened over and over again," he charged. By altering school district lines "plus the addition, and you have a segregated school."

Mrs. James Ramsey, assistant to Clements, said that in the 1960-1961 school year, about 67.3 per cent of Negro children of elementary school age attended schools whose enrollments were 90 per cent Negro.

Five years later, she said, figure was 72.4 per cent in such schools.

Warn Johnson His Program Needs Leader

House Members Feel McCormack Is Out of Touch

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Standing in the House chamber during President Johnson's State of the Union message, presidential confidante, W. Marvin Watson Jr., got an earful from aggressive young Democratic congressmen about the alarming state of their party in the House.

White House Aide Watson thus became the transmission belt for an urgent message to President Johnson. The message was the direct sort of warning that if the President does not wake up to the fact that his party is close to anarchy in the House, his program will be ripped to shreds.

Novak Evans

What's more, Watson, an old-school Texas conservative, grasped the urgency of the message with commendable speed.

"Do you really mean it?" he asked one of the knot of complaining Democrats who surrounded him after the President's speech ended. The answer was a hard, decisive "yes." Watson promised to convey their warning to the President.

McCormack Slipping

It's not a moment too soon. Routed in his first two encounters with the aggressive, high-spirited Republican minority, 75-year-old Speaker John McCormack of Massachusetts is badly out of touch with the House and no longer has massive Democratic majorities to compensate for it. Nor does he have the accustomed help from his able top assistant, Majority Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma, who is forced to reduce his activity because of a heart attack last year.

Third man in the majority leadership is the majority whip, articulate and aggressive Hale Boggs of Louisiana. But intimates believe Boggs must keep in the background or risk charges that he is capitalizing on McCormack's age and Albert's health.

This leaves the Democrats in a leadership vacuum, mirroring the party's national leadership vacuum.

Lose Vote Test

But it is in the House, not the national party, where President Johnson stands to lose in the year immediately ahead. At Tuesday's Democratic caucus, for example, Great Society Democrats beat the conservatives by only two votes in filling the Democratic vacancy on Ways and Means Committee (with McCormack characteristically refusing to choose sides, much to the irritation of the liberals).

It takes no genius to understand how that two-vote liberal majority in the Democratic caucus will become a puny minority in the House itself with Republicans joining the South.

This was the background of the message delivered so forcefully to Watson. Unless the President fully informs himself on the true state of affairs in the House, Watson was told his program will be bludgeoned to death. The speaker, it was added, is simply out of touch — made clear by his total misreadying of the Adam Clayton Powell affair.

Here is no plot to depose McCormack. Rather, the younger activists want to build lines of their own into the administration. They want exposure to the President, a greater voice in legislative strategy and assurance that the White House knows what's going on. Furthermore, in private talks, these Democrats are already shaping up their strategy, as follows:

Activists' Program

A drastic scaling down of the President's domestic program, so that his allies in the House can concentrate on two or three imperative issues. These include the demonstration cities program and the war on poverty.

"We've been sitting on cloud nine ever since the 1964 election," one of the leaders of the activists told us. "Almost everything the President wanted, he got. If he tries to keep us up there on cloud nine now, we're going to be shot down."

The center of this activist movement is the liberal Democratic Study Group (DSG), and its veteran leaders: Chairman Frank Thompson of New Jersey and John Blatnik of Minnesota. It includes typical DSG liberals such as Michigan's James O'Hara and Indiana's John Brademas. But prominent among the activists are less ideological bread-and-butter Democrats — Dan Rostenkowski of Chicago (Mayor Daley's Washington man), Lud Ashley of Ohio and William Moorehead of Pennsylvania.

One common strain binds them together: A sophisticated understanding of national politics and legislative strategy. With the election of Rostenkowski as chairman of the Democratic caucus, they now have one of their own in the lower reaches of the leadership.

But it's doubtful whether this will make much difference. The power of decision in the House lies at the top, and if the young activists can't change the mood, there with the help of Watson's message to the President, their Cassandra-like prophecy will come to pass.

Your Money's Worth

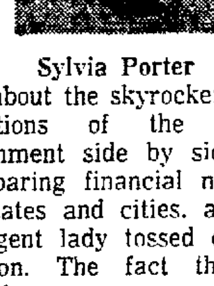
Why U.S. Government Collects Most of Taxes

BY SYLVIA PORTER

"If the Federal Government is going to have to turn back more of my tax money to the States and cities, why does my money have to make a round trip to Washington? Why shouldn't the Federal Government do it the simple, cheap way by giving up some of its tax sources and letting the states collect the money directly? Is it because Washington is afraid it'll forfeit some of its financial power over us?"

Porter

During a spirited dinner debate about the skyrocketing tax collections of the federal government side by side with the soaring financial needs of the states and cities, a highly intelligent lady tossed out this question. The fact that she started an even more spirited debate underlines how stubborn is this charge that the federal government is using its power of the purse to gain ever more power over us. In this particular context, the charge demands an objective analysis.



Sylvia Porter

First, a bit of background. Although President Johnson fudged the question of "no strings attached" grants to local governments on top of the huge "tied" grants now flowing to the states and cities, this does not by any means kill the plan.

GOP Grabs Idea

The Republicans have grabbed the idea away from the Democrats. (It was initially proposed by Walter W. Heller, former chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers under both Presidents Kennedy and Johnson and it is the heart of Heller's recently published book, "New Dimensions of Political Economy.") GOP leaders are sure to push it hard between now and the 1968 elections. In one form or another, a plan for more generous sharing of federal revenues with the local governments will come up in this congressional session. In view of the awesome financial tasks our states and cities face, the idea will not die.

Why then not let the states and cities collect the extra taxes necessary and cut out the trip from us to Washington and back? There are three basic reasons why this would be far more complicated and costly.

(1) Every study made of comparative costs has shown that, in Heller's words, "the costs of collecting federal taxes are far below the costs of collecting state and local taxes."

(2) The Internal Revenue Service is a much more efficient tax collecting agency than that of any state or city. Its size and scale of collections make that obvious. The extent of its jurisdiction alone gives it vast advantages in the administration of taxes. Actually, for each $1 of taxes collected by the federal government, the states would get pennies.

Need New Machinery

(3) If the states and cities collected the taxes directly, costly new machinery, and even more costly administrative personnel, would be essential. If the federal government does the collecting and sharing of the revenues, though, no new machinery and little added personnel would be involved.

Again to quote Heller, "on these admittedly narrow, efficiency grounds, the flow through of federal income tax funds to the states would get high marks."

Of course, this does not answer my friend's question about the power of the federal purse. The answer here is that it is precisely because we fear this power that we refuse to turn over the entire taxing job to the more efficient, superior IRS. We are willing to pay a stiff premium in inefficiency to maintain the separation of power. We want strong, independent local governments, and we want to make them even stronger and more vital.

In his State of the Union message last week, Johnson forecast that our local governments will be spending close to $110 million a year by 1970 — and that's conservative!

When a blueprint for revenue-sharing will become reality cannot be foretold. But it will become reality because this one statistic says that it must.

Refuse Throw - Away Bags are proving a boon to industry and commercial establishments. The Garbax unit is the ultimate in modern refuse disposal systems for wherever there is a need to dispose of waste and refuse be it home, school, hospital, business, parks and recreation areas. It is available from the Sawyer Paper Co., Neenah. (Adv.)

Successful industrial and commercial use of Garbax, a modern refuse disposal system designed to handle almost every kind of refuse, is pointed up by the ever increasing sales volume.

Garbax has been added to the Sawyer Paper Company's Neenah, line of floor machines, scrubbing machines, brushes and brooms, waste receptables, soap dispensers, sweeping compounds, industrial paper cups and paper wipers, towels, tissue paper and materials (such as waxes, sealers, finishes) plus a wide range of germicidal cleaners, shampoos, soaps and powders.

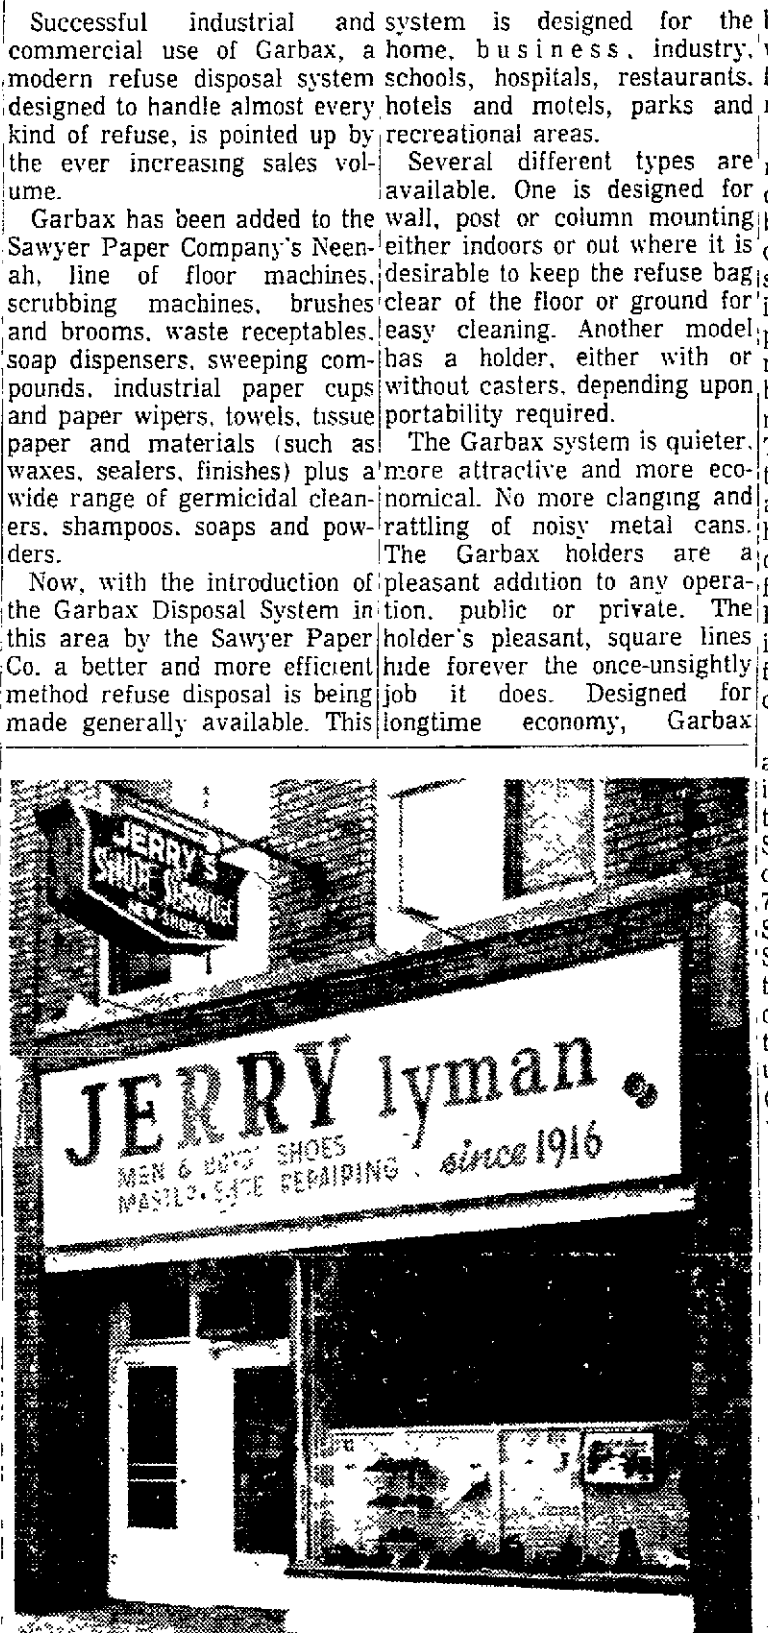
Now, with the introduction of the Garbax Disposal System in this area by the Sawyer Paper Co. a better and more efficient method refuse disposal is being made generally available. This system is designed for the home, business, industry, schools, hospitals, restaurants, hotels and motels, parks and recreational areas.

Several different types are available. One is designed for wall, post or column mounting either indoors or out where it is desirable to keep the refuse bag clear of the floor or ground for easy cleaning. Another model has a holder, either with or without casters, depending upon portability required.

The Garbax system is quieter, more attractive and more economical. No more clanging and rattling of noisy metal cans. The Garbax holders are a pleasant addition to any operation, public or private. The holder's pleasant, square lines hide forever the once-unsightly job it does. Designed for longtime economy, Garbax holders will last many years with proper care. The special finish will withstand the elements for years.

And the system is cleaner, more convenient and speeds collection. Since the throw-away bag and its contents are carted off, there's no more chance for spillage or littering in transferring contents from refuse can to pickup container. And, since the refuse never touches the Garbax holder, there's no more need for scrubbing dirty cans. The bags are designed to hold the toughest, wettest refuse in all kinds of weather and the holders seal odors in and insects out. Prescored at the factory for easy cuffing, Garbax Refuse Bags are easily and quickly installed. Everyone benefits from this improved, more efficient, time-saving system.

For maintenance supplies of all kinds of business and industry, and for more information on the new Garbax Disposal System for home or business, contact Mr. Donald Verbrick at 722-3354, or write to him at the Sawyer Paper Co., 344 Smith St., Neenah, Wisconsin. All of their products are backed up by over 42 years of experience in the distribution of paper products and maintenance supplies. (Adv)



WALK INTO WINTER IN COMFORT and high style, in new shoes from Jerry Lyman Shoes, 309 W. College Avenue, across from Penney's and Sears! Here you can outfit the men and boys in your family in priced-right quality footwear and boots of every description.

Whether for work or play, good shoes for your feet are essential to physical well being and a good disposition. Chances are, if your feet feel good, so will you! The many active things we do during the rugged winter season make this even more true at this time of the year.

Jerry Lyman Shoes in downtown Appleton has built a well-deserved reputation for providing high-quality men's and boy's shoes for area families. Among the popular brands available for you at Jerry's are Bondshire, Red Goose and Yanigans, together with their specialty lines of Thoroughgood (made by Weinbrenner) job-fitted work shoes and boots and Acme Western-style boots.

Rubber boots and insulated rubber boots are also stocked during the Winter months for real foot comfort through slush and snow when the thermometer hovers below zero.

Extremely popular during recent months with Jerry's customers have been a wide array of Western boot stylings by Acme. The popular brushed suede and leather "Dingo" boots have a wide following among Fox Cities boot lovers, and many Western stylings appropriate for everything from leisure wear to actual riding boots may be seen in stock.

Boot prices range from $6.95 (children's styles) to $23.95 and up for the more specialized models. Sizes are from 5 to 13. Jerry's does a rushing business in boots these days (can it be the mod influence?) and has probably one of the most complete stocks of boot stylings to be seen anywhere in this area.

For men, Jerry's carries popular Bondshire shoes in dress oxford and loafer stylings, as well as Thoroughgood uniform shoes for policemen, firemen, mailmen and truckdrivers. Job-fitted models by Weinbrenner are available, too, for anyone who works regularly on greasy floor areas, such as service station operators, garage men, machine shop men, engine house firemen, and railroad men. There models are made with oil-proof soles.

Safety toe oxfords and shoes for factory and construction workers are another specialty.

For work, play, or dress shoes; for a complete line of laces, polishes and shoe care supplies; nor the best in modern shoe repairing — the place to go is Jerry Lyman Shoes, 309 W. College Avenue, Appleton. Limited parking for shoe service customers is available at the firm's back door. (Adv.)

Medical Society Recognizes Ellington 4-H

Helping Others Becomes Way of Life; Merits Reward

STEPHENSVILLE — Helping others is a way of life for the Ellington 4-H Club and now it appears an unexpected reward is in the making.

The club recently was notified by the Wisconsin Medical Society that it was again the recipient of a state health award.

In addition to receiving a subscription to a health magazine, the club has been invited to visit the society's state medical museum at Prairie du Chien.

The club is currently formulating plans for the trip this summer and also is exploring other potential tour sites to visit.

Fund Drive

A fund drive will be organized to finance the trip expenses including a chartered bus.

The Ellington club with 23 members has won county awards in four major activities for the past five years. They were tops in health, safety, conservation and recreation.

For the past two years they have won the $50 award from Home Mutual Insurance Co. for their emphasized project on health activities. The funds were well spent in succeeding years as indicated by the impressive list of help to others.

This is the third consecutive year the club won the county health award.

In 1962 the club received the state conservation award and five members took a three-day tour at Upham Woods near Manitowoc.

State Honors

The state honors usually go to the 10 outstanding clubs.

The club started out by requiring all members to obtain a medical and dental checkup. From this foundation they began to build.

Health talks were required from each member through the year at club meetings; a June dairy month poster contest was conducted accenting healthful dairy products; funds were donated to 10 health organizations; tooth brushes were sold to promote dental health: wayside at Stephensville along the Wolf River was developed and kept up.

They also sent a $10 Christmas check to an orphaned family near Seymour; cards and letters were sent to a little girl at Oshkosh who was seriously ill; five members took Red Cross swimming lessons, another five took a Red Cross first aid course and returned to the club to teach their lessons to other members; sent $2 Care seed assortments to Columbia, Greece, Guatamala, Honduras and the Philippine Islands.

More recently the club visited the Rawhide home for boys and cared for shrubbery. Late last year when Rawhide was desperately looking for funds to meet a mortgage deadline the club quickly responded with $25.

Each year the club invites the county nurse to discuss and show movies on improved health.

Club leaders are Mr. and Mrs. Tom Kaddatz, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Zerbe, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Root, Mrs. Alois Van Camp, Mrs. Russell Kettner, Robert Koleske and Mrs. Louis Staidl who has since retired.

Mrs. Zerbe headed the club's health committee as the adult leader assisted by Patricia Kaddatz, junior leader. Club President Tom Van Camp's health committee members from the club consisted of Barbara Beyer, Mary Kettner, Jean and Karen Vamp and Sue Zerbe.

The club's health activities were detailed in a health scrap book which formed the basis for county and state awards.

Agricultural Engineers To Discuss Small Tractors

"The Small Tractor and Outdoor Power Equipment" will be the theme for a program Wednesday sponsored by the Wisconsin Section of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers.

The program will begin with a 1 p.m. tour of the John Deere Horicon Works.

Following the tour three technical sessions will be held at the Linden Inn at Big Cedar Lake, Wis.

The topics to be discussed will be "Safety for the Outdoor Power Equipment Industry" by Sherman Heth, Jacobsen Manufacturing Co., Racine; "Designing Small Tractors and Equipment for After Sales Servicing" by W. E. McClellon, John Deere Horicon Works; and a forum on "Regional Uses of Small Tractors and Outdoor Power Equipment by Merle Petersen, Massey Ferguson, Detroit; Mr. Andy Brudnak, International Harvester, Hinsdale, Ill. Tony Brenneis, John Deere, Portland, Ore.

At 6:15 p.m. dinner will be served at the Linden Inn, followed by a talk on "The Future of the Outdoor Power Equipment Industry in America" by Einar A. Jacobsen, president, Jacobsen Manufacturing Co., Racine.

Farmers Taking Second Look at Dairy Bulls for Potential Beef

BY JOE L. WALKER
Waupaca County Agent

WAUPACA — Many dairymen are now looking at the possibility of raising dairy beef.

These young dairy bulls at times are sold at a week of age for $20 to $25 or are fed to 170-200 pounds and sold for veal.

A good veal calf will gain about two pounds a day and over a 50-60 day period and will consume about 900 pounds of milk and 50 pounds of high fat milk replacer. However, a calf destined for dairy beef would be fed on a less costly ration and to reach 200 pounds it would take about 90 days and about 250 pounds of milk, 50 pounds of low fat replacer and 200 pounds of calf starter and about 20-25 pounds of hay.

For dairy beef we want a good healthy calf that is growing well but not carrying a great deal of finish. These dairy steers are usually raised with the herd replacement so won't require too much preferential treatment until they reach 700-800 pounds at which time they can be fed corn silage and homegrown grain.

There are several things in favor of dairy beef. They gain faster than straight beef when placed on the same ration and when available as feeders, they usually sell for a couple of cents less a pound.

Of the 331 head of feeder cattle sold at the Adams-Friendship Feeder Cattle Sale last October 217 were straight dairy steers and 29 others were dairy beef crosses.

Dairy beef is cutting quite a swath in the beef market. Presently 30 per cent of the beef consumed in the U.S. is dairy beef. Since one out of every eight dairy calves born in the nation originate in America's Dairyland, it behooves our dairymen to take a second look at these leggy dairy steers.

They will never look like the Angus, Hereford or Shorthorn and they will never make prime and choice cattle often considered the Cadillac of the steak platter. Instead they belong in the economy beef class. Taste panel tests conducted at the University of Wisconsin have shown that there is little difference in texture, flavor and tenderness between dairy beef and straight beef. However, as we would expect, the beef does rat on top in all classes.

The dairy beef steers won't bring the same market price as the beef steers. However, they do a good job of converting a cheaper ration of corn silage and homegrown grain into beef and for this reason they deserve a second look. Michigan State in feeding trials last year fed several groups of dairy steers on corn silage and different amounts of supplements. The most economical gain was made with corn silage and one pound of soybean oil meal per day.

Dairy beef has caught on in other states and many of the feed lots in Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota, and even California, formerly filled with beef steers, are now well filled with dairy steers. This again is a good indication that we better look these bull calves over a couple of times before we pass them by.

Farm Bureau Seeks Prices On Vegetables

Set Sites for $6 Per Ton on Corn, Two Cents on Peas

Price and contract terms were the major points of a recent discussion for the all-day meeting of the Farm Bureau Marketing Association operations committee at the Farm Bureau building in Madison.

Committee members decided that growers were entitled to an increase of $6 per ton for sweet corn and one to two cents per pound increase for peas this year. The prices or their contract equivalent will be the goals of the FBMA for the 1967 season.

With a smaller carryover of canned vegetables, a greater demand from consumers — as well as higher consumer incomes and rise in population, there is every indication of a very good season for the vegetable industry in 1967.

A drive for new members of the FBMA is already under way with growers signing the membership agreement in all of the major vegetable-producing areas of the state. Every farmer who grows vegetables for processing in Wisconsin is eligible for membership in the association.

The contract terms discussed by the group were recommended guidelines of the American Agricultural Marketing Association, (AAMA) and are being adopted by all the member associations. The AAMA is organized in 29 states and presently represents 22 commodities grown in these states.

Fewer Needy Obtain Foods

Transfer to Food Stamp Program Seen in Decrease

A smaller number of needy folks in the Midwest received U.S. Department of Agriculture donated foods this past November.

The decrease resulted from a transfer to the Food Stamp Program of 36 areas, which accounted for about 45,000 recipients during their last month in the donated foods program. However, an increase of 40,000 in participation among the remaining areas and in 19 additional counties and cities which entered the donated foods program during November, nearly offset this decline.

The program is set up to help those persons who cannot buy enough food for their basic eating needs. It helps them enjoy a better diet and improve their health.

The donated foods are bought by USDA—then given to states as they are needed. The states in turn give the food to local governmental bodies which distribute them to folks in their area.

During November, milk, canned and chopped meat, flour, rice, peanut butter, lard-shortening, corn meal, raisins, wheat, margarine, dried peas, grits, bulgur, dry beans, dried eggs, cheese and butter were given out.

Lakeshore Village 4-H Elects Officers at Stockbridge Meeting

STOCKBRIDGE — Officers were elected by the Lakeshore Village 4-H Club last week.

Jean Campbell was chosen president; Daniel Goeser, vice president; Gail Goeser, secretary; Terry Torbeck, treasurer, and Mary Beth Karls, reporter. Joan Goeser and Kay Moehn were appointed song leaders.

Plans were made for a box social auction at the Feb. 8 meeting.

The monthly meeting date was changed from the second Thursday to the second Wednesday of each month.

Marlene Anderson to Head Boot, Saddle Club After Amherst Election

AMHERST — Marlene Anderson was elected president of the Boots and Saddles horseman's club last week.

She succeeds James Sutheimer, who is attending the University of Wisconsin at Madison. Other officers elected at the meeting were Jill Craig, vice president; Mrs. James Slater, treasurer, and Mrs. Allen Peterson, secretary.

A film was shown of the club's participation in the Portage County Fair parade, and also the horse show at the fair last August. The club, which has about 25 members, voted to meet only once a month until summer. The next meeting will be on Feb. 14 when plans will be made for a sleigh ride party later in the month.

Slate 12-State Parley on Halt Of Hog Cholera

DES MOINE, Ia. — Ways and means of overcoming obstacles to the final eradictation of hog cholera will be considered at the 12-State Hog Cholera Eradication Conference at the Hotel Savery, Monday, Feb. 20.

This program will be a part of the three-day annual meeting of Livestock Conservation, Inc., Feb. 20-22, according to President Keith Myers, sales manager, Wisconsin Feeder Pig Marketing Cooperative.

State leaders in the hog cholera eradication movement are being given special invitations to present their views at the opening session.

Waupaca-Waushara DHIA

Weyauwega Farmers Have Top Producers

WAUPACA — Oscar, Don and Keith Long of Weyauwega placed two cows in the top 10 producers in the Waupaca-Waushara Dairy Herd Improvement Association's December report.

The cows produced 110 and 102 pounds of butterfat.

Others were Harlan Boutler, Coloma, 108 and 103 pounds; Robert Hoeft, Berlin, 107 pounds; Richard Bloch, Plainfield, 106; Leon and Doug Thoma, New London, 102 and 100; Leonard and Eugene Bartel, Weyauwega, 101 and 99 pounds; Don Sawyer, Waupaca, 100 pounds and Budd Smith, Waupaca, 98 pounds.

Owners of high cows that completed lactation years during the year were the Longs of Weyauwega, 19,221 pounds of milk and 786 pounds of butterfat; and 17,568 pounds of milk and 713 pounds of milk and 713 pounds of butterfat.

Top 16,000 Pounds

Leon and Doug Thoma, New London, 16,100 pounds of milk and 735 pounds of butterfat; Leonard Kobiske, Waupaca, 17,344 pounds of milk and 685 pounds of butterfat; Millard Allison, Plainfield, 15,213 pounds of milk and 669 pounds of butterfat; Leonard Riske and Sons, Manawa, 16,190 pounds of milk and 644 pounds of butterfat.

Waupaca County Hospital, Weyauwega, 15,345 pounds of milk and 632 pounds of butterfat; Leonard and Eugene Bartel, Weyauwega, 17,861 pounds of milk and 620 pounds of butterfat.

Beutler from Coloma had the best herd record for December with 37 cows producing 1,712 pounds of milk and 61 pounds of butterfat; Longs of Weyauwega, 54 cows, 1,425 pounds of milk and 53 pounds of butterfat.

High Herds

Miles Beulow, Wild Rose, 25 cows, 1,474 pounds of milk and 52 pounds of butterfat; Marshall Farms, Hancock, 21 cows, 1,340 pounds of milk and 52 pounds of butterfat; John Sattler, Poy Sippi, 71 cows, 1,456 pounds of milk and 52 pounds of butterfat.

James Flink, Clintonville, 34 cows, 1,420 pounds of milk and 51 pounds of butterfat; Arnold Spiegelberg, Manawa, 29 cows, 1,266 pounds of milk and 49 pounds of butterfat; Marrlin Thiel, Manawa, 21 cows, 1,196 pounds of milk and 49 pounds of butterfat.

Andre Wouts, Poy Sippi, 47 cows, 1,286 pounds of milk and 47 pounds of butterfat; Bartels of Weyauwega, 39 cows, 1,221 pounds of milk and 46 pounds of butterfat; Kobiske of Waupaca, 36 cows, 1,266 pounds of milk and 46 pounds of butterfat; Robert Hoeft, Berlin, 27 cows, 1,265 pounds of milk and 45 pounds of butterfat; Budd Smith, Waupaca; 25 cows, 1,137 pounds of milk and 46 pounds of butterfat; Bob Carl Steinbach, Fremont, 35 cows, 1,214 pounds of milk and 44 pounds of butterfat; Richard Bloch, Plainfield, 76 cows, 1,085 pounds of milk and 43 pounds of butterfat; Gerndt Brothers, New London, 38 cows and 1,222 pounds of milk and 43 pounds of butterfat.

Chemical Firm Recalls Two Antibiotics

Asks Return of Preparations Used To Control Mastitis

Charles Pfizer & Co., Inc., New York City, announced today that it has asked all distributors and veterinarians who handle two antibiotic preparations to combat mastitis to return those products to the company. Mastitis is an infection of cows' udders.

The company said that the products Formula 5 for Mastitis and Mastalone are being recalled because the carrier or dilutent used in the preparations causes minute residues of the antibiotics in milk samples beyond the 72-hour withdrawal period permitted by the product labels for dissipation of the drugs.

The presence of residues was noted during tests conducted by the company following a request by the Food and Drug Administration in August, 1966 for all sponsors of intramammary antibiotic preparations to submit data showing that milk obtained from treated animals contains no antibiotic residues when the products are used according to label directions.

Although the levels of antibiotic residue obtained following use of the two Pfizer products are extremely small, no amount of these drugs are permitted in milk by current Food and Drug Administration standards.

Other Pfizer preparations for the treatment of mastitis are unaffected by the company's recent action because of basic formulation differences.

Bell Corners 4-H Valentine Contest Is Planned

BEAR CREEK — A valentine contest will be conducted during the next meeting of the Bell Corners 4-H Club, Tuesday evening, Feb. 7, at the Bear Creek town hall.

Valentines must be home made and brought to the meeting where they will be judged for originality and beauty. After the meeting they will be donated to the Greentree Nursing Hospital at Clintonville.

A skating or sleigh ride party also is planned.

Membership enrollment blanks were distributed and new members will be admitted to the club at the next meeting. A demonstration on the making of an elf was given by Margaret Mullarkey.

The Clifford Orr and James Schertz families will be in charge of entertainment and refreshments for the next meeting.

USDA Scientist's Study

Need Research to Solve Pollution Problem From Potato Processing

The water pollution problem that keeps pace with the growth in the nation's agricultural processing industries — and the research needed to solve the problem — were reviewed recently by a U.S. Department of Agriculture scientist.

Development of the potato processing industry is one example of how the waste load from agricultural processing is trending upward, according to Dr. Sam R. Hoover, an assistant deputy administrator in USDA's Agricultural Research Service (ARS).

He addressed the American Association for the advancement of Science in Washington, D.C.

The ARS scientist reported that in the past decade the growth of the potato processing industry has been incredible. He estimated that in 1963, the last year for which figures are available, waste from potato processing plants was equivalent to the sewage from a population of 2,110,00 persons.

Growing Problem

Although pollution from agricultural processing industries is a growing problem, it is not growing in direct proportion to industrial growth. The soybean processing industry, for example, has learned to control plant wastes, Dr. Hoover said. He also noted that the wet milling of corn has been modernized into a "bottled-up" system which recovers and uses the various components of corn, wasting a minimum of solids.

One of the research opportunities, the scientist said, lies in the fact that in the future the multiple reuse of water as it goes down a river will require complete removal of organic matter and of soil-enriching nutrients such as ammonia, nitrates, phosphates, and potassium salts from treated wastes.

This outlook indicates that the return of wastes to the soil will have increasing value.

Water Desalination

An acre of land with a good cover crop, Dr. Hoover explained, is the equivalent of a tank with a volume of about 320,000 gallons. If it does not become waterlogged, it will provide the oxygen needed for biological degradation of organic waste.

"This is a cheap, ready-made oxidative system," he said, "and it provides plant nutrients for production of a forage crop. Research is needed to establish the general principles of such a system. The variables of location, climate, and soils are so great that installations will have to be individually designed, once the principles are established."

Dr. Hoover said that research on desalination of water will yield information that can be applied to the problem of agricultural processing wastes. "It seems inescapable that results will come from studies on this related problem that will lead to new and unique approaches to the treatment of agricultural processing wastes."

Credit Key To Farm Efficiency

SPOKANE, Wash. — Adequate credit plus technological advances equals improve efficiency.

This formula was used here Thursday by a national farm leader as a simple way to explain the "near-miracle of abundant agricultural production" performed by U.S. farmers and ranchers in recent years, a phenomenon that is the envy of the rest of the world.

R B. Tootell, governor, Farm Credit Administration, said, "Availability of adequate amounts of credit on terms suited to the needs of individual farmers and ranchers, coupled with technological advancements and vast educational programs have been major factors in making possible agriculture's leap-frogging efficiency advances.

"With adequate credit available, progressive farmers have been able to adopt new methods rapidly. They have substituted vast amounts of capital for labor, thus releasing manpower for other productive pursuits that, in turn, have made possible an increasingly higher standard of living."

Agricultural-Industries Conference

Conservation Society Eyes Resource Future

The future of Wisconsin's water resources will be discussed during the annual meeting of the state chapter of the Soil Conservation Society of America (SCSA) at Madison Thursday.

It is being held in conjunction with the University of Wisconsin's Agricultural Industries Conference and Public Affairs Forum, Jan. 24-27. The meeting starts at 10 a.m. at the Wisconsin Center building.

Ted Kouba of Milwaukee, president of the Wisconsin SCSA chapter, points to an afternoon panel discussion on water resource management as one of the meeting's highlights.

University of Wisconsin agricultural economist Douglas A. Yanggen will moderate the discussion which will look at the state's new water resource law, applications of zoning for watershed management and water pollutants.

Watershed Zoning

James C. Ringenoldus, head of the water control planning dept. of Harza Engineering Co., Chicago, will discuss zoning as an effective means of watershed management.

To reduce the danger of pollution from home septic tanks, manufacturing and other sources, Wisconsin has passed new legislation enabling the state to take zoning action if certain lesser municipalities fail to act within a certain length of time.

Harry M. Major, assistant state conservationist, Madison, will talk about silt and sediments as pollutants. Careless spreading and timing of fertilizers and manure may result in serious water pollutants during spring runoffs.

Also to be included on the SCSA program will be the introduction of Wisconsin's new director of the Department of Resource Development, Freeman Holmer.

Wittenberg FFA Magazine Sale Deadline Nears

WITTENBERG — The annual magazine sale sponsored by the Future Farmers of America chapter has been launched, according to John Harter, vocational-agriculture instructor.

The sale, under the chairmanship of senior Mark Groshek, ends Wednesday. Class assistants are seniors — Ray Ostrowski and Fred Yenter; juniors — Jack Kaufman and Gary Wolf; sophomores — Dale Trzebiatowski and Lavern Stolz, and freshmen — Dave Konkel and Richard Schulist.

The December candy sale by the FFA members netted the chapter a profit of $200.

Proceeds of both sales will be used toward expenses for the senior fishing trip to northern Minnesota the week following graduation.

Fond du Lac Holstein 'Silver Medal Sire' In Hageman Herd

Gray View Sky Bolt 1402763 (VG), a Registered Holstein-Friesian bull owned by Harold and William H. Hageman, Fond du Lac, has been honored as a "silver medal type sire" by the Holstein-Friesian Association of America.

This high award is based on his ability to transmit to his daughters highly desirable characteristics of body conformation as compared to the ideal Holstein-Friesian type.

Of all the 11 daughters of this bull born three or more years ago or that are known to have calves, 10 have been officially classified for type by an inspector of the national Association. Among these daughters, one was classified "Very Good" — the next to the highest score an animal can receive with 9 a notch lower in the "Good Plus" bracket.

Horse Clinic Saturday

Leaders and members of the 4-H interested in a one-day horsemanship training session can go to the horse clinic Saturday at Madison. Research men and professional trainers will lead discussion and demonstrate techniques on horse nutrition, breaking and training, grooming and showing. The program begins at 10 a.m. and ends at 4 p.m. at the Stock Pavillion on the College of Agriculture campus.

Faster Shipping to Aid State's Farmer

Filling Short Supply Market Ups Blend Fee, Says PMA's Vose

LE ROY, WIS. — Avory A. Vose, president of Pure Milk Association, told members of District 23 at their annual meeting recently that the mobility of the dairy industry and a national decrease in milk production in 1966 has speeded up the direct shipping of milk from farms in Wisconsin to dealers in areas experiencing declining milk production.

PMA has almost 600 dairy farmer members in District 23 including Fond du Lac, Winnebago, Outagamie, Shawano and Waushara Counties.

"This change in marketing methods," he added, "has proved advantageous to the producers who direct ship their milk. It has also reduced supplies on the Chicago market and raised the blend price to producers in PMA's Chicago market pool, and has made adequate supplies of milk available to consumers in Indianapolis and other short-supply markets."

Adjusts To Needs

Vose declared that the decline in the nation's milk production the first nine months of 1966 showed that producer prices respond with an upward swing when production adjusts to domestic needs. When this point is reached, even a small decrease in production tends to work to the dairy farmer's benefit, he said.

In keeping with traditional policy, Pure Milk Association spearheaded many efforts in 1966 to bring the highest possible Class I (bottled milk) prices to dairy farmers on all the major midwestern markets served by PMA members, he emphasized.

These efforts were coordinated with those of Associated Dairymen, Inc., which represents 35 dairy farmer cooperatives from Lake Superior to the Gulf of Mexcio.

Associated Dairymen concentrates on securing changes in Federal milk orders which will bring upward adjustments in the Class I prices paid producers supplying the federally regulated markets of the Midwest and Southwest, Vose explained.

PMA is working hand in hand with Associated Dairymen to achieve an area-wide marketing and pricing program which stresses proper price alignment between markets and other goals beneficial to dairy farmers.

Vose asserted that increased production of milk, particularly in European common market countries, and the ease with which subsidized dairy surpluses from abroad find their way into United States trade channels are a serious threat to further advances in manufacturing milk prices in this country.

He emphasized that PMA is continuing to work with and explore common ground with other Chicago market cooperatives so as to establish a federal milk order which would merge the markets of Chicago, Milwaukee, Madison and Rockford.

Vose said the new order should establish an economic-type formula for determining the Class I price, provide pool plant qualifications with a 20 per cent provision for plants now supplying the market and a requirement that further deliveries be made by these plants as deliveries are needed in short periods, establish a 50 per cent pooling requirement for new plants coming on the market and establish a standby pool agreement to handle needed reserve supplies and eliminate distressed selling and improve producer returns.

Feed Grain Exports Cut by Higher Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher feed grain prices in this country during the fall and early winter apparently slowed foreign sales. The Agriculture Department reports that corn exports totaled 140 million bushels from October through December, a reduction of 52 million bushels from a year earlier.

Hog, Sheep Exports Up

Late Shipping Of Stock Goes Mostly to Iowa

Wisconsin hog and sheep exports were up for the last half of 1966, but cattle shipments were down from first-half 1966 figures, according to the State Department of Agriculture's Animal Health division.

More than 272,000 pigs were shipped to out-of-state buyers in the period from July to December. During the January-June period, slightly fewer than ¼ million pigs were exported. Semi-annual sheep export levels rose from 115 to 920.

More than 71,000 cattle were exported in the second half of the year, compared with nearly 78,000 for the first half.

Most of these livestock went to feedlots in neighboring states, primarily Iowa.

Farmers Union Asks Dairy Plant License Fees Placed in Fund

MADISON — A Wisconsin Farmers Union spokesman Tuesday proposed that dairy plant license fees be placed in a common fund to protect the income of Wisconsin producers against dairy plant failures.

Everett Hanson, the organization's legislative representative, appearing here before the dairy plant security advisory committee of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, presented recommendations approved by the WFU Executive Committee.

Junior Leaders Join for Camp Near Plymouth

CHILTON — A winter camp will be held this weekend during semester break for junior 4-H leaders of high school age. Manitowoc and Calumet County junior leaders will meet at Camp Anikojog near Plymouth from Friday evening until Sunday night.

The camp will feature winter sports and outdoor activities for the most part. Tobaggoning and many other snow-centered activities will be available for everyone. Indoor activities are available in case of extremely cold weather.

A total of about 65 campers will be present. Those from Calumet County include Ken and Ginger Gillis, Ritalyn Krueger, Beverly Hephner, Lynn and Ronald Ninedorf, Diane Vogt, Kathy Lodes, Pat Beres, Gary Ertl, Paul Buboltz, Carolyn Markwardt, Karen and Kenneth Bosch, Mary Jo Mirsberger, Fay Mirsberger, and Judy Pilling.

Along with the staff of adults from Manitowoc County will be 4-H leader Ruth Gross, Home Economics Agent Joan Prochnow, and 4-H Club Agent Charles Nikolai.

Animals Use Common Road For Travels Through Forest

There's more traffic in the forest than you would ordinarily think. Wildlife specialists Lloyd B. Keith and E. C. Meslow of the University of Wisconsin found that wild animals of different species use a kind of common highway system in forests.

The researchers selected runways used by snowshoes hares in an Alberta, Canada forest and observed what other animals used these runways. In a four-month period, they found that at least 11 species of mammals and seven bird species use the rabbit runways.

To determine how frequently these different species use the runways, Keith and Meslow set up unbaited live traps at strategic points. Other than snowshoe hares, the largest number of animals caught in the runway traps were red squirrels.

Porcupines were the largest mammals caught in the traps, and short-tailed weasels were the smallest animals the traps could hold. In addition to the 11 mammalian and seven bird species that use hare runways, winter observations showed that coyotes, colored foxes, and lynx also used the runways.

Studies on the use of common paths by different species of wildlife give the game specialist an idea of how much contact there is among different kinds of animals. This information in turn gives some clues on how wildlife species maintain their balance by social stress, predation, and disease transmission.

PMA Lists Blend Price on A Milk

$4.75 Per Cwt. December Rate Higher Than 1965 Chicago Order

Dairy farmers who sell milk through Pure Milk Association's (PMA) Chicago market pool will be paid a blend price of not less than $4.75 per cwt on all Grade A milk of 3.5 per cent butterfat test delivered in December to plants in the marketing area defined in the former Chicago milk order.

J.L. Cook, supervisor of the PMA market pool, said the December 1966 blend price is 79 cents over the Chicago Order 30 blend price paid Chicago market producers in December 1965.

The marketing area includes Cook and DuPage Counties and adjoining townships in Lake, Kane and Will counties, Ill. The blend price is the weighted average of the Class I, Class II and Class III prices paid producers in the market pool.

The price paid producers for Class I (bottling) milk in December remained at $5.22 level where it has been since Sept. 19. For this milk going into bottles producers received 11.2 cents per quart.

Class II Price

The December Class II milk price was $4.15 per cwt. This is the price announced by the U.S. Department of Agriculture for the preceding month and is the average of prices paid by manufacturing plants in Minnesota and Wisconsin. Under the PMA Chicago market pool this class is used mainly for cottage cheese.

The Class III milk price is for Grade B milk received at selected plants in Wisconsin and Illinois. This price was $4.23 per cwt for December. The Class III price includes products not included in the other two classes.

In addition to the $4.75 marketing area blend price, producers whose farms are located in Zones A and B of the old Chicago Federal order will be paid premiums of 9 and 7 cents per cwt., respectively, on their milk deliveries.

Premium Fees

Competition for supplies has resulted in still other premiums being paid producers in many sections of the Chicago milkshed.

Utilization of milk in Class I in the PMA market pool in December 1966 was 62.9 per cent. In December 1965 Class I utilization was 52 per cent under the Chicago milk market order.

The producer butterfat differential on December milk was 8 cents per cwt. for each one-tenth of 1 per cent above or below 3.5 per cent. The butterfat differential follows the average wholesale price for 92-score butter on the Chicago market.

Winter Months Offer Chance for Farm Machinery, Building Repairs

BY WILLIAM SHAW
Outagamie 4-H Agent

Repairing machinery and building new equipment are good jobs to get done during the winter months.

If you don't have an adequate farm shop or are thinking of expanding your present one, this is a good time to review several important planning considerations.

Ted Brevik, University of Wisconsin farm building specialist, says that size and location are important when making plans for a farm shop.

The shop should be conveniently located so it is near or part of the machine storage building. Likewise, it should be centrally located with handy access from your home, barn and other buildings.

Tool Center

"This will be your tool center," Brevik explains, "and you will want it close by so you can get your tools in a hurry. There will be many repair jobs which you will want to fit between other farm chores.

Exposure is an important consideration in site selection. If at all possible, have your doors on the south side for a warmer, more protected outside working area. Also, select a well drained accessible site which will dry out quickly and make working just outside the shop easy.

Brevik notes that you'll want a shop large enough to drive a vehicle into if for temporary storage or repairs. A double garage size of 24 by 24 feet is a minimum, with 30 by 30 feet or larger more desirable. A look at the equipment you have will help decide how much space you'll need for repair work.

This larger area will give

room to park a tractor, space to have equipment torn down on the floor, and adequate bench and storage area along the sides. "Don't cut corners and cheat yourself on work space," reminds Brevik.

Near Door

Make a plan showing where all your equipment and tools will go. For instance, welding equipment should be near the door so it can be easily used indoors and out. Also, keep your metal working area somewhat separate from your wood working space.

Be sure to assign adequate room for storage of supplies and spare parts. This type of planning will make it easier on yourself and be better for your equipment.

If you heat the shop insulate it, says Brevik. It is good to use some type of interior liner to protect the insulation. A plywood or lumber liner is preferred over metal because tool and equipment hangers can be installed more easily.

Finally, consider the slope of the floor. Either slope it toward a floor drain or slope the floor toward the door so that mud and water will not accumulate under work benches in storage or work areas.

State Beef Breeders To Confer

Leaders in Wisconsin's expanding beef industry will gather at Madison Wednesday for the Wisconsin State Beef Breeders and Feeders Assn. annual meeting.

The annual meeting starts at 10 a.m. in the Ivy Inn Motor Hotel, 2355 University Ave. It is being held in conjunction with the University of Wisconsin Agricultural Industries Conference and Public Affairs Forum, Jan. 24-27.

The afternoon program will feature talks by leaders in Wisconsin's beef breed and sales organizations, and a speech by a representative of the National Livestock Feeders Assn. Joe Tuss, Columbia County agricultural agent, will give plans for the 1967 Beef Futurity Show. Wisconsin's new meat inspection law will also be up for discussion.

Pig Co-Op to Fete Members In Outagamie

10th Anniversary Meeting Thursday At Black Creek

Members of the Wisconsin Feeder Pig Marketing Cooperative from Outagamie County will hold their 10th annual district meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Black Creek Community Hall.

Peter Ver Voort, Seymour, advisory board member, will preside.

Delegates will be elected to the annual meeting March 4 at Stevens Point, an advisory board member and nomination of candidates to the seven man board of directors.

Theme of this years district meeting is "Programming Progress for Livestock Agriculture."

List Honorees

Honored at these meetings will be members who produced 300 or more feeder pigs the past year. Charter members from Outagamie County who are still active in the cooperative will receive a gift of recognition for their contribution to the cooperative.

They are: John A. Finder, Fenton Gardner, Norman Helms, Darrell Mueller, Carlton Sievert, and Peter Ver Voort, Seymour; Pat Mares, New London; Donald Merrill, Shiocton; Roy Peotter and Earl Ranson, Bear Creek.

"The Young Farmer's Role in the Future" was the theme of the 1967 Farm Bureau young married couples meeting at Shawano recently. Russell O'Harrow, Oconto Falls, state director from District 7 spoke. Outagamie delegates, from left, were Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Heiden, Black Creek; Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Schaumberg, Seymour, and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Hintz, Hortonville.

Businessman Farmers, Population Increase To Boost Food Prices

NEW ORLEANS (AP)— More hungry months and "a new breed of cat" down on the farm mean that food prices are going higher, the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives was told Tuesday. John J. Heimburger, former general counsel of the House Agriculture Committee, said the major factors are the population explosion, which will create more demand for food, and today's businessman farmers, "a new breed of cats who are in business to make money."

The demand for food will draw even with farm productivity in less than 10 years, said Heimburger and when food starts to get scarce prices will start soaring.

"When that happens, the consumers are going to start screaming and you know who they will be screaming at," he added.

Charities to Benefit From Greenville Grange Parties

GREENVILLE — The South Greenville Grange met Friday evening to plan a benefit card party Saturday evening, Feb. 11, and the series of four card parties on Saturday evenings, February 18, 25, March 4 and 11.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schaefer are chairman of the series.

The party will benefit the Red Cross, March of Dimes, Heart and Cerebal Palsy funds for Winnebago and Outagmie Counties.

Preparation is being made for the young marrieds and young people of the area granges for conferences at Camp Byron near Fond du Lac on March 11 and 12.

A thank you note was read from soldiers in Viet Nam for life savers, candy and soap sent to the children there. Now they would like balloons and summer clothing.

The state youth committee is selling postal notes for $1 to help the treasury of the national youth committee.

Decline of Hog Prices Due to Wives' Boycott

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Farm Bureau Federation blames recent boycotts by housewives protesting food prices for a part of recent declines in producer prices of hogs.

In a report on the outlook for livestock, the farm organization's latest newsletter referred to consumer protests over prices as being "misdirected" efforts. It said the result may well be producer cutbacks in hog production this year and next that could reduce supplies and send pork prices advancing again.

Golden Rule 4-H Club Enters Speech Contest

SEYMOUR — The Golden Rule 4-H Club planned to send its club winner to the county conservation speaking contest at Black Creek when it met Monday at the Osborn Town Hall.

Next meeting will be Feb. 13.

Talks were given by Jeffery Lerum, Brian Pacotte, Cindy Spaude, Kristine Krahn and James Krahn.

Giant Nations Embarrassed by Own Strength

Tiny North Vietnam Has Powerful U. S. Over a Barrel

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is that peculiar time in history when the giants are embarrassed by their own strength.

The shining example of this is North Vietnam, which is only slightly larger than New York State and whose population of about 16.2 million is slightly less than New York's.

Little North Vietnam has the huge United States over a barrel in more ways than one, even though this country is almost 51 times larger and has a population of around 200 million.

The two nuclear giants, the United States and the Soviet Union, are so strong they could eliminate each other. The last thing they want is war with each other. As a result, they walk on tippy-toes when they deal with each other.

Part of Strength

North Vietnam, the exact opposite, is primitive compared with American might. Yet this country, in war with North Vietnam, isn't daring to use its full strength or even half of it.

If this country tried to end the war faster by bombing everything in sight in North Vietnam, and invading it, Red China might feel compelled to enter the war on the side of its Asian neighbor — just as it did in North Korea.

But war with Red China is one of the last things this country wants.

Much of world opinion is critical of the United States now for being in the war at all. It would be worse if the United States tried full bombing and invasion.

Soviet Retaliation

And, although the Untied States could wipe North Vietnam off the map if it wanted to use nuclear bombs, the world would be horrified. And Russia might feel compelled to help its fellow-Communists in North Vietnam by retaliating against the United States with nuclear bombs.

So, the United States feels restricted to fighting an almost old-fashioned war and, to make the story even more gruesome, this country doesn't know how long this war will last, as President Johnson has acknowledged.

Already more than 6,000 Americans have died in the war and this country's armed forces have about 500,000 men in the area. Since there is no end in sight, the final casualty figures can't even be guessed.

But the American troubles, a product of this war, continued to multiply at home and elsewhere.

Expense Climbing

This country, enjoying the longest period of prosperity in its history, could devote more of its money and resources to needed programs at home, if there was no war. And the expense of the war is climbing.

Johnson is paying a bitter penalty — in the form of criticism which hurts him in a number of ways — for doing what he thinks is right in continuing the war until North Vietnam says it has had enough.

By this time, it seems certain, Johnson would have made trips abroad to help American foreign policy. For instance, it might have been worth while for the Western allies if Johnson could have visited France to talk with President Charles de Gaulle, the high-handed Frenchman who has upset the allies by his disregard for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

And then there's the Soviet Union, with whom the United States would like closer relations. There has been some progress in that direction but Moscow, still leader of the Communist world, can't afford to get too cozy with a nation making war on North Vietnamese Communists.

When the war ends the best the Unied States can hope for is that South Vietnam, once freed from direct attack by the Communists, can somehow manage to survive on its own.

School Boards Favor Law on Dual Contracts

Wisconsin Group At 46th Annual State Meeting

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Wisconsin Association of School Boards has adopted a resolution supporting legislative proposals to penalize a teacher signing a contract with a school unit while under contract with another.

The resolution, which encountered some opposition, was passed Wednesday by the association's delegate assembly on the opening day of a convention being held in connection with the 46th annual meeting of state school boards and administrators.

The resolution calls for the association's support of legislation allowing teachers time to negotiate contracts if under "the same legislation, there is provision penalizing a teacher for signing a contract" while not having a release from an existing contract.

No 'Pilfering' Problem

A delegate said the resolution did not recognize the problem of school superintendents "pilfering teachers" from other schools.

There also was opposition to a resolution proposing a minimum of 180 full-time work days for teachers eliminating "any other activity as a substitute for school or teaching days."

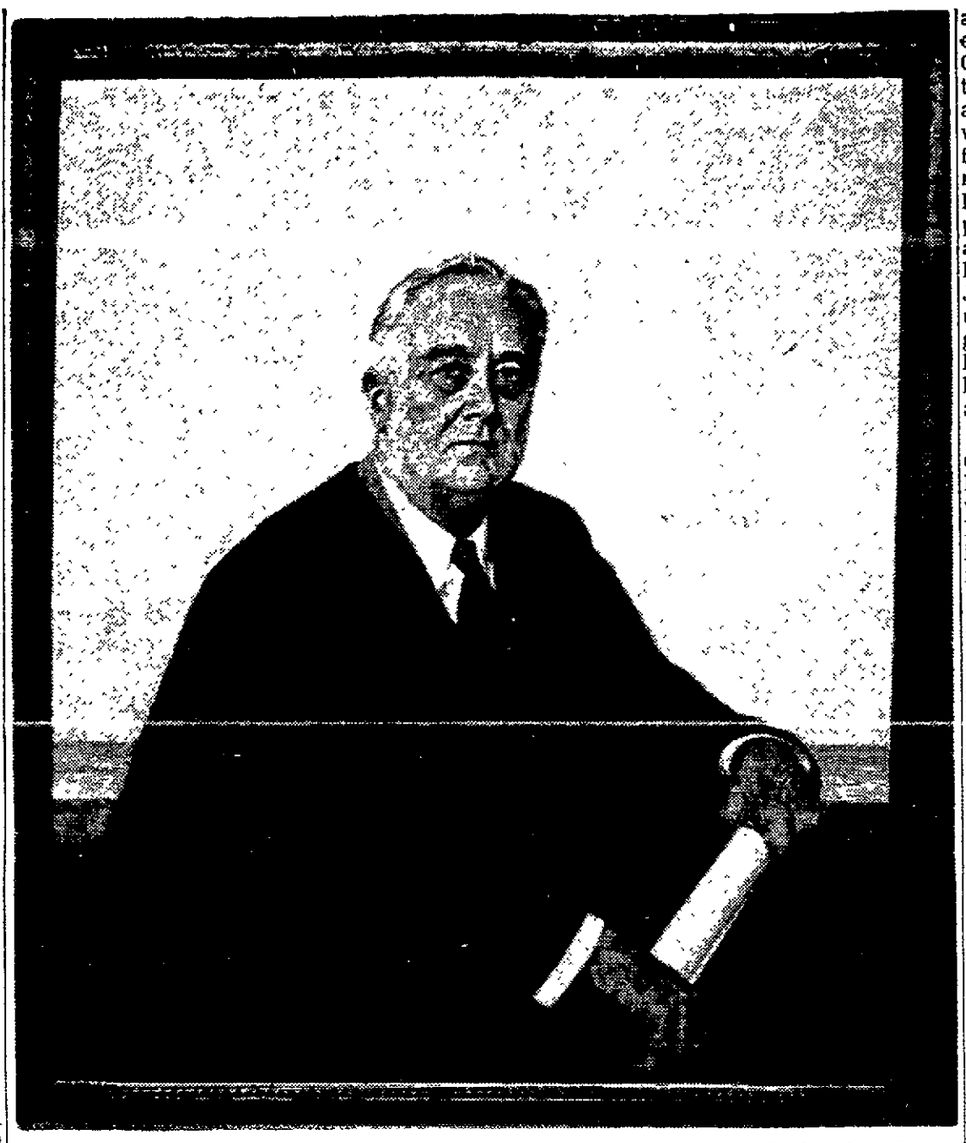
The group adopted a resolution urging separation of "vocational and public education" programs.

The resolution asks that vocational training programs for teen-agers be under the jurisdiction of the State Department of Public Instruction.

Federal funds for job training programs, the resolution urges, should be handled by the department rather than by the State Board of Vocational and Adult Education.

Germantown GI Killed in Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon said Wednesday Army Sgt. Andrew L. Moody Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew L. Moody of rural Germantown, has been killed in Vietnam action.



This New Portrait of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, painted by Madame Elizabeth Shoumatoff, will be unveiled Jan. 31 at a reception marking the late President's birthday. The painting has been given to the White House by the artist, who was painting Roosevelt when he died, April 12, 1945. (AP Wirephoto)

'68 Election Picture

Clashes for Vacant Senate Seats Might Resound Through Presidency

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1968 elections will involve 34 Senate seats, and jockeying over them will loose political pulling and hauling likely to have considerable effect on the presidential race.

Among 11 Republican senators whose terms expire two years from now are two who have been leaders in what is commonly called the liberal wing of the party — Thomas H. Kuchel of California and Jacob K. Javits of New York.

Kuchel did not support GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater in 1964 nor lift a hand to help Gov.-elect Ronald Reagan in California.

Yet any attempt by conservative Republicans to cut him down could bring troubles to the party in California. Kuchel has a substantial personal following. There has been speculation that he might, if he thought the circumstances made it advisable, run as an independent.

Possible Nominee

Javits, with backing from Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, has made himself available as a vice-presidential nominee. This has to be linked with the possibility that Gov. George Romney of Michigan will get the presidential nomination.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, a leading possibility with Romney, is a resident of New York and a Nixon-Javits ticket would violate the geographical precedents of presidential politics.

Goldwater, himself, is expected to be a 1968 Senate candidate. The Arizona seat he wants is now held by Democrat Carl Hayden. Hayden is ill and turned 89 last fall.

As a former presidential candidate, Goldwater's 1968 Senate campaign speeches probably will get national attention. What he says could have repercussions in the presidential contest.

Among the Republicans up for re-election is Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois. The others include George D. Aiken of Vermont, Wallace F. Bennett of Utah, Frank Carlson of Kansas, Norris Cotton of New Hampshire, Peter H. Dominick of Colorado, Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa, Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky and Milton R. Young of North Dakota.

Of the 23 Democrats whose Senate terms expire, one is retiring. He is George A. Smathers of Florida. A party-wrenching struggle for the Democratic nomination to succeed him could develop.

Alabama has the potential for a situation of particular interest. Lister Hill's term expires. Gov. George C. Wallace is threatening to run for president as a "third party" contender. It would be an unhappy situation for Hill if he found himself running for re-election as a regular Democrat while Wallace campaigned against the national administration. Four years ago Hill had a close call against James D. Martin who was the unsuccessful GOP candidate for governor against Lurleen Wallace in the 1966 election. Hill beat Martin by 6,803 votes out of a total of 397,071.

J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, is another whose term expires. Orval E. Faubus, six-term governor, has indicated he might be interested in trying for the seat.

Wayne Morse, the Oregon maverick, will be up for re-election. There is no reason at this time to expect that he and President Johnson, presumably to run for re-election, can present a united front to Democratic voters; Morse has been a frequent critic of the administration on foreign policy, particularly Vietnam.

Other Democrats whose terms expire include Birch Bayh of Indiana, Alan Bible of Nevada, Daniel B. Brewster of Maryland, Frank Church of Idaho, Joseph S. Clark of Pennsylvania, Sam J. Ervin Jr. of North Carolina, Ernest Gruening of Alaska, Daniel K. Inouye of Hawaii, Frank J. Lausche of Ohio, Edward V. Long of Missouri, Russell B. Long of Louisiana, George McGovern of South Dakota and Warren G. Magnuson of Washington.

Also A. S. Mike Monroney of Oklahoma, Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin, Abraham A. Ribicoff of Connecticut, Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina and Herman E. Talmadge of Georgia.

Musicians Protest Space Limitations In Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Fox trot or rock 'n' roll, there ought to be more of it, a labor group insists.

The Milwaukee Labor Council, AFL-CIO, voted Wednesday to back efforts by Milwaukee Musicians Local 8 to modify the prohibition against dancing in an establishment having less than 1,500 square feet for the pasttime.

The council also supported Local 8's proposal that the age minimum for a night spot entertainer be reduced to 18 from 21.

Russell Wussow, Local 8 president, has said the age and space restrictions are forcing business and entertainers into Milwaukee suburbs. Some teenage musical groups have to travel 100 miles to find work, he said.

To Your Good Health

Clock Has No Control Over Human Stomach

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Our work day starts at 7:30 a.m. and our lunch hour is from 10 to 11 a.m., sometimes a half hour earlier. We have no choice in the matter. We must eat then when we are not hungry and feel sick for an hour or two, or not eat and feel nauseous with hunger later on.

Don't suggest bringing food in and eating at the desk. This is frowned upon. Is it possible for the human stomach to digest food properly at 9:30 in the morning? — K.N.

Some people work nights and live completely upside-down lives without harm. But it does often take a few days to readjust if the hours are changed.

You don't explain the reason, if any, that your lunch hour starts at 10 a.m. or even 9:30. Maybe it has to be. Or maybe a petition to the management could bring about a change. That's out of my sphere.

It does seem that you may still be able to work out some sort of eating pattern that will suit you better.

Do you get a coffee break? If so, maybe a husky breakfast and then a sandwich on the coffee break would keep you from feeling either starved or stuffed.

Physically, you can adjust safely to almost any halfway reasonable schedule, but regularity is important to most of us, once the schedule is set.

Dear Dr. Molner: You wrote about the possible dangers of eating pork which is insufficiently cooked. What about heavily smoked pork — sausage, etc.? Does the smoking make it safe? In most European countries smoked ham is a favorite dish. — C.H.

No, smoking does not replace proper cooking. One of our worst outbreaks of trichinosis with which I was involved was among people at a picnic who ate smoked pork sausage without cooking it.

Some European countries have, to their credit, quite effectively eliminated the trichina worm. But this side of the Atlantic the rule of "cook pork thoroughly" is the only wise one.

Thorough cooking kills the trichina eggs. Also wash hands thoroughly after having handled uncooked pork. Otherwise you might get some of the very tiny eggs in your mouth and get trichinosis.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a torn cartilage on the inner part of my knee. Will an operation help this or would therapy treatments be better?—L.J.M.

There are too many types of knee injuries involving cartilage for me to answer this without knowing more than you have told me. You doubtless have noted on the sports pages how readily football players have such surgery when it is required. Have an orthopedist determine the nature of the injury and then tell you the surest way to repair it.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have had kidney infections off and on. When my sinus acts up, so do my kidneys. Is there any connection between them? — S.J.

It is quite possible for both sinuses and kidneys to be sensitive to the same germ. That is, as infection flares in the sinuses, some of the germs could well invade the kidneys.

It is not uncommon for a focal infection in sinuses, tonsils, teeth or other areas to contribute to infection elsewhere in the body. In your case, the kidneys may be the vulnerable area.

Milk Market Areas Reveal Price Level

Lack of Order Hurts Market

Milk prices for December 1966 have been announced by the market administrator in Madison, Milwaukee and northeastern Wisconsin federal milk marketing order areas.

A Minimum blend price of $4.61 per cwt. was announced for fluid (Grade A) producers in the Madison order. This is equivalent to 10.5 cents per qt for the farmer. The 1965 December minimum blend price was $4.01 for Madison.

The Milwaukee federal order minimum weighted average price is $4.50 per cwt. for Grade A milk (9.7 cents per qt.). The 1965 December price was $3.82 or 68 cents below the 1966 level.

Northeastern Wisconsin federal order producers minimum blend price is $4.50 per cwt. for Grade A milk (9 7 per cents per qt.). The 1965 price was $3.82 or 68 cents below the 1966 level.

Non Order Price

The Chicago (non-order) gross blend price for 3.5 per cent milk is reported at $4.75 per cwt. or 10.22 cents per quart. F.O.B. the Chicago market. The price charged dealers there for milk for bottling use was $5.22 per cwt. or 11.22 cents per quart.

Additional premiums or announced prices by producer organizations above the quoted minimum order prices in the neighborhood (12 cents to 15 cents on blend or weighted average prices or about one-third of a cent per quart.)

Preliminary reports are that manufactured Grade B milk producers during the first half of December 1966, were paid an average of $4.07 per cwt. for 3.5 per cent milk marketed in cans. This is a gross price of 8.75 cents per qt. for the non-bottling Grade B milk. The average price paid to bulk tank producers on B markets was about $4.30 per cwt. or a gross price of 9.20 cents per quart.

Hauling and marketing services charges are paid by the farmer out of all quotations. Such charges amount to ¼ cents to ½ cents per quart or 10 to 25 cents per cwt.

Down From Peak

The December 1966 federal order minimum order milk prices as announced, however, are substantially lower than the peak prices for 1966, or those required to be paid for September and October.

The record shows that the October blend prices of $4.94 per cwt. in Madison and a weighted average of $4.87 per cwt. in Milwaukee were tops for the year in those markets. The $4.80 per cwt. for September milk order minimum blend price was the tops in the northeastern Wisconsin market for the order year.

The lower December blend prices from those required for November are due to a seasonal decline of 20 cents in Class 1 prices set by the order, and a 1 cent drop in the Minnesota Wisconsin milk prices which determines the price paid for Class II milk. Class II is that portion of Grade A producer milk in federal orders that is in excess of fluid product or bottling needs. It is utilized for manufactured products. The Minn.-Wis. average manufactured milk price for September 1966 was $4.34, the high for the year. It declined to $4.14 for December

The blend price to farmers is a combination of the two prices dairies pay, based on percentage of milk that goes into the fluid bottled (Class I) and manufactured (Class II) uses.

Farm Labor 5 Per Cent From 1965

Employment Down 18 Per Cent During December

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farm employment declined 18 per cent between late November and late December, putting the total number of workers at the end of the year 5 per cent below a year earlier.

The number of workers late in December was reported at 3,986,000 by the Agriculture Department. This compared with 4,204,000 a year earlier.

The department said farm employment in 1966 averaged 5,259,000 or 6 per cent less than the 1965 average of 5,610,000.

The annual farm wage rate for 1966 was reported at $1.03 an hour, compared with 95 cents in 1965. Except for 1949 and 1964, farm wage rates have increased every year since 1940.

The department said the declines in farm workers "reflect the increasing use of mechanical harvesters and other labor-saving devices to make more efficient use of labor on farms."

Feeding Beef Cattle, Calves for Slaughter Increasing Says USDA

WASHINGTON (AP) — Feeding of cattle and calves for the quality beef slaughter market continues to run ahead of a year ago.

An Agriculture Department report shows the number on feed in 39 major feeding states Jan. 1 totaled 11,279,000 head, or 7 per cent more than a year earlier.

Sharpest gains were made outside the major Midwestern and Western feeding states. Gains were 25 per cent in Texas and 32 per cent in Oklahoma. Iowa, the leading state in point of numbers, had 14 per cent more than a year earlier. Nebraska, the No. 2 state, was up 7 per cent.

Plane Disappears In Violent Winds On Pacific Coast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A storm in the Pacific Ocean kicked up violent weather in Washington and Oregon today, with heavy rain and snow and hurricane force winds. Some of the storm's fury extended inland to the northern Rockies where wind gusts exceeded 40 m.p.h.

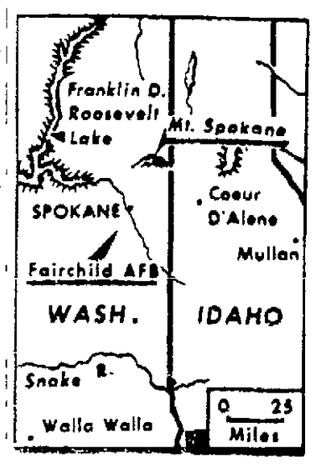
A widespread air and ground search began at daybreak today over rugged, snow-covered terrain northeast of Spokane, for an Air Force KC135 jet tanker that presumbaly crashed Thursday night with nine Air Force men aboard.

Hope faded for all nine. Darkness, gale force winds, dense fog, snow and rain had hindered efforts to launch a comprehensive search throughout the night. Snow was up to five feet deep in the vast search area.

Wisconsin Man

One of the crew members was listed as Capt. Herbert Zoeller, 30, a native of Watertown, Wis.

An Air Force search plane flew over the area today with infrared equipment, hoping to detect heat from any wreckage. Ground search parties headed into the area on snow vehicles. Snowshoe experts were taken along to search on foot if necessary.



There were earlier reports of signals from what could have been a survival radio, but Col. Woodrow Abbott, commander of the 92nd Aerospace Wing, said that did not necessarily mean there were survivors. He said the radio could have been activated by the impact of the crash.

Lost on Radar

The plane was making an approach to land at Fairchild Air Force Base, where all those aboard were stationed, when it vanished from the base radar screen shortly after 6 p.m. It was en route from Hickam Field in Hawaii.

Whole gale warnings were

Korea Admits Shelled Boat Was Off North

Red Officials Say 'Punishment' Was Deserved

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—South Korean Defense Minister Kim Sung-eun admitted today that the patrol boat sunk by Communist shore batteries Thursday was off North Korea's east coast but claimed it was in international waters.

Kim told the National Assembly's defense committee the "totally unwarranted" sinking occurred three miles north of the military demarcation line and four miles off the coast. The statement indicated that South Korea considers North Korea's territorial waters to extend three miles offshore, the usual in international law.

Issues Warning

North Korea's official Korean Central News Agency said the sinking was "deserving punishment" for a territorial violation and warned that similar retaliation would follow any further land, sea or air violations. It said the incident occurred 3.9 miles north of the demarcation line and 3.5 miles off the coast.

South Korea has no declared territorial waters but has established a 12-mile zone for fishing.

The Defense Ministry said Thursday that the sinking occurred in South Korean waters, and the South Korean navy said the 650-ton patrol boat went down 4.5 miles southeast of the demarcation line.

Twelve of the 51 men rescued died later, and 28 others are missing and believed dead.

South Korean and United Nations Command officials said the vessel, assigned to protect 70 fishing boats, was shelled as it tried to retrieve some of the boats that had strayed too far north.

U.S. Loses 4 Airmen in Raid on North

2 Planes Downed As Strikes Near Hanoi Continue

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — American bombers hammered at North Vietnamese rail yards and main rail lines Thursday for the fourth straight day but two of the planes and four fliers did not return, U.S. military headquarters reported today.

Many of the strikes were against the northeast line, along "MIG Valley" in the Red River Delta, but there was no report of any MIGs rising to challenge the American raiders.

Ground fighting in South Vietnam was confined to small, scattered engagements, but allied commanders reported a series of clashes from the southern tip of the country through the northern provinces.

Sweep Launched

South Vietnamese headquarters reported a government force of regimental size—about 1,500 men — launched a search-and-destroy sweep in southernmost An Xuyen Province and in the first day killed 16 Viet Cong. This was one of five scattered

SAIGON (AP)—Operation Cedar Falls turned up a massive tunnel today within the Iron Triangle that may have served as the long-sought headquarters of the Viet Cong's 4th Military Region, from which Communists have launched attacks on Saigon outposts.

Men of the U.S. 196th Light Infantry Brigade probed the tunnel. Brig. Gen. Richard T. Knowles, the brigade commander, said they found maps, plans, weapons, booby traps and some guerrillas within the vast boring, 25 miles northeast of Saigon.

Planes Continue Caribbean Hunt

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Planes and ships continued to search the eastern Caribbean today but there was still no clue to the disappearance of the wealthy daughter of the U.S. ambassador to Britain, her husband, and their pilot on a charter flight Tuesday from San Juan to the Virgin Islands.

Commercial DC7s of Caribbean Atlantic Airlines joined military and civilian search planes Thursday, flying a few hundred feet over the water to look for Mr. and Mrs. Stephen R. Currier of New York, and John D. Watson, the pilot.

Ford Vows To Oppose Tax Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Appraising the state of a "vexed and troubled" union, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen has prescribed reinforced U.S. determination and "a more vigorous effort on land, sea and in the air" to end the war in Vietnam.

And House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford has vowed Republican opposition to a wartime tax increase until President Johnson makes "a convincing case" for the boost he seeks.

The two minority leaders delivered their joint appraisal Thursday night before some 250 Republican colleagues in the Capitol's hot, crowded old Supreme Court chamber.

Ford said November's election victories gave the GOP a mandate to chart "a new direction" for America. "As we look ahead, Republicans see a program of sensible solutions for the seventies," he said.

Solutions for 60s

"Why don't we come up with some positive solutions for the sixties?" Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield asked later.

Another Democrat was more caustic in his assessment of the appraisal.

"I gather that Messrs. Dirksen and Ford are strongly in support of the Vietnam war, but strongly opposed to paying for it," said Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn. "This would have those who are fighting and dying make the only sacrifice."

But there were only Republicans to cheer, no Democrats to chide, when Dirksen and Ford delivered the twin speeches they said were neither replies nor rebuttals to the State of the Union message Johnson took to Congress 10 days ago.

Ford outlined Republican domestic proposals, listing a stream of GOP offerings which

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The bill to change the site of the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay was introduced in the state Assembly this morning.

Co-authored by nine assemblymen from both sides of the aisle in the state's lower house, the bill requests the state to change the proposed location of the third and fourth year branch campus of the UW from the already-selected Shorewood site on the city's northeast side to a site at the intersection of State 54 and proposed U.S. 41, commonly known as the Larsen Farm site.

That location, on the city's west side, was chosen by a site selection team appointed by then-Gov. John W. Reynolds more than three years ago. The Shorewood site, opposed by legislators from the southern end of the Fox River Valley, was chosen by a site selection team chosen by Gov. Warren P. Knowles and the state Legislature more than a year ago.

Co-authors of the bill come from throughout Wisconsin, and generally were found among the friends of the bill's main backers, southern Fox Valley legislators.

The authors include bill drafter William Rogers, D-Kaukauna; Ervin Conradt, R-Shiocton; Bernard Lewison, R-Viroqua; Ronald Parys, D-Milwaukee; Bruce Peloquin, D-Chippewa Falls; Herbert Grover, D-Shawano; Gregor Bock, R-Highland; Leslie Stevenson, D-Marinette, and Sam Orlich, D-Milwaukee.

Frederick C. Schroeder, R-West Bend, had signed up as a co-author but Thursday withdrew his name from bill sponsorship, while pledging his continued support for the measure.

Warmer Winds Coming Tonight

Fox Cities — Generally fair, windy and warmer tonight and Saturday. Low tonight, near 27; high Saturday, near 36. Light easterly winds becoming southwesterly and fresh tonight. Less than 10 per cent chance of precipitation tonight and Saturday.

Road Report — All highways still have scattered slippery spots in passing lanes and in areas of slow-moving traffic.

Appleton — Observations for the past 24 hours show high, 25; low 5. Barometer 29.85 and falling. Winds from south at 5 miles per hour. Skies cloudy. One half inch of snow fell.

Sun sets at 4:46 p.m., rises Saturday at 7:22 a.m. Moon sets tomorrow at 3:09 a.m. The planet, Mars, is now a few degrees northeast of the star, Spica. Late in April, Mars will again appear near Spica and it then will be much the brighter of the two.

8 Inches Below the Knee

Carnaby Hemlines Go Down

LONDON, (AP) — Carnaby Street — home of the thigh-high miniskirt — dropped hemlines eight inches below the knee today.

"I'm experimenting," said Irvine Sellars, 27. "A surprise move, you might say."

Sellars is one of the more successful clothes designers of Carnaby Street, the fashion arbiter for London dollies and their long-haired boy friends.

"In dropping the hemline, I'm being both practical and sexy too," he said.

"Practical because in our chilly, wet English weather, the wintry blasts hit hardest where the skirts are shortest, so to speak."

'Awfully Cozy'

Dress designer Susan Delfont, 19, who works for Sellars commented:

"I think it may take some time for these long jobs to catch on, but they're soundly designed and awfully cozy and warm."

Susan owns two new long dresses, one with the hem eight inches below her knee and another about an inch below the knee.

"As the mercury drops, so do my hemlines," she said. "And as the temperature rises, they go up. Come summer and I suppose they'll be back where they were — way up above the knees."

On the subject of sex and hemlines, Sellars said:

"These long dresses can be quite sexy. To me the late Jean Harlow was as sexy as they come, and in her day — the middle and late 1930s — her dresses were long. Of course I don't remember much about those days, but I've seen the films and photographs."

Continue Minis

He said he would continue designing mini dresses, but when the cold blasts sweep Britain he advocates a new dress gadget.

"I call them Bermuda-length bloomers," he said.

With an eye on the American market, the clothes designer said he has a mini that is not-so-mini.

"American girls generally tend to be a bit more discreet about their miniskirts than do British girls," he said. "I design American minis, particularly for those girls way up north and out in the Middle West, with hemlines at the knee."

Plane With 50 Aboard Lands Atop Snow Plow

Most Injuries Minor Following Airport Crash

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The six-ton snow plow loomed up ahead of the United Air Lines Viscount moments after it had set down at Norfolk airport, and to the pilot "it looked like he was coming through the windshield."

With the sickening sound of metal ripping metal, the four-engine turboprop plane — carrying 46 passengers and a crew of four — tore head-on Thursday into the plow, which had just cleared the runway of four inches of snow.

Locked together — plane on top, snow plow trapped below — the two screeched 100 yards. Part of the aircraft's underbelly was torn away, a landing gear sheared off. Near the wings, twisted steel gripped the plow.

But only the snowplow driver, Charlie Willie Jr., 30, was badly injured. Willie spent two hours trapped in the crumpled cab of the plow before cranes lifted the plane and freed him. He suffered a broken knee and multiple cuts.

Seven of the passengers who had ridden United Air Lines Flight 701 from Washington received minor injuries. They were treated at hospitals and released. All those on the plane slid down a canvas chute to safety.

Red China's Breed of Healthy Zealots

'Where Did That Girl Get Her Yellow Ribbon?'

BY JAN BRODIE

HONG KONG (AP) — I was surprised to find in Communist China a fine old American institution — the singing waiter, or really singing waitress.

Jan Brodie, a correspondent for the London Daily Express, has just come out of China, where he reported on Red Guard activity for The Associated Press. This is an account of some of the incidentals he ran into in and around Canton, a south China city of three million.

The girl who served my noodle soup for my first meal there turned out to be a bouncy singer and led the other waitresses in a 15-minute musical tribute to the thoughts of Mao Tse-tung.

She wore no makeup, her hair was straight and her eyes sparkled. She appeared to enjoy warbling a song called "The East is Red" while two waiters held up a cardboard hammer and sickle.

Songs for Mao

I repeatedly found groups bursting into sudden song — on trains, in parks, cafes, queues and at work. The Chinese have been taught to regard choral efforts as worthy and cultured —but all the words are in praise of Mao.

It is both intriguing and horrifying to study the effects of 18 years under what the Reds call prop-mass — mass propaganda.

Chinese prop-mass tries to squash individualism, to mould everyone into a predetermined form. But it also teaches hygiene, honesty, selflessness and patriotism.

It is beginning to breed a generation of healthy zealots who accept communism as good, America as bad, and all men as equal in the eyes of the party.

Television and the radio pump out a steady stream of Mao's thoughts in song, poetry or prose, interspersed with the latest dreary editorial read aloud from the Peking People's Daily.

When everyone's basic dress is a suit of blue denim you begin to regard the smallest extra touches as wild flamboyance. Where did that girl get her yellow ribbon? Where did that mother find a flowered baby's shawl? Certainly not from the bare shops I saw.

The biggest department store in Canton was even out of peaked caps like the one Mao wears in his pictures and very popular this year.

Year's Wages

Transistor radios and bicycles are the most available consumer goods.

A bicycle costs the equivalent of a peasant's wages for a whole year. As a result most peasants walk. Townfolk have the dubious advantage of buses and trolleybuses which run in insufficient numbers and are always jammed tight.

I visited a middle-aged couple who spent their lives on a boat, a floating slum on Canton's Pearl River. Now the state has given them an apartment by the river with three bedrooms, a living room, kitchen and bathroom.

They and their three sons are ecstatic, though they cannot afford wallpaper, carpets or any furniture other than plain benches and tables.

Yet out of loyalty, gratitude and the effects of prop-mass that family had 10 pictures of Mao on the living room walls.

The party says women are equal to men. The ruling does not work for the older generation, but the girls are noticeably assured and self-assertive.

A girl was in charge of the cleaning squad on the train I took into Canton. I watched as she issued orders to the lads under her. They obeyed unquestioningly and the coaches were swabbed down twice during our three-hour trip.

Feudal Break

China has its own population explosion of 15 million babies a year. The legal age for marriage was raised to 20 for men and 18 for girls in an attempt to cut down the birthrate. In fact the party frowns on anyone marrying under the age of 25. Marriages are forged with love and not fixed up between consenting fathers. Young Communists I spoke to were particularly proud of this break from feudal tradition.

One is overwhelmed by how many Chinese there are — 700

The death of a South Milwaukee pedestrian has raised Wisconsin's 1967 traffic fatality toll to 41 compared with 44 on this date last year.

Vocational District Creation Unsettled

State Board Still Must Act on CCHE 4-County Recommendation

BY DON CASTONIA
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEENAH - MENASHA — Formation of the Area 12 Vocational and Adult Education district (Winnebago, Outagamie, Calumet and Waupaca Counties) apparently is still not completely settled.

Action of the Coordinating Committee on Higher Education (CCHE) in recommending the four-county district on a county line basis must still be further acted upon by the State Board of Vocational and Adult Education on the basis of petitions received for inclusion in such a district. The board meets Feb. 20 in Madison.

C. L. Greiber, state director, said they have not received petitions from all four counties asking for the county line district. Petitions have been received from Calumet and Winnebago Counties and also from 25 of the 26 school districts in the four counties.

The ultimate effect would probably still be a four county district but the petitions could determine the method in which the area vocational board is selected.

If the district is formed on the basis of petitions from the school districts, the boards of education from each district would be the governing body for selecting the area vocational board. If county petitions are acted upon, the county board chairmen would have a voice in selecting the vocational board.

A third possibility, Greiber said, is using a combination of governing bodies to select the area board.

Selection of the area vocational board was one of the main points of contention in Winnebago County in the forming of an area vocational district.

Oshkosh area and rural supervisors had insisted upon a vocational district based on county lines so the county board would retain control over vocational board appointments. School district officials sought to have the boards of education retain this control.

It is now possible for District 12 to be put into effect by July 1, 1967 if the state board approves the petitions on Feb. 20. The Omro School district, which has not petitioned, could be left out of the district if the state board acts only on school district petitions.

However, Greiber said, they could later petition to be included or would probably be assigned to the district if they did not petition before the 1970 deadline. If the county petitions are considered, all of the county would then automatically be in the district.

Assemblyman David O. Martin, Neenah, said he hopes the state board acts favorably upon the petitions so the district can go into operation as soon as possible.

After an area vocational board is selected, this board will determine the site for the new area vocational school.

Wants Blue Ribbon Committee But Is Vague on 'Problems'

Explaining that there are several "problem areas" in Outagamie County health and welfare administration, representatives of the Appleton Taxpayer's Association Thursday afternoon recommended the formation of a "blue ribbon committee" that would conduct a study and report back to the county.

The recommendation was made by Mabel R. McClanahan, president of the taxpayer unit, and a member, John McKenzie, during a meeting of the county board's health, education and institutions committee.

Indications are that the association will prepare a resolution for submission at the February county board meeting, asking supervisors to approve formation of the special committee.

Include Professions

McKenzie hinted that the association was thinking in terms of a five to ten-member committee that would include representatives of various professions such as a hospital administrator, an accountant, a personnel manager and "someone with a legal background."

McKenzie and Mrs. McClanahan told supervisors that they believe it should be a citizens committee — named with the final approval of the county board, "in order to remove the whole issue from possible political implications."

Health committee members were generally receptive to the idea. Supv. Russell DeLaHunt, Kaukauna, suggested that the association take the lead in organizing a special committee. DeLaHunt is chairman of the health unit.

Sylvester Esler, county board chairman, said appointments to the committee should be made by the county board, although he agreed candidates should be selected with the assistance of the taxpayer unit.

Problems Not Specified

Neither Mrs. McClanahan nor McKenzie would specify at the meeting, or afterward, the exact nature of the problems they wanted the committee to investigate.

McKenzie told supervisors, "You have a basic structural problem that is costing the taxpayers a lot of money."

In touching briefly on a few of what the association believes are problem areas, McKenzie said, as pointed out in the J. L. Jacobs county survey report, the Riverview Sanatorium is "overstaffed and underused." McKenzie mentioned the resignation this month of John Engle as superintendent of the county hospital, ad several aspects of the proposed city-county health department.

He said there were "other personnel problems," but added that he did not "care to mention names." He explained there are "duplications of services between the city and the county."

"There are several problems, all involving health and welfare, that seem to come to a head in your committee," McKenzie told supervisors. McKenzie said that the taxpayer unit was interested in "an unbiased examination" of health and welfare functions in the county.

Chilton Board Damage Suit Is On April Docket

School Asks $12,987 From Appleton Firm Now in Bankruptcy

CHILTON — A $12,987 damage suit, filed by the Chilton District of Education against the defunct Mullen Electric Co., Appleton, in January 1964 will be heard in Calumet County Court in April, according to suit is seeking $2,987 compensatory damages and $10,000 punitive damage.

Various sources previously had reported the suit was being readied for filing in the amount of $4,000. Lutz said today the suit is seeking compensatory damages and $10,000 punitive damage.

The suit alleges that the firm failed to meet contract specifications. The district claims the electrical firm was contracted in 1953 to install electrical connections from a feeder pole across the street to a school. The conduit was to be metal encased in concrete.

When a school addition was being constructed in 1963 it became necessary to install additional electrical connections. During the course of construction it was found the original wiring had a concrete casement for a distance of only 10 feet from the feeder pole and again 10 feet from its exit point at the building. The remainder of the wiring was encased in parchment tubing, the suit alleges. The entire span was covered by a thin concrete cap, according to authorities.

Richard Mullen, sole owner of the firm, petitioned for bankruptcy Jan. 3, 1967.

Ironing Board Catches Fire in New London

NEW LONDON — Only minor damage resulted from a fire at 11:08 p.m. Wednesday at the Robert Bernard home, 1102 Neenah St., when an ironing board caught fire.

This was the fire department's sixth run in 1967.

Manawa Board Drafts Teacher Pay Schedule

Calls for $400 A Year Increase In Base Salary

MANAWA — A teacher salary scale proposal was outlined by the board of education at a special meeting Tuesday evening.

To be presented to the faculty will be a plan calling for a $400 raise in base pay for instructors with a bachelors degree. This brings the annual base to $5,400. Increments, based on number of years of experience, would be increased from $150 a year now to $200 a year up to 10 years. This would enable teachers with a bachelors degree to earn a maximum of $7,400 after 10 years experience, and teachers with a masters degree to earn a maximum of $7,700.

The increment limit was raised from $500 to $600 per year. This means that if a raise of more than $600 is required to meet the salary schedule, the adjustment would be spread over two or more years until the schedule is met.

More per mile

The proposed mileage rate in the district was raised from 7 cents per mile to 8 cents.

Proposed raises in the coaching staff include head football coach from $295 to $325; assistant football, from $189 to $200; freshman football, from $185 to $200; head basketball, from $340 to $350; assistant basketball, $225; freshman basketball, from $65 to $125; head wrestling, from $235 to $250; assistant wrestling, from $55 to $74; head baseball, from $150 to $175 head track, from $110 to $150; cross country, from $70 to $85; and athletic director from $110 to $125.

Little league basketball coachs each would get a $10 raise from $110. Directors of extra activities will receive a $5 raise under the proposal.

In other business, the board voted to accpet Forrest Everetts' bid to tile the floors in the dining room and kitchen and fix the counters at the Ogdensburg school for $400.

New London Woman Hurt In Collision

NEW LONDON — Mrs. Beverly J. Vander Zeyden, 24, 1706 Lawrence St., received knee injuries at 3:35 p.m. Wednesday in a two-car collision at W. Wolf River Avenue and Wyman Street.

Police took Mrs. Vander Zeyden to Community Hospital for examination.

A car driven by Leon M. Schuh, 56, route 1, was traveling north on Wyman Street and collided with the eastbound Vander Zeyden car as Schuh attempted a left turn on Wolf River Avenue, police said.

Damage was estimated at more than $100.

More than $100 damage also resulted in a 7:50 a.m. Thursday collision at Wyman and Pine streets. City police said a car driven by Thomas F. Sartor, 37, route 3, skidded on ice-covered pavement and was unable to stop for an arterial on Pine Street. The skidding car collided with one driven by Michael T. Sweeney, 17, 1602 Lawrence St., which was headed south on Wyman Street.

Waupaca Sets New Standards For Patrolmen

Committee Changes Age Limit, Waives Education Necessity

WAUPACA — In an attempt to attract more applicants for two new county traffic patrol positions, members of the law enforcement committee Wednesday voted to change the age limits, waived educational requirements, and agreed to try and raise the starting salary.

Earlier standards set minimum age limit at 25, and maximum at 35. The committee kept the minimum, but left the top age open, although they did consider a maximum starting age of 45. Education requirements of a high school education were dropped. Recommended weight minimum is 160 pounds.

The decision was made after five applicants were interviewed. Three did not meet the necessary requirements. Seven had turned in applications to the county clerk, but one had already taken a job with the city of Manawa Street Department and a second did not appear for the interviews, Jack Penney, captain of the patrol, said.

Before readvertising for more applicants, the law enforcement committee will meet with the finance committee Feb. 6, in an effort to get a salary increase for starting patrolmen. Starting salary is now $390 per month, lower than that paid by several neighboring counties for traffic patrolmen. Capt. Penney said.

Of the two positions to be filled one was left by the resignation of Robert Starks, who was stationed in Manawa, and the other is an addition to the patrol. He will be stationed at Marion.

Appleton Man Wills $450,000 to St. Norbert

Will of Gordon L. Schiffer Stipulates Money Is for Scholarships at Discretion of College

DE PERE — A $450,000 scholarship bequest to St. Norbert College by an Appleton man was announced by the Very Rev. D. M. Burke, O.P.M., president of the college.

The will of Gordon L. Schiffer, who died last September, stipulates that the money is "to be used for scholarships to be granted in such amounts and under such regulations as the governing body of the college shall deem best."

The principal of Schiffer's gift, according to the terms of the bequest, will be held in trust for a period of 50 years. It will be known as the Gordon L. Schiffer Scholarship Fund. The interest and dividends on this investment will generate approximately $25,000 per year for student assistance.

The will further provides that at the end of 50 years the college "may use all or any of the principal for such other purposes as in its judgment would be for the best interests of the college."

Institutions Benefit

Other provisions of the will leave $175,000 to three religious institutions and to a relative. St. Joseph's Home for Children in Green Bay was granted $50,000; St. Joseph and Sacred Heart parishes, both in Appleton, similar amounts, and a relative $25,000. St. Norbert College was named residuary beneficiary after these payments are made.

The inventory, filed this morning in Outagamie County Probate Court, shows that Schiffer had a gross estate of $663,000. Scheiffer was a retired meat market employe, and his mother reportedly had business interests in a large shoe manufacturing firm.

"Gordon Schiffer's bequest to St. Norbert College," Father Burke commented, "is most significant. It serves one of the greatest needs in higher education today by assisting qualified students in their planning for college. With the costs of higher education increasing each year, this gift takes on added importance. We are grateful to Mr. Schiffer for his foresight and generosity."

Schiffer's gift culminates many years of interest in St. Norbert, which originated in his youth when the first of many relatives enrolled at the college. It was reported, further, that it was Schiffer's desire to concentrate his charitable and educational contributions on nearby institutions. He had no immediate family. His wife preceded him in death by several years.

Makes Goal

John B. Torinus, chairman of the St. Norbert College Development Campaign, stated today that "upon payment of all pledges made in our present fund raising effort, this gift brings the first phase development goal of $3,800,000 to a successful conclusion. It will permit the college to concentrate on the second phase of a long-range facilities and improvement program. This calls for an addition to the Memorial Union, a much-needed field house of physical education and health unit, a library-learning center, and an expansion of classroom and faculty office space."

The campaign just completed, covered a $2,800,000 science building now under construction, a $500,000 student aid fund, and a $500,000 faculty improvement fund. The latter two funds will continue to need enlargement as the college and its enrollments grow.

Second Bill by New Congressman

Steiger Bill Asks For 'Hoover' Study

WASHINGTON — A commission on reorganization of the executive branch of the federal government is called for in a bill submitted in the House Wednesday by Rep. William A. Steiger, R-Oshkosh.

The bill would establish a 14-member panel patterned after the Hoover Commissions of 1947 and 1953.

While stating reforms in government organization are necessary to overcome overlapping programs and a "communications gap" between departments, Steiger also linked the proposal to so-called tax sharing proposals favored by a number of Republicans.

Tax Sharing

Steiger said finding the most effective ways of managing government and of financing programs is a dual problem. Tax sharing, with some federal revenues handed directly to state and local governments "without strings," according to the newly elected congressman, "must go hand-in-hand with a federal government run on a business-like basis."

Steiger's action coincides with legislation offered in 1965 by Rep. Charles Mathias, Jr., R-Maryland.

Members

The commission would include two senators, two congressmen, two governors, two executive branch officials and six private citizens.

Steiger gave increasing amounts of paper work and delays by federal officials processing state and local applications for federal assistance as additional reasons for favoring reforms.

"Our federal government must be run economically and imaginatively," said Steiger, adding he believes there is need for changes "which will strengthen the system as well as upgrade it and provide additional economies."

New London School Forms Safety Patrol

NEW LONDON — Eighteen Lincoln Elementary school students recently joined the school safety patrol program.

The local district had school patrols several years ago, but the program was dropped. A complete patrol may be organized if the patrol proves to be successful.

Police Chief Jack Algiers and Superintendent H. James Ramsdell participated in the installation ceremony at an all-school assembly.

Stockbridge High Projects

Girls Work for Retardates

BY HAZEL THIEL
Special to The Post-Crescent

STOCKBRIDGE — Seams of concern for Calumet County's retarded children are being sewn by 14 young Stockbridge High School seamstresses, as they put together work aprons for trainable children attending classes at New Holstein Elementary School.

The girls, all juniors, had no difficulty getting Mrs. John Knauf Jr., home economics teacher, to agree to the project. It was planned when a class member, Alyce Schmitt, visited the school this fall. Alyce's visit to the trainable class with Mrs. Hugh Leader, route 1, Menasha, president of the county chapter for retarded children, was inspired by a talk given by Mrs. Raymond Lattin, Madison, field consultant for the Wisconsin Association for Retarded Children.

"We wanted to do something for the children and Mrs. Rosemary Fox, the teacher, said that new aprons were needed" Alyce said.

Although proficient in more difficult clothing construction the teen-agers say they enjoy the project because "we're making a gift for someone". Scraps of varied colored and textured material were gathered from friends and home sewing drawers to make the aprons which boast two large pockets made from the "fall away" material which forms the bib. The children will wear them when dabbling in paint and other craft work.

A check for $110 was turned over this week to the fund from a project in which the whole class participated. On Dec. 3 a spaghetti supper was sponsored and the profits were divided between the class treasury and the fund drive for retardates in Calumet County.

Carole Behnke and Alyce joined forces as chairmen of the event, enlisting the help of Charles (Bud) Thompson, high school athletic coach, who served as chef for the more than 300 persons attending.

All girls in the class provided cookies for dessert with the boys being assessed 50 cents towards other expenses. Boys and girls took their turns as table waiters.

Alice Hoerth, a Stockbridge High School student, sews on an apron which will be worn by one of the pupils attending special classes being conducted at New Holstein for Calumet County's retarded children. The apron-making project was undertaken by the girls after a classmate visited the class. Looking on is Mrs. John Knauf Jr., home economics teacher at the school.

Ex-Businessman Edwin Buss Dies At Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — Funeral services for Edwin C. Buss, 69, 60 Torrey St., a retired Clintonville businessman who died at his home at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday, will be 1 p.m. Saturday at Christus Lutheran Church. Burial will be in Graceland Cemetery, Clintonville.

Buss was a cheesemaker and then for many years was owner of the Leaning Tower Tavern, 103 S. Main St. He retired four years ago.

Buss was a member of the Christus Lutheran Church, the Christus Brotherhood, the Clintonville Riverside Golf Club, the Clintonville Curling Club and the Association of Commerce.

Survivors are his widow, two daughters and seven grandchildren.

Friends may call at the Eberhardt and Hoh Funeral Home until 9 a.m. Saturday, then at the church.

Opens With Concert

Waupaca Arts Festival Readied

WAUPACA — Scheduling of events for the Waupaca Fine Arts Festival has been completed.

The opening event is the concert by the Luther College Choir of Decorah, Iowa, Jan. 26, at the high school gymnasium.

The next event will be on the afternoon of Feb. 19 when the Folk Dancers of Milwaukee will appear. The group will present Scottish, Polish, Russian, Ukranian, Slavic, German and Scandinavian dances. Dancers have won acclaim for their performances at the Folk Fair in Milwaukee.

On March 12 the Community Chorus will present its concert. The 160-voice chorus is already in rehearsal under the direction of Gerald Knoepfel, music director of the Waupaca High School.

The chorus will present Gounod's "St. Cecelia Mass" and Vivaldi's "Gloria." Two of the soloists are well known to Waupaca audiences — Mari Tanigushi and Austin Boncher. Others will be named.

Knoepfel has obtained a symphonic orchestra to accompany the chorus.

Arts Festival

The arts festival will close with the annual art show at the Armory, the first week of April. Mrs. Sam Salan will be chairman of the event with Mrs. Charles Hathaway assisting. The show will be judged by a top art critic and teacher.

Registrations for entries are now being accepted.

Contributions are being solicited to help support the events. The festival has not attained a self supporting status thus far. Those contributing $25 or more will be listed in the program booklet under sponsors. Donations under $25 will be acknowledged as patrons of the arts. Checks may be sent to P.O. Box 55, Waupaca.

Sturgeon Bay	7	1	West De Pere	3	5
Algoma	6	2	Bonduel	2	6
Kewaunee	3	4	Oconto	2	6
Seymour	3	4	Ashwaubenon	0	8

The Bonduel and Seymour High School cage teams face unenviable tasks tonight when each takes on prime contenders for the Northeastern Wisconsin Conference crown.

Coach Ruben Echardt's Bears play host to first-place East De Pere, while Carl Ibe's Seymour quintet travels to Sturgeon Bay to battle the second-place Clippers. Other contests find Bayport at Kewaunee, Pulaski at Algoma, Oconto Falls at West De Pere, and Ashwaubenon at Oconto.

The Red Birds have averaged 82.9 points per game in sweeping past eight NEW foes. The Bears, last week, dropped an 86-60 decision to West De Pere, despite Jim Betzner's 18 points.

The Indians own a 3-game streak in league play. Seymour has now beaten Oconto, Bonduel, and Ashwaubenon in succession to climb into a fourth place tie with Kewaunee. Gene and Jim Danforth combined for 35 points as the Indians embarrassed hapless Ashwaubenon, 99-45, in Seymour's last engagement. Sturgeon Bay will send the best defense in the league against the Indians, having allowed only 47 points per game.

De Pere will bring the leading rebounder and scorer in the conference against the Bears in Denny Geurts, who sports a 22.2 scoring average. Seymour's Gene Danforth is third in totals but has the second best average at 17.8.

Scoring leaders:

Police Chief's Program

Chilton Teen-Agers Enjoy Center

CHILTON — Activities, dances and food offered at the youth center have kept more than 1,120 teens occupied and off the streets in December alone, according to Daniel Albedyll, city police chief, who also serves as director of the center.

Albedyll, who devotes three nights a week to the young people, finds teen appetites are his biggest problem. Youngsters consume an average of six cases of soft drinks in an evening, dozens of sandwiches of which eight varieties are offered, and numerous candy bars.

Activities offered include ping pong, pool and bumper pool, checkers, chess, cards and a television viewing room.

Teen-agers may dance to records played on a juke box bought by the center. They will pay a nickel to operate it until it is paid for. Then it will be free of charge.

Albedyll keeps the facility located in the Masonic Temple, open from 6 until 10 p.m. on week nights and until midnight on weekends or after a week night basketball game.

Basketball nights are unbelievable, Albedyll said, with between 150 and 180 students crowding the rooms and shouting to each other over the blaring music. It seems loud and louder are the only volumes chosen, he said.

The average crowd on a week night is 60 with more girls in attendance on weekends and after a game.

December Dance

In December a dance was sponsored by the PTA to buy curtains for the room.

Albedyll runs the food sales himself and cleans up afterwards, but every two weeks student volunteers mop the floors.

At Christmas a student committee decorated a tree and made window trimmings.

Clippings recognizing the students' athletic achievements are noted on a bulletin board which is a new addition this year.

The teens' appreciation of the facility is evident, according to Albedyll, by their good behavior and acceptance of the rules. The attendance figures certainly show the program is a rousing success, he added.

Kindergarten Near Reality for Hilbert District

HILBERT — Equipment for the kindergarten classroom has been ordered and if a teacher can be hired, the program for youngsters will be started on a two or three-month basis this year, Earl Anderson, school district supervising principal, told the board of education this week.

In other action the board delayed opening bids for a school bus because all members were not present. A special meeting on the bus puchase has been scheduled for 8 p.m., Jan. 25.

Juniors and seniors on the varsity basketball team and coaches will be permitted to attend the state basketball tournament.

Purchase of new football equipment was approved.

Also forfeiting a $30 bond on similar charges were Gerald F. Pasewald, 18, Main Street, Hilbert, who was involved in an accident two miles west of Hilbert on Dec. 18 and Nicholas J. Heus, 19, New Holstein, after an accident Dec. 24 on State 149 in the Town of New Holstein.

Eight Drivers Pay $330 in Calumet Court

Arrests Stem From Recent Traffic Mishaps

CHILTON — Eight motorists paid a total of $330 in Calumet County Court Monday on charges stemming from traffic accidents.

Four were fined $50 each by Judge D. H. Sebora for driving too fast for conditions and being involved in accidents.

Lyle L. Behnke, 19, Reedsville, was involved in an accident Jan. 11 on State 114 in the Town of Rantoul. Marie J. Habermann, 21, route 4, Chilton, was involved in an accident Dec. 23 on State 114 in the Town of Brillion. LeRoy H. Meisenburg, 18, Fond du Lac, was involved in an accident Dec. 17 on State 55 and U.S. 151 in the Town of Brothertown. James H. Fischer, 23, route 2, Brillion, was involved in an accident Oct. 22 on State 57 in the Town of Chilton.

Denture Wearers Take New Look

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—A new discovery called Super Dent will change the look of dentures soon. Users say it cleans plates so beautifully they can't believe it. Super Dent uses a startling new aerosol principle. It injects a bubble cleaning solution into the denture bath. This produces millions of tiny freon air bubbles that scrub dentures clean. Users say this air bubble cleaning is amazing to watch. The way it cleans is almost supernatural, say users. Stains and debris disappear before your eyes. Super Dent is now available at Hoffman Drug.

Publication of Wolf River Plan Is Announced

Area Commission Will Send Copies to County Supervisors

Publication of a comprehensive planning report for the eight-county Wolf River Basin region was announced Tsursday. The plan was prepared by the Wolf River Basin Regional Planning Commission with technical assistance from the Wisconsin Department of Resource Development. Financial assistance was provided by the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The commission received 1,000 copies of the 150-page soft cover volumes. They will be mailed to county board supervisors in each of the eight member counties as well as other city and county officials.

The Wolf River plan is one of the first attempts in the nation to set comprehensive development policies for a region centered on a large water resource system. As such, the program will enable many counties and communities in the area to meet their responsibilities for water nanagement under Wisconsin's new Water Resources Act, according to the department.

Large Land Area

The Wolf River Basin region extends from Lake Winnebago to the northern state boundary and contains 11 per cent of the state's land area. Included are Forest, Langlade, Menominee, Shawano, Waupaca, Outagamie, Waushara and Winnebago counties Regional population now exceeds 330,000. By 1980, the region is expected to have nearly 400,000 residents.

Planning proposals are made for economic growth, resource protection, land and recreation development, public facilities and transportation. Several recommendations — especially those dealing with preservation of "wild river" portions of the Wolf River and with development in Menominee County — already have been accomplished through the coordinated efforts of federal, state and local governments.

Building Costs Rise in Village

Expenditures in Little Chute Up More Than a Third

LITTLE CHUTE — Estimated construction costs in the village during 1966 amounted to $351,745, an increase of $101,084 over the 1965 total of $250,661, according to the annual building report released by Gerald Locy, building inspector.

Eighteen new homes costing $310,000 were built in 1966 compared to nine costing $135,000 in 1965. Twelve garage permits were issued, total cost $10,220 compared to 16 costing $9,711 in 1965. Six home alteration projects costing $8,450 were noted in 1966 compared to 17 costing $21,650 in 1965.

Additions Made

Three garage additions costing $750 were made in 1965 and none the previous year. Three home additions costing $6,800 were made in 1966. None were noted the previous year. Three commercial additions cost $10,900 in 1966 compared to four costing $5,225 the previous year.

One duplex costing $17,000 was built last year and four tool sheds constructed at a total cost of $625 One home was razed, one garage moved out and one house moved out. A permit was issued for the $1,000,000 high school, but no permit fee was charged and the inspector listed it separately on his report as it does not add to the tax base.

Fees collected during the year amounted to $143.67 compared to $100.50 in 1965.

Officers Chosen By Royalton Congregation

ROYALTON — New officers of the Royalton Congregational Church were elected at the annual church meeting Sunday night.

They are Eugene Eder, moderator; Mrs. Irl Poehlman, clerk; Rawlin Spoehr, treasurer; Arthur Fletcher and Fred Larson, deacons; Mrs. Arthur Fletcher and Mrs. Howard Rice, deaconess; William Beck and Fred Wegener, trustees; Albert Heinke, Clayton Van Ornum, Stanley Dean and Thomas Prahl, ushers; Mrs. Paul Lorenz, board of Christian education; Mrs. Jennie Plant, historian; Mrs. Mayford Bleier, superintendent; Mrs. Lloyd Schultz, assistant superintendent, and Mrs. Ronald Martin, church school treasurer.

Second Ski School Session Ready to Go; Advice: Bundle Up Well

BY JOHN TORINUS JR.
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Yes, you can ski when the temperatures get so low the snow squeaks, and, yes, the second outdoor session of the Post-Crescent Ski School is still on for Saturday.

The first session last Saturday was the best attended in the five-year history of the school, with some 600 ski bunnies crawling all over the hills at Calumet County Park and Mo-Ski-Tow near New London.

The conditions, in contrast to the outlook for this weekend, were near perfect. Two inches of fluff had dropped on top of a good base — perfect snow for beginners, and the sun broke through midway through the morning teaching sessions.

Size of Classes

Enough instructors showed up at both hills to keep class sizes under 20, and the students progressed through the fundamentals well under the lashings of their instructors.

There was a normal number of youngsters whose bindings wouldn't stay on and the traditional damsels in distress who couldn't get up once they fell down. But most stuck it out for the full two hours, and climbed up and down without the benefit of tows.

The kids learned fastest, but many adult beginner and intermediate skiers also picked up more advanced turns and better control.

Basic Snowplow

Not surprisingly, instructors found it necessary to spend quite a bit of time on the basic snowplow, even in the intermediate and advanced classes. Skiers have a way of forgetting the basics from one year to the next, but once they are relearned, the progress accelerates.

So even if the temperatures are forbidding, the show will go on. Schools will open at both hills at 9:30 a.m. Saturday, and students are reminded to be on time and to go to the same classes so their instructors can easily continue where they left off.

Be ready for more choruses from the instructors of:

"Weight on the downhill ski" — "Not like that" — "More in the knees" — "Uncross those skis" — and "Fill up that sitzmark."

Best way to ski in cold weather is to use many more layers of clothing for insulation. Long undies, top and bottom, for a starter, and turtlenecks and more sweaters after that. A windbreaker on top is a must.

Then take along hot chocolate, toddy, rums or coffee, whatever your fancy. You'll be taking more stops in the chalet than on a milder day, so bring along adequate libations.

One advantage: The hills won't be crowded. That will make up for the chair lift seats being a little nippy. And, anyway, what else can you do on an arctic weekend?

Skiers can move to the slopes now without motoring as Air Wisconsin has started a fly-in ski trip to Ironwood, Mich. Flights leave at 7 a.m. from Outagamie County Airport and return to Appleton at 7:30 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays.

The $38 fee covers a round-trip ticket, transportation to Indianhead Mountain and the lift fees. And only a 90-minute trip instead of a five-hour drive.

Lutherans to Pick Officers

WITTENBERG — The annual meeting for members of the Redeemer Lutheran Church will be held at the College Avenue Church at 8 p.m. Sunday.

A vice president, two trustees, four deacons, and three members of the board of education are to be elected to the church council. Nominated are Keith Anderson and James Yaeger for vice president, the Rev. Loen Knitt, Reg Hansen, Milan Kersten, and Carleton Benz for truestees, Mrs. Ben Block, Allen Jensen, Robert Cappel and Gordon Schlender for deacons and James Leschke, Mrs. Arnold Miller, Mrs. Oscar Seefeldt and Mrs. Morris Nelson for board of education.

Rockets Win Final 3 Bouts; Tie New London High, 24-24

NEENAH — Victories in the last three matches, two on pins, provided the Neenah High School wrestlers with a 23-23 draw with New London here Thursday night.

The Rockets trailed, 23-10, after nine matches but Dixon Kuchenbecker (165) pinned Bruce Schulz in 5:46. Kevin Milliken ran his winning string to 10 straight and lifted his record to 14-1 with a 7-0 decision of John Sanders at 180 and Keith Parman pinned Bruce Krueger in 1:28 in the heavyweight division for the last five points.

Kuchenbecker was leading, 4-0, when he made his pin. Milliken had Sanders on the defensive all the way but couldn't pin him and Parman made his takedown and the fall came shortly thereafter.

The closely contested match saw two bouts end in draws and three others decided by two points or less.

Neenah's Pat Schaller and Jim Malliet, two of the better 133 pounders in the conference, battled to a scoreless tie and the Rockets Tom Dieckhoff and Mark Marasch went to a 2-2 standoff at 112.

Mike Coenen, Rocket 95 pounder, was within a half minute of his first win before he was pinned by Steve Volz. Coenen held a 9-8 lead.

The varsity results:

95 — Steve Volz (NL) pinned Mike Coenen in 5:32.

103 — Darwin Westphal (N) beat Jim Crain, 4-2.

112 — Tom Dieckhoff (N) and Mark Marasch, drew, 2-2.

120 — Tom Hobbs (NL) pinned Roy Maynard in 4:3.

127 — Jay Larson (NL) beat Ken Liebhaber, 5-0.

133 — Pat Schaller (N) and Jim Malliet, drew, 0-0.

138 — Pat McCarthy (N) beat Jeff Curler, 9-4.

145 — Ron Petit (NL) beat Ted Hill, 3-2.

154 — Mike Marasch (NL) beat Dick Meyer, 6-5.

165 — Dixon Kuchenbecker (N) pinned Bruce Schulz in 5:46.

180 — Kevin Milliken (N) beat John Sanders, 7-0.

Hvy — Keith Parman (N) pinned Bruce Krueger in 1:28.

Menasha, Marion Wrestlers Battle to 24-24 Deadlock

MARION — Competing without two of its regulars, the Menasha High School wrestlers battled Marion to a 24-24 draw here Thursday night.

The Bluejays didn't have the services of unbeaten heavyweight Dan Lingnofski, who has a skin condition, and Jim Gillen, 154 pounder, out with a shoulder injury.

Sophomore heavyweight Bob Abel, participating in his first varsity match, was decisioned by Dave Kussman, 4-1, in the final match. A fall would have given the Mustangs the victory but Abel was never close to being pinned.

Tim Fahrenkrug, sophomore 180 pounder, who missed the last three matches because of an ear injury, decisioned Ron Zimdars, 7-3.

Jim Krautkramer (133) decisioned Ted Steinke, 2-0, on a third period reversal while Mike Maas (120) posted a 2-0 decision over Joe Bazile.

Five pointers were gained by Gregg Morgan (103) on a pin over Frank Kristof in 3:30; Todd Kuehl (154) on a pin of Dave Buss in 4:53; and Dave Krautkramer (95), via a forfeit.

The varsity results:

95 — Dave Krautkramer (Men) won on forfeit.

103 — Gregg Morgan (Men) pinned Frank Kristof in 3:30.

112 — Keith Kitzman (Mar) pinned Richie Batley in 1:27.

120 — Mike Maas (Men) beat Joe Bazile, 2-0.

127 — Norm Bruss (Mar) pinned Ben Kolasinski in 25 seconds.

133 — Jim Krautkramer (Men) beat Ted Steinke, 2-0.

138 — Orlie Pederson (Mar) beat Nolan Kelley, 6-5.

145 — Jim Morrison (Mar) pinned Tom Gillen in 5:24.

154 — Todd Kuehl (Men) pinned Norm Buss in 4:53.

165 — Tom Brandenberg (Mar) beat Gerry Pozolinski, 4-2.

180 — Tim Fahrenkrug (Men) beat Norm Zimdars, 7-3.

Hvy — Mike Kussman (Mar) beat Bob Abel, 4-1.

Warsaw Pipeline Cut Off

The current instability in Red China has resulted in one unfortunate situation as far as the nebulous American-Chinese relations are concerned. Like most Chinese ambassadors, Wang Kuo-chan, Ambassador to Poland, has been called back to Peking.

Since the United States does not recognize the government of Red China, diplomatic relations have to be carried on in the backyards and alleys, figuratively speaking. The major one has been Warsaw where the United States Ambassador to Poland, John Gronouski, has met several times with Chinese representatives and where other Americans and Chinese, officially representing their governments, have conferred over mutual problems.

Such problems have concerned the imprisonment of some Americans in China, for instance, and in recent months the unofficial but nevertheless highly important sounding out of each other about the war in Vietnam. Last year the Red Chinese virtually acknowledged that they would not actively intervene in Vietnam unless the United States attacked either China or North Vietnam. In much the same way the United States emphasized that it had no territorial ambitions in Asia and specifically did not intend to overthrow the government of Ho Chi Minh. Some of the official American opinion that Red China is no threat to us in Vietnam and that there is little danger of an enlarged war on the mainland of Asia stems from the meetings. Ironically they have also served to encourage the American escalation of the war in what may be a false impression that China will not intervene no matter what we do. This may be true at this time due to the obvious internal difficulties of the Red Chinese regime.

Ambassadors Gronouski and Kuo-chan last met in September and had a meeting scheduled for last week. The Chinese have postponed it for at least two weeks. But it remains to be seen whether or not Kuo-chan, called back with all other ambassadors and some minor consular officials presumably to bolster the forces of Mao Tse-tung, will really return. There will be plenty of scapegoats in what now appears to be Mao's triumph and those who do not sufficiently repent in public or who were not enthusiastically in support of Mao for the last few decades may be cast off. It may be that talking to a United States government official, even at the orders of Peking, is enough proof of perfidy to warrant demotion.

At any rate and whatever the outcome in China, we hope the opportunities for the talks in Warsaw are soon restored. Since neither country can afford to lose face in suggesting the reestablishment of diplomatic relations, the unofficial but authorized discussions are important.

Let Rockwell Speak

The opposition here to the appearance at Lawrence University of George Lincoln Rockwell is understandable. The opinions and policies of Rockwell's American Nazi Party are anathema to Americans who comprehend the true meaning of liberty, equality of opportunity and human dignity and rights.

But the effort to muzzle the most outrageous of points of view is almost always disastrous. It merely builds up support while the best way to expose the error is to open it up to view.

There has been concern expressed lately over the apparent fact that opening public platforms to bigots of various allegiances merely serves to give them standing that they would not otherwise have. In particular, the use of television and radio shows to interview such bigots has been criticized. John Stanley, assistant professor of religion at Lawrence, expressed the same point of view when he suggested that the invitation to Rockwell gives him an opportunity for publicity that he would not otherwise have. But while there is validity to such concern, it appears to us that efforts to shut off such platform appearances, at least once the invitations have been issued, are more damaging than the appearances themselves.

It may seem strange to some observers that there was little opposition to the speech at Lawrence some days ago of a spokesman for the Communist Party in the United States. And here perhaps is the sign of the difficulties. It is not considered the thing to do among Communists today to speak approvingly of violence as it is among the American Nazis. But not only those who make a lot of noise in the advocation of violence are dangerous. Anyone who has ever seen any of Rockwell's statements quoted knows full well where he stands while such cannot quite be said today of Herbert Aptheker.

While in the criticism of Rockwell's appearance at Lawrence there was no real suggestion of preventing free speech, in effect the cancellation now of the program would amount to just that. "If a man is a fool," Woodrow Wilson said, "the thing to do is to encourage him to advertise the fact by speaking."

So let Rockwell have the stage.

Antimissile Defense

President Johnson's effort to postpone a decision on ordering the deployment of an antimissile defense system is to be applauded. But this is an area of great danger and we can expect to be bombarded in the next few weeks with political charges about lack of preparedness.

The problem is that such charges could be entirely accurate. Reportedly the Joint Chiefs of Staff have encouraged the deployment of a missile defense, not now against the great strength and potential of the Soviet Union but against the less effective but also more unpredictable offensive nuclear capabilities of Communist China. Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara has opposed the deployment partly on the grounds that improved offensive capability is the best deterrent.

There are all sorts of angles to be considered in the controversy. First is the political opposition to President Johnson and reasonable, but in our opinion faulty, arguments against his policy of trying to build bridges to Communist countries in Europe. Second, is the fervent opposition to Secretary McNamara both among the critics of his misstatements about Vietnam and a considerable segment of the military community. And third, of course, is the very real danger that we may fall seriously behind the Soviet Union in the matter of defense. Whether we like it or not the "balance of terror" is one of the things that has worked for peace in the last decade and a half.

President Johnson sent a note to the president of the Soviet Union, Nikolai Podgorny, through the United States Ambassador to Russia, Llewellyn Thompson. Reportedly one of the points stressed in the note was the importance of American-Russian agreement about defense systems. The United States has so far spent about $2 billion in the development of an antimissile system but it is estimated that it will take between $3 billion and $30 billion to produce and deploy it. Certainly the cost to Russia of a matching apparatus would be as high.

The United States and the Soviet Union do have, as the President said, "a common interest" in trying to cut back on armaments in an effort to increase security rather than building more. But obviously mutual distrust will be the major deterrent to any such agreement.

'... Let's re-shoot that last scene ...!'

Taylor Writes

Vietnam Is War for All S.E. Asia, Says Ex-Aussie Premier Menzies

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. — Famous former Prime Minister Sir Robert Menzies, Australia's honored leader for 18 years, calls a spade a spade about the Vietnam war. But he objects strongly to the name for it.

Taylor

"Calling this 'the Vietnam war' promotes a dreadful confusion," he told me here, "It is a war for all Southeast Asia. And, make no mistake about it, that strikes directly at Australia, Japan and the Philippines, too."

This working partner of Winston Churchill, FDR and the entire Allied war leadership and each of our postwar Presidents sees a Red Southeast Asia as completely changing the geopolitical balance of the Pacific world, which stands on the American flank, and places its island areas in an untenable position.

That prospect is not important for the United States?

CHESS VS. POKER

Why are our appeasers deaf to warnings like this from men of the areas most closely affected? Why were they deaf to Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos when he came to Washington and invited President Johnson to Manila? We're supposed to listen instead to neutralists who are not helping to stop aggressions and to the likes of France's de Gaulle? The first time we get good advice from Charles de Gaulle about the United States that will be the day!

"Any resignation to this aggression in Southeast Asia is premonitory," Sir Robert stated. "It helps to create the very consequences that the resignation fears."

The Australian describes the Sino-Soviet enemy as moving like a good general moves on the battlefield. "They take one pivotal position to dominate the next pivotal position," he said, "and they plan it all ahead just as chess players analyze the board. They're chess players. The free world is too often a poker player. And that's why we too often lose."

Southeast Asia includes Korea, Tibet, the Vietnam complex, the Indian subcontinent, the Indonesian archipelago, Thailand, Formosa, the Philippines and Japan.

Sir Robert sees the enemy advancing in a series of concentric rings. From his Australian viewpoint, Red China looks across and threatens the life-line of U.S. security in Japan, the Philippines and Australia as clearly as Hitler threatened the free world by way of Europe. He insists that we should remember that if you allow an aggressor to swallow a Czechoslovakia and an Austria he will soon be swallowing a Poland, and be better able to do it.

Sir Robert asks: "Who was it that split Korea, overran Tibet and despoiled Laos and Cambodia? Who threatens Thailand? Who invaded India? The Indian contention about coexistence with the Reds was shattered in the Himalayan snows. Admittedly, the Communist coup in Indonesia failed only because of free world resistance in Vietnam."

In short, the Vietnam enemy, fronting for and controlled by the major Red powers at the rear, is resisting us so ferociously in Vietnam because we want — and need — a Southeast Asia that is free.

SENSE OF FUTILITY

Meanwhile, the former Prime Minister considers it obvious that, as an integral part of their war strategy, the Red leaders want to heighten our sense of futility throughout the United States — the only nation in the world that they fear. They even want to create a false sense of shame here, the Harrison Salisbury articles in The New York Times being a major achievement in that direction along with other systematized efforts.

"You would fully expect the enemy to try to brainwash us. The astounding thing is the way we brainwash ourselves," Sir Robert observed. "A nation that doubts itself enlists in the enemy's ranks and bears arms against itself; making its failure certain by being convinced it will fail. This enemy in Southeast Asia lives and expands on the prestige of violence and the systematic softening up of the free world in every conceivable way."

It is clear that Sir Robert is profoundly distressed by what his friend Winston Churchill called "the frightful unfolding" of the war. But he has a low boiling point regarding rumbles of peace at any price.

"When President Johnson said, 'Aggression unchallenged is aggression unleashed,' he said it all," concluded this visiting statesman who has received more Commonwealth and world honors than any Australian of our century.

More People Made a Federal Case of It, Court Records Show

CHICAGO (AP) — Federal legal caseloads reached an all-time high in 1966.

Cases pending before the U.S. Courts of Appeals climbed to a record 5,387, some 600 more than pended the previous year.

Commerce Clearing House said appeals in 7,183 cases were docketed in 1966. It is an increase of 6 per cent from the 6,766 cases docketed the previous year.

Cases disposed of during the year totaled 6,571.

District Court civil cases filed totaled 70,906 with 66,184 civil cases closed.

Teens Roam Streets Because They Want To

Editor, Post-Crescent:

This is in answer to the letter that appeared January 15th. The lady wanted to hear more on the subject of teens drinking and walking aimlessly through the streets. She asked to hear from everyone except the ones most directly involved — the teenager himself.

Those teens who roam the streets on week-ends are doing it because they want to. There are any number of things to do in Appleton. Besides the Den, we have C.A.C., sports, clubs, and youth centers. I'm a sixteen year old girl, and I have never walked the streets for lack of places to go.

Appleton is to be commended for the very fine facilities it provides for teenagers.

As for having a place to have sodas, there are many restaurants in this city, and only a few are solicited by hoods. The rest of them are happy to serve those who are willing to comply with rules of eating in a public place.

I'm sure you've heard the phrase, "a few spoil it for all," and it's true. Those teens who drink are only a small minority. They are a problem, but they need help and understanding, not cold bars or reform school.

So my belief on this matter is that those teens we are talking about don't want to, or can't be good. Some are trapped, and some will turn out to be fine citizens of tomorrow's world. It is really up to them.

Neenah Times Reviews Concert

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Jan. 26, 1867.

Here is what the Neenah Times says of Prof. Carpenter's concerts in Menasha:

"The Concerts in Menasha, by Prof. Carpenter's class, under his supervision, were very well attended and gave fair satisfaction.

Mr. Carpenter plays and sings in the Ossian E. Dodge style, and in some respects excels that celebrated musician.

We can't say we considered the class singing as quite up to the concert standard, but a few of the students' voices were fine and well cultivated. The bass of young Fisher and the soprano of Miss Mattie Ryan we noticed in particular as being rendered in a style that gave due effect to the impassioned sentiment of music. They were deservedly applauded.

The duet of "Come Home, Papa, Come Home," by little Miss Crandall (the daughter of the Rev. Crandall) and another Miss, was touchingly sung, and elicited well merited applause.

Miss Bishop presided at the piano with grace and ability, and deserved more than mere mention in this connection.

Mr. Carpenter more than sustained the good opinion we have formed of him from notices of editors with whom we are familiar.

25 YEARS AGO

Friday, Jan. 16, 1942.

A tanker, supposedly British, had been torpedoed and sunk within cannon shot of Long Island's summer playground centering around Southampton. Torpedoed by a submarine 60 miles south of Montauk Point, Long Island, this was the closest approach yet made to the east coast by an enemy warcraft.

Janet Lemke was elected president of Brownie Troop 27 of Columbus School. Barbara Stewart was chosen secretary-treasurer and Gaile Rubbert, reporter.

Hal Wentzel was high scorer in the weekly rifle practice meet at Kimberly Clubhouse. Totaling a 348 score out of a possible 400, he performed 94 sitting, 93 kneeling, 82 and 79 offhand. Ed Prior shot second with a 339 total; Glen Strieby and Paul Jansen tied for third place.

10 YEARS AGO

Mrs. Stephen Freschl was program chairman for the dessert meeting of Zion Temple Sisterhood at which Mrs. Herbert Mollner, Chicago, spoke on the topic, "Woman's Place is in World Affairs." The meeting was held in the Appleton home of Mrs. J. S. Winnig.

John G. Strange, Appleton, was elected to the board of trustees of Wayland Academy in Beaver Dam.

The Northside Advancement Association named three new directors unanimously. They were Fred Matthews, Arliss French and Leonard Weise. Secretary-treasurer Joseph Cummings presented a gift to outgoing president, Stanley L. Smith.

Froehlich Puts Fiscal Conservatives on Key Finance Committee

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — An experienced and perceptive man who formerly served for many years as a leader in the legislature had a ready answer when he encountered complaints about the organization of his house and the disposition of key committee assignments.

"We can only work," he always explained, "with the men the people send us."

Wyngaard

The reply will probably be echoed in substance when there is some eyebrow raising about the selection of committee leaders for the principal topical assignments in the new Wisconsin legislative session. Some of the choices appeared strange, perhaps.

It should be explained that contrary to many assumptions, the seniority rule does not apply in the distribution of places of power and prestige in the legislature, as it does in the U.S. Congress, for example. Other things being equal, a man of experience and fruitful previous service can expect good things in the distribution of committee chairmanships and their emoluments — real or imagined — if he belongs to the party that rules. But it is not necessarily so, as the committee roster in the new legislature shows again.

POLITICS A FACTOR

A more relevant factor in most situations is the alignment that produced the top leadership choices. Thus Harold Froehlich, speaker of the Assembly, who won his place by a single vote in the Republican majority caucus, has obviously and carefully tried to avoid the appearance of punishing some of the Assembly seniors who opposed him and supported another candidate.

Yet quite as plainly he also rewarded some of his own trusted supporters with the best of the committee gavels, which is just about what everybody expected a pr cal and ambitious young tician to do. Sentiment has little place in such ters.

Perhaps Froehlich's interesting choices were in staffing of the Legisla Finance Committee. T chairmanship went to By Wackett, Watertown. But of the other choices younger men. It may be he chose them with an eye their capacity to endure physically gruelling job working with that most manding committee. Bu more plausible guess is tha chose them ideologically. T are fiscal conservatives. Froehlich and his party wi a party are obviously de mined that there won't much water in the new bud

Meanwhile Froehlich and Senate Republicans can put on that crucial commi Democratic representati who through taste, or lack experience, may be expec to be least troublesome fi the majority conserva view.

SPECIAL INTERES NOTED

A problem in all legisla bodies is the tendency to h control of important comm tees to persons with a spe interest in the subjects wit their jurisdiction. He again the old timer would that the legislature can w only with the men the pec chose. The man prima concerned about highw gravitates to the high committees, for example. If has reasonable seniority, longs to the majority pa and the ruling faction wit that party, normally he wo be denied. Thus nobody will especially surprised that S LaFave and Assemblym Hutnik, representing up Wisconsin in constituenc more concerned about g roads than other state s vices, have espoused highw legislation during their cap careers and are now chairm of the respective highw standing committees.

Some critics may be curi about their capacity for obj tive judgment under the cumstances. But they rep sent the natural forces legislative politics. On whole, the new legislature been organized as effectiv as in the past.

Monday Holidays Old Idea of Harris

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

It's been many years since I have bothered to write a column about Monday holidays. One of my pet campaigns for a long time, I finally decided that nobody cared very much, and I was becoming a bore on the subject.

Harris

Last month, however, the results of a poll taken by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce indicated that 85 per cent of its 10,000 members favored changing most national holidays to Mondays — the second biggest postivie response the chamber has ever received to any survey.

The Monday observance of national holidays — a system adopted in England and other countries — would create more three-day weekends. The advantages are substantial in many areas: better work production, greater opportunity for family relaxation, a reduction of the large absenteeism now occurring when holidays fall in midweek, and easier planning ahead both for business and for travel.

The holidays affected would be Thanksgiving, Memorial Day, the Fourth of July, Veterans Day, and Washington's Birthday. All of them were arbitrarily selected in the first place, and there is no rational reason for keeping t same dates. Christmas, t falls on Dec. 25 only becau we say it does, but the would probably be too mu emotional resistance changing that date.

Before Thanksgiving w settled on Thursday by Pre dent Lincoln in 1862, it h been celebrated on varic days of the week. The Fou of July commemorates event that was actually real ed on July 2 — the date which the resolution of in pendence was adopted. A Memorial Day and Vetera Day have no particular mea ing in terms of any speci date.

Even Washington's birthd does not truly fall on Feb. He was actually born on Fe 11, 1732. Twenty years lat the new calendar style w adopted by the Americ colonies, 11 days were stru off the calendar, and his bi was celebrated on Feb. 22. for Christmas, I have me tioned before that it has be celebrated on a half-doz different dates during t Christian era, since no o knows on what date Jesus w born, but the most educat guess is around August.

One of the main objectio of the 15 per cent in the p who voted against three-d holidays was "the greater ri of highway accidents duri long holiday weekends." Th is an interesting example the power of abstract stat tics over reason: in fact, the is less chance of being kill on the highways during holiday than at other time True, there are more ac dents on three-day weekend but not compared to t greater number of cars on t road.

Proposes Larger Building Agency

Froehlich Moves to Delay Site Battle in Commission

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Assembly Speaker Harold V. Froehlich named three state Assembly members to the State Building Commission Thursday, proposed that legislative membership on the powerful state building agency be doubled and postponed a battle over domination of the commission by forces contesting the future of the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay.

Froehlich's nominations came after more than a week of waiting, and a full day following state Senate appointment of the upper house's three members on the agnecy.

Froehlich renamed Assemblyman David Martin, R-Neenah, to the commission for his first full term and reached into the ranks of relative obscurity to find two additional representatives of the Assembly.

Remaining Vacancies

He named Assemblymen Harvey Gee, R-Wisconsin Rapids, and Robert Kordus, D-Milwaukee, to fill the remaining two vacancies on the commission, which has control over the size of the building budget for the new campus and for all state institutions.

He coupled his nominations to a call to enlarge the legislative membership on the commission from its present size of six to 12.

Under his plan, each house would be allowed to appoint three more members to the body, two from the majority party and one from the minority.

Also serving on the commission are the governor and a citizen member appointed by the chief executive. The governor is commission chairman.

Froehlich made his announcement after being closeted with Senate majority leader Jerris Leonard, R-Bayside, Assembly majority floor leader J. Curtis McKay, R-Mequon, and Martin for more than two hours.

Tied to Bill

Froehlich said after leaving the meeting that his proposal would be tied to a bill already introduced by 13 Republican senators to increase commission membership by one representative from each house.

"If it isn't amended before it gets here, it will be in the Assembly," Froehlich commented

He tied his move to an attempt to increase membership on the commission to give broader representation and to share the responsibility for state building projects more widely among the legislators.

"They tell us they need more help," he said.

McKay pointed out that when the building commission began operations, the building program of the state totaled only $48 million a year, and that the building requests for the coming biennium totaled $238 million.

"It takes people just to check it out," McKay said.

Favored By Leonard

Leonard said his initial reaction to the proposal to increase even more widely commission membership was favorable. Added members means added workers, he pointed out. And just as important, he said, the increased membership would result in increased responsibility in the Legislature for state building programs and less subsequent criticism.

But he hastened to point out that the proposal had not been discussed in the Senate Republican and Democratic caucuses, and that therefore he could not speak for his house or its majority party.

Assembly minority leader Robert Huber, D-West Allis, said he could not comment on the proposal as he had not been consulted by Froehlich before the proposal was made.

"We don't expect to be consulted anymore unless we read it on the bulletin board," Huber said.

The Senate proposal to enlarge the commission by two members grew out of a bitter intra-party GOP battle between supporters and opponents of increased funds for UW-GB and its site.

Backed by Warren

Sen. Reuben LaFave, R-Oconto, a campus backer, tried to depose Sen. Chester Dempsey, R-Hartland, from his longtime seat on the commission, and was backed by Green Bay Republican Sen. Robert Warren.

Dempsey was backed by Sen. Gerald Lorge, R-Bear Creek.

The battle was compromised when LaFave withdrew from contention Wednesday in return for a guarantee of the proposed new Senate seat on the commission. That proposal would have allowed Froehlich to make an additional selection as well, to counter LaFave's vote, for Froehlich is a foe of the campus site.

The battle was postponed when Froehlich made his three nominations to the commission for men generally conservative on financial matters, but not among those readily identifiable as outright opponents of Green Bay campus development.

Martin has said he supports a site change for the new campus, providing subsequent development delays are not too severe. He says a two or three-semester delay in opening the new school would be acceptable to him, for more students eventually could be served at the west side Larsen Farm site than at the present Shorewood golf course location on the opposite side of Green Bay.

Ultimate Concept

Martin also has said the question of increased building commission allocations for the new campus must depend as well upon the ultimate educational concept of the new campus — whether it is to be super-school of the US Madison campus variety or a more conservative institution primarily interested in undergraduate and some graduate education — and on actual financial considerations when bonds are to be sold for the funding of the campus.

He opposes developing too complex an institution in Northeastern Wisconsin, saying that such a step was not the intent of the Legislature in approving the new campus, and adds that if interest rates are favorable, he may support increased funds for development beyond the $8.9 million already approved for buildings on the two new campuses during the next two years.

Froehlich passed over an outright Democratic campus foe in William Rogers of Kaukauna. Rogers actively sought the position.

Would Oppose Funds

Before the announcement was made Thursday, Rogers said that if placed on the commission he would oppose any additional funds beyond those already approved for the campus unless the commission stipulated that the money could not be used until his bill to change the site of the campus is acted upon by the Legislature.

He also has warned that if his bill is not enacted, some supporters of the measure will fight to delete all funds for the UW-GB, but has said that he will not take that step.

Froehlich's proposal to increase commission membership by three representatives from each house could allow him to place Rogers on the commission at a later date this session as the new, additional minority party representative.

have been advanced before. He advocated increased Social Security benefits, higher payments to veterans and their families, a system of tax sharing to return some federal revenues to the states, an overhaul of the antipoverty program and the streamlining of government.

"The Republicans put their best foot backwards," said House Democratic Leader Carl Albert. "Their record is there for all to see, and it is a record of sheer indifference."

Albert said the Republican offering was "the old broken record of fear, alarm, distrust and futile carping."

Ford not only challenged Johnson's proposed 6 per cent surcharge on corporate and most individual income taxes, he called for reinstatement of a tax break that had been offered to businesses which invest in new equipment. That is the 7 per cent investment tax credit, which Congress has suspended until next year.

'Signs of Slowdown

"There are ominous signs of an economic slowdown," Ford said. "Unless our course is redirected decisively, the nation may well face the paradox of a recession while paying higher prices and higher taxes."

He called for a budget-cutting drive and for passage of a law withdrawing Johnson's authority to spend unused appropriations voted by past Congresses.

"The President has not made a convincing case for his tax increase," Ford said. "Until he does, we are against it."

Dealing with foreign affairs, Dirksen said Republicans will not heed the demands and demonstrations which seek retreat in Vietnam.

'Unthinkable Course'

"That, of course, is an unthinkable course," he said.

"Have self-inspired fears of Soviet or Red Chinese intervention dissuaded us from a more vigorous effort on land, sea and in the air to bring this conflict to an end?" Dirksen asked.

He said such an effort would include "stern measures to stop the inflow of supplies, food and weapons from supposedly neutral nations.

"Let us make plain to the world that we mean business," Dirksen declared, and the Republicans cheered. "In this grim undertaking, a teaspoonful of gospel is not enough.

"We must do all that is necessary until the freedom and independence of Vietnam are assured."

Evils From War

He said the home-front evils brought by war are multiplying. "Small wonder that the spirit of the nation is vexed and troubled," Dirksen said.

"We in the loyal opposition demand that this administration reinforce its determination to bring this conflict to an end in the shortest possible time," he added.

At the same time, Dirksen said, the administration must look beyond the war "to where we shall stand and with whom we shall sit when the conflict ceases.

"Do we sit down at the conference table and bargain with elements other than the duly constituted government in Hanoi?" Dirksen asked. "To do so might mean that any agreements reached would disintegrate overnight."

That remark apparently was aimed at talk of negotiations involving the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong. Secretary of State Dean Rusk has said there would be no difficulty in having the views of the Viet Cong presented "at any serious negotiations."

Dirksen said U.S foreign and trade policy is deteriorating around the world, and called for "a clear, thorough and courageous evaluation" of those policies by Democrats, Republicans and leaders of business, agriculture and finance.

posted along the Washington and Oregon Coasts and southward to point St. George, Calif., with gale warnings south to Fort Bragg, Calif. Winds were clocked at 93 m.p.h. Thursday night on the Oregon Coast at Cape Blanco.

More tranquil weather dominated most other sections of the nation. Temperatures appeared moderating in the wake of snow and subzero cold across wide areas in the Midwest and Northeast. Below-zero readings were reported in only a few spots, with the coldest weather in northern Minnesota.

Seaman Lost

In the Northwest storm, the Coast Guard in Seattle reported an unidentified seaman was believed drowned Thursday when he was swept off a Norwegian freighter off Newport, Ore. Winds in the area were 75 to 80 m.p.h., with gusts up to 110 m.p.h.

Strong winds piled snow to 7-foot depths in Oregon Cascades. The Cayuse Pass was closed by a snowslide.

The gusty winds and rain closed the Columbia River bar and struck at some inland points in Oregon. Winds Thursday reached 110 m.p.h. on the coast and were up to 61 m.p.h. in Portland, about 80 miles from the coast.

Freighters were anchored on both sides of the Columbia River bar awaiting to enter and depart. Several brief power failures were reported in northwestern Oregon.

operations in which the Vietnamese command said a total of 43 Viet Cong were killed. Casualties to government troops were reported light in all five.

In the northern province of Thua Thien, the U.S. Marine base camp and airstrip at Phu Bai, 10 miles southeast of Hue, was hit by 30 to 35 mortar rounds today, but U.S. headquarters said U.S. casualties and damage to equipment were light.

The two planes that went down Thursday raised the total reported lost in the air war against the north to 462. North Vietnam claimed three planes were shot down Thursday.

Cause Unknown

One of the planes lost was a carrier-based Navy A6 Intruder and the other was an Air Force F4C Phantom jet. Each carried two men who were listed as missing. U.S. headquarters said the cause of the crashes was not known.

Air Force jet bombers pounded three railroad yards 50 to 60 miles northeast of Hanoi, and pilots reports damage to rail lines and boxcars.

Other Air Force pilots reported cutting the northeast rail line in five places 60 to 118 miles northwest of Hanoi. The two lines are the main rail arteries between Hanoi and China.

Only minor sniper fire was reported in Operation Cedar Falls, the big American sweep of the iron triangle 20 to 30 miles north of Saigon. U.S forces have reported killing 548 Communist soldiers since the operation started Jan. 8.

Ky Finding Less Trouble In Australia

BRISBANE, Australia (AP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's image has improved considerably in Australia's press since he arrived two days ago to thank the Australians for sending troops to South Vietnam.

Newspapers which before Ky's arrival intimated he wasn't wanted took a friendlier line as he completed a 42-hour stay in Canberra and flew to Brisbane to visit a jungle training camp.

Ky's visit to Canberra, the capital, was marked by sparse turnouts for demonstrations against the dapper premier. Arthur A. Calwell, leader of the opposition Labor party, has promised to lead massive demonstrations against Ky, but so far the demonstrations have been small and hecklers often have been drowned out by the applause of friendly crowds.

Biggest Cities

However, the big test will come when Ky visits Sydney and Melbourne, Australia's two biggest cities.

The newspapers made much of Ky's statement at a news conference Thursday that he would prefer to mingle with the people rather than be whisked from place to place.

Ky and his glamorous wife received an ovation when their plane touched down at Brisbane's Eagle Farm Airport shortly after midday. Ignoring security precautions, the couple ducked under a tape barrier to chat and shake hands with the cheering crowd.

the bill by law by the State Department of Administration, is was said that the cost of the measure to the state will be $200,000.

A section of the bill would require that half of the planning money released to date for the development of the two new campuses in Brown and Kenosha counties would revert to the state general fund treasury, but the Department of Administration said it was impossible to comply with that section of the proposed statute change.

Part of those funds have been allocated to the specific Shorewood site project, it was pointed out, and therefore are legally encumbered. The fiscal note assumed that the remainder of the $200,000 in planning money would be similarly encumbered before the bill can become law.

Tuberculosis is still a widespread killer. A current flu epidemic is being checked by issuing to every patient a gauze face mask to be worn in all public places.

I admit that I was glad to escape back into the Western comforts of what the Red Guards call an imperialist city — Hong Kong.

It was a relief to be away from the dinning message of Mao-think that throbs through every phase of existence over there.

Despite all its social welfare, equality of the masses, clean streets, China today robs a man of a single human right — freedom to make even basic decisions on how he and his family should live their lives.

Rockin' Round the Valley

Fans Jam-Pack Halls To Hear The Robbs

BY CHUCK POSNIAK

When The Robbs — Wisconsin's only pop band to reach the big time — returned to the area last week, all doubts about their talents disappeared.

More than half of the 4,000 people who saw them during their three engagements in Appleton were under the age of 18.

Set New Records

Backed by Private Property, a local band, at the Cinderella Ballroom Sunday afternoon, the 2,250 fans there broke the dance hall's attendance record of 20 years.

Another 1,000 18-year-olds who saw The Robbs at the Ivanhoe Wednesday night helped break that establishment's attendance record.

The greatest satisfaction to many who had seen the band before was to see The Robbs playing their own equipment. Last time they came light had to use the equipment of the back up bands. As one might guess, they didn't sound as good on someone else's equipment. The back-up bands, Private Property and The Four Jades With The Luv Bros., used The Robbs' equipment.

More Stars Promised

The Robbs did such a good job of satisfying the public that the managements of a few of the area's dance halls have promised to bring in more big stars. There even is talk that The Rolling Stones and The Animals might be included in this group of stars to be brought into Appleton. Let's hope.

The turnout at Cinderella is indicative of what's happening on Sundays all over the Fox Valley area. Sunday afternoons are as lively as Friday nights.

Both Country Aire and Cinderella have live music for teenagers on Sunday afternoons and a third teen dance starts Sunday in Kaukauna under the sponsorship of the Knights of Columbus of that city. If the teen dances are well attended the men's organization plans to sponsor the weekly series with area bands performing right through spring. The Ivanhoe also will begin featuring live music beginning Sunday. For the "swingin'" set Sunday afternoons are In.

'Avengers' Make Second Debut Tonight

BY TV SCOUT

9-10 (Channels 11-6-9) — British-made spy series, proves if enough viewers scream a cancelled program does get a second chance. This slick, amusing, fun-and-games thriller returns after its American fans staged a stormy protest when it was yanked off the schedule last summer. Avengers admirers will cheer that few changes have been made. The only noticeable one is that the series is now in vivid color, a considerable asset to the foggy British backdrops. Patrick Macnee and Diana Rigg are still the stars, the urbane Mr. Steed and the chic Mrs. Peel, and their foes are still the wayward intruders on polite and civilized society. In the first episode, a jauty affair, the improbable couple is draw innto the death of an astronomer (whose hair has turned white), and later speculation on life on Venus.

6:30-7 (Channels 11-6-9) — The Green Hornet neatly wraps up its two-parter: "Corpse of the Year." Britt Reid (Van Williams), a bit tired of the tricks of his Hornet imposter (those deadly rocket barrages do give you a headache!) thinks a society editor will give him a clue. But the poor chap turns up dead and the plot thickens from there.

6:30-7:30 (Channels 2-7-12) — Once more The Wild Wild West is concerned with the welfare of President Grant in an exotic, highly fictional episode.

7-8 (Channels 11-6-9) — Time Tunnel uses its imagination to give an off-beat and wildly unrealistic view of World War I. Our boys (James Darren and Robert Colbert) plop into northern Italy. The year: 1915. The action: the Italians on the run from the Germans. With the aid of frivolous science fiction, they are hiding in an old villa and worrying about the ghost of Nero as well as a very young Mussolini.

7:30-8:30 (Channels 4-5) — "The Yo-Ho-Ho and a Bottle of Rum Affair" is a salty, cheerful melodrama for The Man From U.N.C.L.E. with Dan O'Herlihy chewing up the scenery as drunken captain hired by THRUSH to transport a tidal wave machine to a small Pacific island.

8-8:30 (Channels 11-6-9) — In its second episode, Rango once again displays the fine, zany talents of its star, Tim Conway. This time he is hunting the robber of the Deadwood stage, and of course, is taking the business seriously. The only trouble with Conway is that he can't tell who is bad or good.

8-10 (Channels 2-7-12) — "The Delicate Delinquent" on Friday Night Movies is one of those energetic Jerry Lewis farces. This time the comedian is a janitor of a rundown New York tenement and is drawn into a lot of silliness with a variety of hoods, and his hero policeman, Darren McGavin, whom he tries to emulate. A 1957 release.

* * *

9-10 (Channels 4-5) — Now it's Laredo's turn with the amnesia bit. Of all people, Reese (Neville Brand) can't remember who he is after he is tossed from his horse. As you can suspect, it's a rowdy and often funny saga.

Liquor Is Boon To Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Legal liquor is a financial bonanza to Mississippi, compared to the state's old "black market tax" on bootleggers.

The Alcoholic Beverage Control Division reports the state received $6,140,570 in liquor income during the six months since statewide "prohibition" ended.

The old black market tax, a levy imposed by the state on products which could not be sold in the state legally, yielded Mississippi about $2.5 million a year.

'Alfie' Picked for Top 10 Movies of Year, Actress Also Cited

Paramount pictures' "Alfie" has been named one of the 10 best films of the year by the National Board of Review of Motion Pictures.

Actress Vivien Merchant also was citied by the organization as best supporting actress for her role in the film, currently in its American premiere engagement in New York City.

Miss Merchant, one of England's most distinguished actresses, portrays a drab housewife who becomes involved in a sordid affair with a hyperactive Cockney Lothario. The motion picture marks her first screen assignment since 1942, when, at the age of 13, she appeared in "The Way Ahead."

In 1963, Miss Merchant was honored as Britain's television actress of the year and she has scored many stage triumphs in her native land. She currently is appearing in the Broadway stage production of "The Homecoming," written by her husband, Harold Pinter.

"Alfie" stars Michael Caine in the title role. Shelley Winters plays Ruby and other actresses in featured roles are Millicent Martin, Julia Foster, Jane Asher, Shirley Anne Field and Eleanor Bron.

The movie was produced and directed by Lewis Gilbert.

Oklahoma Governor Changes One Policy

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma's new governor, Dewey Bartlett, says he plans to maintain several of the policies of his predecessor, Gov. Henry Bellmon. He will change one policy, he said.

Bellmon, a farmer, used to arrive at the Capitol before dawn. City-bred Bartlett goes to work at 8 a.m.

Over-Large Pear Crop Predicted for New York

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — New York State will probably grow so many pears in the future that it will have trouble selling them.

Prof. Elmer Hansen of the State Agriculture College told the State Horticultural Society that 39 per cent of the state's pear trees are so young they have not borne fruit.

Cold was the word this week, but last weekend's mild temperatures brought a girl in a swimming suit to the city beach at International Falls, Minn., usually one of the coldest spots in the nation. It was 33 degrees, tying a record high for the date, set in 1957. A few days later, the model had vanished and temperatures were more normal, around 20 below.

Infants were in the news. In Warren, Mich., the sons of Mr. and Mrs. George Grijak had his hospital bill of about $300 cancelled because he was the first customer in the new Bicounty Community Hospital. In Ann Arbor Mich., the statistics of 86 to 1 chances of twin birth were beaten five times from Jan. 11 to 16. Five sets of twins checked into the medical facility. In Germany, Mrs. Wolfgang Januschek, 29, previously treated with hormone fertility injections, gave birth Tuesday to quintuplets. Three of the babies died shortly after birth and the other two later died of respiratory complications.

In Florence, battered in November by floods, the fashions of next summer were paraded by their proud designers along the banks of the Arno River. After the Florence shows ended, the preview moved to Rome, where a summer of high waisted, short skirted fashions was also predicted.

While Princess Anne of Great Britain was shocking some of the more staid upper crust with her mini skirt, her aunt, Princess Margaret, attended a charity ball at the Old Assembly Rooms in Newcastle - Upon - Tyne, England Dr. Bernardo's charity ball is annually held to raise funds for the organization for the care of orphan children. Princess Margaret is president.

The topless controversy goes on, in various parts of the country, with police making arrests and judges clearing the barmaids or waitresses of indecent exposure charges, saying there is no criminal law against it. Mayor John Lindsay of New York asked for a law to cover the situation.

Norell Styles Cinch Waist, Slither Sheaths, Slit Skirts

BY JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Slit skirts and cinched waistlines are as sexy as short skirts.

That was the lesson Norman Norell had for his fashion cult at his spring cillection opening this week.

The dean of American couturiers, one of the few feared by the French, chose to introduce his style ideas more than two months after most U.S. designers, and in the midst of the European style presentations.

Spoofs Opening

At first the audience which included sultry-voiced Lauren Bacall, was startled over the possibility that Norell had sacked his perennial ladylike look and had joined the mini mob.

However, his show openers, those higher-than-thigh belted middy dresses on white-legged lasses, were just a spoof by the most copied and the most expensive of this country's style-makers. Hemlines are a mere inch or two above his model's knees.

Inch Waistline

Instead Norell presented the womanly body with wide contour belts that inched the natural waistline, and shifts that did not quite hug but skimmed closer to figures than Norell clothes have in nearly a decade.

Far more provocative than a sliced-off skirt was a slither of a sheath slashed vertically, exposing startling amounts of stemwork. Oriental - inspired crepe mandarin dresses in jewel colors were open to the hip on either side, or almost as high in front.

There were also belted trench coats, double-breasted and in bold horizontal stripes worn over pure white or soft pastel dresses.

There were hip-length jackets in racing checks, as well as gray flannels and deep navies, worn with round-collared jersey blouses tucked into tight-fitting waistbands.

For glittering formal occasions there were fisherman's trousers, skirts or fabric that looped at the ankles and gathered at the cinched waistline of the bodice back and front — all showered with blinking mirror-like sequins.

College Tells Dance Plans

KAUKAUNA — The crowning of a prince and princess from both the sophomore and freshmen classes will highlight the homecoming dance planned Jan. 24 from 8 p.m. to midnight at Outagamie County Teachers' College.

Miss Karen Belling is general chairman of the event, to be attended by students, parents, alumni and friends. Miss Kay Runge is chairman of the invitations committee; Fred Basis, decorations; Miss Linda Hermsen, tickets; Carl Pugh, program; Miss Mary Peerenboom, refreshments; Miss Margaret Landreman, publicity; Herbert Gosdeck, clean-up, and Miss Janice Conrad, cloakroom.

The dance is scheduled the evening before the school's final basketball game to be played against Dodge County Teachers' College. Parents of the players will be introduced at the game.

Daughter's Engagement Announced

LITTLE CHUTE — Mr. and Mrs. George J. Weyenberg, 1005 N. Wilson St., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Margaret M., to Thomas Otte. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Otte, 910 Wilson St., Kaukauna.

Miss Weyenberg is employed by Hartjes Insurance Agency. Her fiance is stationed at Ft. Hood, Tex., with the Army.

Lancetti Refuses to Oust Suit

By LEONORA DODSWORTH

ROME (AP) — The suit — almost a dirty word in fashion these days — made a determined comeback Wednesday night as showings of Italian spring and summer fashions continued.

Dress and jacket outfits might be getting more than their fair share of the limelight elsewhere, but designer Pino Lancetti holds that the suit, with a blouse, has a place in every woman's wardrobe.

Among others, he showed a pink wool suit, finely striped in yellow, teamed with a cuff-collared blouse in yellow striped with pink.

A city slicker suit in navy with a checked chiffon blouse was tied at the neck with a scarf. Classic jackets with pressed lapels were very short. So were skirts.

Lancetti has always liked very correct little coats, cut with an almost military precision. As usual, they appeared very prim and very proper in bright meltons with well designed waists by way of a bow of gentle gathers.

Flared Back

A second coat shape was a back-flaring tent fitted in front. Some of these swingbacks had belts which held only at the front.

Lancetti used a firm silk in an attractive straw-like weave for shirt dresses that looked a little like uniforms with businesslike patch pockets and tabbed shoulders.

Colors were bright and singing — sunny yellows, coral reds, shrimp, lobster and masses of grass green.

Delicious little short chiffons for long summer evenings had bare arms and were light as thistledown in barely perceptible prints. There were tent dresses, too, sleeveless and long in gauzy silks and organzas. Some were printed and some were in solid colors trimmed with rosettes.

Carol Burnett Has Daughter

The Swinging Set

Herman on Everything

BY SYLVIE REICE

Peter Blair Denis Bernard Noone ("They did all that for me before I was old enough to complain") alias, Herman of Herman's Hermits, is 19, looks much younger, and has the most delightful, individual opinions on everything. First off, to scotch rumors that Hermits are breaking up, Peter says: "How can you split up if you outsell the Beatles in England and are No. 1 in Malaysia!"

In fact, the Hermits are making a second movie in April. And here's a typical Peter Noone comment: "Our first movie was a Hollywood special — it had a ha-ha beginning, a sad middle and a ha-ha ending." Their second movie will be a very British movie, like the Beatles' first movie. Meanwhile, they keep winning the top slot on America's best-seller charts regularly.

Articulate Accent

Listening to Peter sound off is a joy. Not only is he bright and articulate and has that lovely Manchester accent, but he's so neat, well-dressed and handsome, like an English schoolboy gone fashionable.

ON JOHN LENNON (his favorite): "My first impression of John Lennon is that he knows everything. He's not a normal person — how can anyone be surprised at anything Lennon does! He's outside the rest of us. Lennon is always getting into trouble with people (referring to Lennon's infamous "Beatles Are Bigger Than Christ" remark) because he is himself not an image. A phenomenon like the Beatles happens only once a decade — before them it was Presley, before that Sinatra . . . The Beatles are doing the only thing they can in going their separate ways. You can't tour all your life. That they can split up and still be popular proves their talent."

Becoming Cool

ON TODAY'S GENERATION OF ENGLISH GIRLS: "They're becoming 'cool' — which means to me no personality and white faces. The new thing is to hide your face and personality. People get so individual that they all end up looking the same."

ON TOURING: "I like Germany — it's a man's country. The Germans laugh and sing a lot. East Berlin was the most depressing thing I've ever seen — there were no houses, no people on the streets, just old gray buildings . . . It's funny how different people are — in Israel, they had never seen long hair; in Japan only the bad guys wear long hair . . . Americans go to pubs, but they don't play games and they don't sing. They just sit. Why don't they have darts or something?"

ON MEN'S FASHION: "Suits (yes, that's what he said, suits) are the latest clothing fad in England. The American men all look as if they ordered their suits on the phone."

Dull Crimes

ON CRIME: "Crimes are so dull nowadays; there are no crooks with imagination left. The last great one was The Great Train Robbery — it was so interesting, they had it all timed to the second. And the police caught only three of them. James Bond? He's too far-fetched. too many gadgets. I like crimes pulled off with everyday tools." (Maybe Peter will be our next great mystery writer?)

ON SPORT: "I used to go in for diving and flying. Then I got frightened. I suddenly had too much respect for me to do that sort of thing. No matter how deep you dive around England anyway, it's just oil and dirt that you hit."

Whether he chooses to remain

Peter Noone Alias Herman

TEEN-TALIZERS:

Designer Pierre Carden says "Flesh color stockings are indecent and too vulgar with short skirts . . . Stockings should match the dress." Yves St. Laurent concurs that flesh-colored stockings are wrong with today's high hems.

Hair trend predictions for girls: In 1967 hair will be short and curly — no more braids and no more bangs. We'll see!

Bayside, N.Y., teens are having fun at parties playing juvenile games like Pin The Tail on The Donkey . . . In New York City teen scavenger hunt parties are popular. Guests are divided into teams, given lists of things to find and given a time limit for the search. After the hunt, it's eating and dancing time.

Your Problems

Cab Driver Dislikes Status as 'Listening Post' for Problems

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a Chicago cab driver and, believe me, hacking in Chicago is a tough way to make a buck. But the worst part of the job isn't the driving, its' the people who get into the cab and right away they want to tell you their troubles.

Yesterday I had a lady who was going to the airport. She started to tell me a long story about her husband running around with a girl who works in his office. She got so worked up that she hit me on the back with her purse and hollered, "How do you like that for an old goat with grandchildren?

Finally I said, "Look, Mrs., why don't you write to Ann Landers and let me drive this cab?"

She yelled, "I DID write to Ann Landers and she told me I need to talk to somebody about my problem so I am talking to you." Now I know you don't mean for people to tell their troubles to cab drivers. What you mean is they should talk to ministers or marriage counselors and like that. So please, Ann Landers, make it clear to the folks who write you. Much obliged. — Big Red

Dear Red: People who tell their troubles to cab drivers don't want advice. They just want somebody to listen.

A cab driver can be the ideal person to unload on because he's a stranger, he couldn't care less about who is to blame, and the passenger will probably never see him again. So, be a good egg and listen.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I will be celebrating our 20th wedding anniversary next month. The problem is that he wants to buy me a mink coat for my anniversary and I don't want one. I am going through the change and what I need most of the time is a fan, not a fur coat.

My husband says I am being selfish. He claims that I am depriving him of one of the greatest pleasures a man can have — presenting his wife with something special. If you say he is right, I will consider it. May I hear from you please? — Shaker Heights

Dear Shaker Heights: I urge you to reconsider. Forget about yourself. Make the sacrifice. Put your husband's wishes first. Think Mink. You'll be glad you let him talk you into it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What do you think about a grown man who has a faithful wife (not beautiful, just average looking) and two adorable children, yet the only picture he carries in his billfold is one of his mother and father?

Some men have pictures of the wife and children on their desks, but we don't even rate a billfold. This may sound like a petty complaint but it hurt me deeply when I opened my husband's shirt drawer yesterday and discovered the new pictures I had made up for the wallet. This morning I checked and found that he is still carrying the old picture of his parents.

Dear Left Out: I'll bet your husband has been carrying that old picture of his parents for many years — and I hope you'll remain silent and let him do it as long as he wants to. The fact that he doesn't carry your picture doesn't mean he cares less for you and the children. It simply means he feels guilty about making the change and he just can't bring himself to do it.

Want to say "no" to drinking without your buddies putting you down? Get cued in. Write for "Booze and You — For Teen-Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 35c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Watch for Blink of Opponent

Bridge is not normally a contact sport, but in some hands you stand eyeball to eyeball with an opponent, wondering what all the blinking is about. The little-known Law of Restricted Choice may solve your problem.

Opening lead — ♡ 5

East took the ace of hearts and returned the ten for West to ruff. West returned a diamond to the ace, and back came another heart.

South stepped up with the ace of trumps and led the ten of spades next. West covered with the jack, dummy's queen won, and East dropped the eight. South got to his hand with the jack of diamonds and led a low spade. West followed with the six, and South had his problem.

If East had started with the singleton eight of trumps, the winning play was to finesse with dummy's seven of spades. But if East had started with the doubleton 9-8, the winning play was to go up with dummy's king of spades. The singleton 8 and the doubleton 9-8 are almost equally likely.

Works It Out

South used the Law of Restricted Choice to work it out. His reasoning becomes clear if you take 200 hands and assume that in the first hundred East has the singleton eight and that in the second hundred East has the 9-8 of spades.

East must play the eight of spades in all of the first hundred hands because he has no choice. He plays the eight in only about 50 of the second hundred hands; the rest of the time he falsecards by dropping the nine.

As a result, the play of the eight is about twice as likely to be made when East has the singleton eight as when he has the doubleton 9-8. Using this principle is usually a lot more effective than trying to interpret an opponent's blinking.

Daily Question

Dealer, at your right, opens with one spade. You hold: S A 10 5 4 H K 7 D J 10 6 2 C A Q 8. What do you say?

Answer: Pass. A takeout double would be unsound because you lack support for hearts, the unbid major. Your hand is not quite strong enough for an overcall of one notrump. Your best bet is to pass and await developments.

The Ailing House

Old Bricks In Basement Do Erode

Q: The bricks in the basement of our 70-year-old house are eroding badly. What is causing this condition? More importantly, how can we stop it?

A: Old age taking its toll. However, it's often possible to arrest this erosion or powdering away by applying a coat or two of transparent liquid cement hardening preparation. Just as it works well on crumbling, powdering mortar, it can firm up brick. Available at most building supplies dealers, lumber yards.

Q: Our roof never leaks in summer, no matter how hard it rains. But it leaks badly in winter. We have no vents, and I was told this is the reason. This causes condensation and moisture, my friend said. Would this also cause mildew and promote decay?

A: Your friend is exactly right. The roof itself seems tight enough — otherwise it would leak in summer too. It's the condensation causing the moisture. To get rid of this, put in a fixer louver (vent) high up in each gable end. This will provide needed cross ventilation to drive out dampness. This in turn will check any mildew and decay.

Q: As a protection against future problems, is there any way to find out if there is an underground water source which could cause a damp basement? If so, then this would be a poor place to build. Who knows about such things?

A: In some communities, the city's engineer's office is the place to go. Others it's a county function to know about these underground conditions. The water commissioner's office should also be able to help out. You are quite right in taking such precautions to avoid real problems later on.

Right to Work Unlimited Hours Recommended

MADISON (AP)—A report to the State Industrial Commission recommends unlimited hours for women workers.

Commission Chairman Joseph Fagan called the report by a special commission committee a "major achievement."

The report, submitted Thursday, recommends time-and-a-half pay for women working in excess of 48 hours a week. But the provision would not cover household employment or any executive and administrative jobs.

Women currently are allowed to work no more than nine hours daily or 50 hours a week for day work, or eight hours daily or 48 hours a week for night work in some industries.

The commission regulates hours and wages in Wisconsin.

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

Round Face

A Lovely writes: I have a moon face, but not the dreamy "moon baby" kind you read about. Everything about my face is round. Yet I have a slim figure. What's the solution?

The Answer: When there is no weight problem, the slimming tactics for a round face is cosmetic camouflage. The kind to use is based on the artist's principle of shadowing to minimize curve. These are the steps:

First shadow the cheeks. For the job you need brownish contour cream or brush-on. Both are more effective if applied over a skin-toned foundation. To apply the contour cosmetic, start in the center of the cheek and blend to form a wide triangle that overlaps the side of the jaw.

Using the same cosmetic, next shadow the eyelids from the center of the lashline upward to the eyebrow and outward to the temple. Then, with brown or black eye pencil, draw a soft line close to the lashes, starting a quarter-inch from the inner corner of the lid and ending just beyond the outer corner in an upsweep. Finish by brushing the eyebrows in the straightest possible line.

In addition, give the lips a slow curve — elongate their shape with flat brush strokes. And, for its ovalizing effect, brush the hair up from the forehead and back at the temples.

With practice you become adept at those tricks. You look just lovely, and no one the wiser.

You are not lost to youthful beauty because of dark circles, puffiness, or wrinkles around the eyes. These problems can be brought under control by proper skin care, cosmetic applications, health habits and facial expressions. Methods are detailed in my leaflet, The Eyes of Youth. To obtain your copy, write Mary Sue Miller in care of The Post-Crescent, enclosing 10 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.
